

HUERTA STILL DENIES THE FALL OF TORREON

Cancellation of Exequatur of the American Consular Agent by Huerta Failed to Disturb Of- ficials at Washington

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The cancellation of the exequatur of the American Consular Agent by Huerta failed to disturb Officials at Washington.

Mr. Carothers obtained his exequatur when he was accredited to the Madero government and stationed at Torreón. Since the outbreak of the Carranza revolution he has had a revolving commission in northern Mexico and his exequatur from the Mexican City government has been of little value to him, all his dealings being with the constitutionalists.

Should Mr. Carothers find it necessary to go into territory controlled by the Huerta government he may be unable to do business with its local authorities but there is no prospect that he personally will be inconvenienced or prevented from making observations as an unofficial representative. Neither John Lind nor William Bayard Hale had an exequatur while in federal territory.

Official advice telling of the expulsion of the 600 Spaniards from Torreón by Villa were expected during the day.
Until the Spanish ambassador calls it to the attention of state department officials here there is little likelihood of any action by the Washington government. The United States has issued a warning to its own citizens to leave those parts of Mexico where military operations are being carried on and has more than once intimated that other governments might take similar steps. The right of deportation is one provided for under the Mexican constitution and has been exercised alike by the Huerta government and the constitutionalists for adjusted military or financial support of the enemy and various other reasons.

FEDERALS FLEE FROM THE REBELS—BURN BRIDGES AND CUT WIRES

TORREÓN, Mex., April 6.—Cutting all wires and burning all bridges be-crosses with his army in retreat. General Iturbide Velasco has had a considerable success in his operations. Four-hundred rebel cavalry have been sent by Villa to assist in overtaking the federals.

Velasco succeeded in taking not only the major portion of the federal army but also all the prominent federal sympathizers in Torreón.

GEN. VILLA ISSUES ORDERS THAT SPANIARDS AT TORREÓN BE DEPORTED

TORREÓN, April 6.—General Francisco Villa yesterday ordered that the 600 Spaniards of this city be deported.
He issued instructions that trains be provided at once and that the exodus to El Paso, Texas, should begin at once. Their property will be confiscated, temporarily at least.

It is the tragedy of Chihuahua over-again, and is said to express the deep-rooted suspicion and even hatred with which the poor, looks upon the Spaniard.

Villa expelled the Spaniards from Chihuahua four months ago, and since then has repeatedly stated that other Spaniards would better get out of Mexico before he caught them. His abiding conviction, that they were working as one man against the revolution, found frequent expression while he was in Juarez, at which time he asserted he would execute every one that he found in Torreón. The Spanish government was aroused and Washington descended on the constitutional chief with words of warning and admonition.

Villa promised that Spaniards innocent of political activity should not be harmed. This was official, but in talking with reporters and friends it was said his temper frequently betrayed him into the most tragic threats. Some of these constantly associated with the rebel leader said he did not expect to and many Spaniards who would deserve his clemency.

THE CHALIFOUX CORNER

Why worry? You've a better store than ever to trade at. Our prices dealt some mighty blows to old H. C. of L. People hereabout appreciate this. They tell us so when they trade here. Our store is easily entered. Two entrances on Merrimack street, three on Central street. Safe plungers elevators carry you to floors filled with merchandise, selling at prices you can afford.

*High cost of living.

Their expulsion, it is said, is taken to indicate that all are to be held guilty until innocence is proved.

Villa promised he would investigate closely the conduct of each Spaniard and that in due course, those found to have lent no aid to the enemy would be allowed to return.

3 months, died yesterday morning at his home, 64 Ford street, after a prolonged illness. He leaves a wife, also his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Adrien Cote of this city; two illness. She leaves two sons, Ovide, ber of St. Anne's sodality of St. Joseph's parish.

FUNERAL NOTICE

McNAMARA—The funeral of the late Susan McNamara, widow of John McNamara, will take place tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from the chapel of James F. O'Donnell & Sons.
A mass of requiem will be sung at the Immaculate Conception church at 9 o'clock. Burial will take place in St. Patrick's cemetery, under the direction of James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

SCIENTISTS CONVENE CINCINNATI, O., April 6.—A gathering of scientists from all parts of the country began here today with the arrival of the members of the American Chemical society for their annual convention. Nearly 1000 delegates, chiefly professors of chemistry from the leading universities and prominent chemists in the industrial world, are in attendance. A business meeting is to be held in the evening to be presided over by Theodore W. Richards, president of the society and professor of chemistry at Harvard.

BRYAN STILL CONFINED

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Secretary Bryan, who has been suffering from a heavy cold, was still confined to his home today, but was up and about, giving personal attention to state department affairs.

There are at least a dozen candidates for the position of sealer of weights and measures made vacant by the death of John W. Scott, and it is hinted that the position will go either to Warren Hordard or Geo. E. Evans.
Mr. Hordard is slightly acquainted with politics, having served as private secretary to Mayor Meehan. Mr. Evans is a seasoned politician, having served as superintendent of streets and registrar of voting. He is at present employed in the registrar's office. Mr.
Hordard has been on his sick bed, but does not always count in the race for office.

How about that "Seely Dinner" Supt. Welch?

At a recent meeting of the municipal council, Commissioner Brown, in speaking to a question of personal privilege, declared that he would soon have something to say about a "Seely dinner" that was held in a downtown office building, but thus far he has not made any move in that direction nor has he given the council or the public any further information.

His remarks, however, have had the effect of rouning the public mind to the seriousness of the charge, and the town has been rife with gossip concerning this so-called "Seely dinner." The substance of current rumor would indicate that a disgraceful performance of the sort mentioned by Mr. Brown actually did occur in our city, and hence it would seem to be the duty of Supt. Welch to investigate the whole affair without any delay, and if possible to bring to justice any and all persons who were responsible for this nauseating exhibition.

If Supt. Welch's official hands were ever tied, he cannot claim that they are tied now, for under the direction of Mayor Murphy he has shown commendable vigilance in the recent crusade against the lunge and other dances of the so-called animal variety, and it is alleged that the dance at the "Seely dinner" was a thousand times worse than any lunge or animal dance ever given in Lowell.

According to the current gossip of the street, three women dancers were brought to this city from Boston, and a number of local gentlemen were informed that a very interesting exhibition would be given on the third floor of a Central street office building on a certain night and that there would be wine, cigars, etc. The whole performance to cost the spectators something like $3 or $4 a head. Several of those notified agreed to be present knowing the nature of the performance, while others who put in an appearance did so under a misapprehension, and were deeply mortified to find themselves present at an indecent and illegal exhibition without any means of escape.

A portion of the room, it is said, was set apart for a temporary stage, screens and curtains were adjusted so that the dancers and the managers of the affair were hidden from view between the dances, and the announcements to the assemblage.
The first dances were performed in ballet dress but after each succeeding dance the women retired behind the screens and gradually reduced their clothing, reappearing each time with less and less until finally they were without even the ballet costume. Meanwhile champagne was being handed around quite liberally and the managers and the dancers consumed their share, if not a little more, between the acts and behind the screens.

In the end, it is alleged, that the women appeared before the spectators in the nude and went through a series of performances of the most disgusting character. At this point in the show, it is claimed, that some of the spectators fearing a visit from the police, attempted to get out of the room, but were prevented from so doing.
Protest was of no avail and they were compelled to remain through what, according to the report, was the most disgraceful exhibition ever seen in this city.

Is it not the duty of the superintendent of police, therefore, to investigate this whole affair and see if it is possible to bring the promoters of this shocking performance to justice? If Commissioner Brown has any information concerning the details of this reprehensible debauch, it would seem that Supt. Welch could get it, but in any event there is enough talk about town to indicate that the superintendent should not have much difficulty in getting all the particulars necessary to present the case to the proper authorities.

Besides the violation of the law against such indecent performances, if these rumors are well founded, there was also a flagrant violation of the liquor law, for the building was not licensed for the sale of champagne at $3 per head, or any other price. As it is not up to Supt. Welch to find out who were the men who brought these dancing women to Lowell, who acted as stage managers, who poured the wine and who collected the money for the show and the drink?

The mayor having started in a laudable crusade against immoral dances and questionable theatrical performances, the superintendent of police will be but carrying out his superior's instructions in sitting this matter to the bottom.
This is no time to stop the good work. Let the crusade continue and let the promoters of this disgraceful "Seely dinner" be hunted down in order that nothing of the kind may be attempted again in our city. Do your duty, Supt. Welch, and do it without delay and without fear. The citizens of Lowell and the mayor of our city are behind

WORKMEN BORING NEW WELLS

The land on either side of the river boulevard and known as the boulevard well land is the scene of great activity these days and it all has to do with Lowell's water problem. Lowell was worried about her water supply but there seems to have been no real cause for worry. Fears were expressed in certain quarters that the boulevard wells were slowly but surely giving up the ghost and that Lowell in the not distant future would have to look for a new water supply. Within the last month or so, however, experts have stated that there is still lots of water at the boulevard and all that is required is a rearrangement of the wells. The work of rearranging the wells includes the taking up of old wells and the putting in of new wells. The street department has about 30 men engaged in the work of taking up old wells and installing new ones and work of this nature is being carried on at different points. The work is being pushed along quite rapidly because the "digging" is easy. There is no ledge to contend with and after the big pipe driver has penetrated a somewhat obscure layer of hard clay the rest is easy. The driving machine is operated by means of a crank. In the picture accompanying this article the weight in the tall driver is down. The crank will send it up again and when it strikes the top it is released and falls back again on the point. It is a slow process at best. Commissioner Carmichael has charge of the water department and he intends to install about 200 new wells. This will increase the water producing area and it is hoped, will reduce the amount of iron and manganese in the water. The pump shown in the picture is called a "test pump" and is used for the purpose of testing the temperature of the water. The average depth of the wells is about 40 feet and that represents some considerable digging.

MAN FINED $25

For Driving Auto While Under Influence of Drink

Sing Wah, the Chinese laundryman who was arrested at his Pawtucketville laundry last week and charged with having in his possession an opium smoking outfit and a number of Chinese "policy" slips, appeared today on continuance.

Lawyer Toye, counsel for the defendant, pleaded guilty to both charges. Sing Wah received the same sentence as that meted out last week to his fellow countryman. He was fined $25 on the opium complaint and $25 for being present where gambling implements were found.

Daniel Gillis, a young man from Lawrence, was charged with driving an auto while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty.
Supt. Welch stated to the court that

ABSOLUTE DIVORCE

Desertion and Misconduct

LONDON, April 6.—The decree of divorce granted to Mrs. George Cornwallis West, formerly Lady Randolph Churchill, and a daughter of the late Edward, Duke of Devonshire, was made absolute by the divorce court here today, the requisite period having elapsed since the first decree.
The grounds were statutory, desertion and misconduct.
Mrs. Cornwallis West will in future be known as Lady Randolph Churchill.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

NO ACTION TAKEN AT SPECIAL SESSION CALLED ON SATURDAY EVENING

The special meeting of the school committee held Saturday afternoon, called ostensibly for the purpose of considering the proposition to rescind its action taken at the regular meeting whereby the services of janitors were dispensed with on Saturdays during the month of April, adjourned without taking action of any kind.
The janitors, at a conference between their representatives and the school committee, had asked that such action so far as it affected their Saturday work, be deferred until the month of November, claiming that they would be able to save the amount represented by Sunday wages in April, $45 in other ways. Immediately upon the calling of the special meeting, Mr. Campbell moved adjournment and it was speedily voted. There was no discussion whatever.

MAN KILLED BY TRAIN AND ANOTHER BY GAS

Unknown Man Cut in Twain at Billerica Depot—David Sheehan
Asphyxiated in Middlesex Street
Boarding House

A man was killed at the North Bil-
Lowell at 9.18 this morning. It appears that he was getting off the train and in so doing ran against the bridge and was knocked back under the wheels. His body was cut in twain.
Nobody at the depot knew him and Undertaker Healey was called to remove the remains. The man was well dressed and the station agent thought he belonged in Keene, N. H.

Man Killed by Gas

The strong odor of illuminating gas in front of the Middlesex House, a looking house located at 545 Middlesex street, caused the discovery about seven o'clock this morning of the dead body of David Sheehan, evidently a victim of gas asphyxiation.

The dead man has occupied the room in which he was found for the past six or eight months, and was well known in that vicinity. He was somewhat over fifty years of age and of a robust physique.

Sheehan had been out of work for some time past and on several occasions had uttered expressions of discouragement. He was a man who drank rather heavily at times and it is said, had been drinking before he retired last night.
There is no bracket in the room where the dead man was found, the gas being turned on from a gas-cock set close to the wall. When the body was discovered this morning the gas was wide open. Medical Examiner
Meigs will view the body later.

3 KILLED IN FALL OF BRIDGE

Engine and Two Cars Dropped Into Water
—35 Injured

Engineer and Baggage Men Crushed to Death
—Fireman Scalded

ATTICA, Ind., April 6.—Three persons were killed and about 35 others injured, some of them seriously, when the Wabash passenger train No. 4, known as the Continental Limited, was wrecked when the bridge over the Wabash river, just west of here, gave way yesterday. The engine, a baggage car and the day coach dropped into the water.
When the cars left the bridge the crowded day coach fell with the rear end out of the water and though the majority of the injured were in this car, none of them was killed. The car had settled in the water before the work of rescuing the passengers was commenced and in a few minutes all had been taken out.
They were taken to a hospital at Lafayette on a special train.

The Dead and Injured

The dead:
MILLER, J. L., Peru, Ind., fireman, Scalded.
HULL, TIMOTHY, Peru, Ind., engineer, crushed beneath engine.
THOMAS, HARRY, Huntington, Ind., baggage master, crushed by trunks.
Among the injured are:
Gemmer, Lorenz E., Indianapolis, aged 10; internal injuries; not expected to live.
Krauss, Frank, Wheeling, W. Va., cut about head and back injured.
Gruswiski, Walter, Georgetown, Ill., ankle broken.
Cunningham, T. W., Tulsa, Ok., back injured.
Slusson, Charles, Cataline, Ill., injured internally.
Bliss, Frank, Detroit, scalp cut and leg injured.
Polen, Vase, Kewanna, Ind., injured internally.
Webb, J. E., Peru, Ind., ribs fractured and back injured.

Weakened by Earlier Wreck

The railroad's bridge over the Wabash river was weakened early yesterday when a freight train was wrecked under the structure. The Continental Limited was stopped on the west side of the bridge and a switch engine was sent across to determine whether the structure would hold the passenger train. Railroad officials believed it safe and the Limited was ordered to proceed.
The train crept out on the bridge slowly, and when about 100 feet out on the structure the bridge gave way beneath the weight. The engineer was caught under his engine and crushed to death.
The fireman, who jumped, was scalded to death, and when the front end of the baggage car was toppled downward Thomas was crushed beneath an avalanche of trunks.

BIG CUT IN COAL PRICES

LARGE BOSTON CONCERN AN-NOUNCED A REDUCTION OF 75 CENTS A TON, TODAY

BOSTON, April 6.—A reduction of 75 cents a ton in the price of coal this morning has been announced by one of the largest concerns in Boston and it is expected that there will be a general cut this week. This is doubtless the usual spring reduction, but in view of the recent increase in wages at the mines and the increase in transportation cost, it is considered by most dealers a surprisingly large one.
One company announces the following reductions to go into effect today:
Pumice coal, from $7.25 to $6.50 a ton; egg, from $5 to $4.25; stove, from $8 to $7.25; chestnut, from $8.25 to $7.50 and pea, from $6.25 to $5.50.

LOCAL OPTION QUESTION

TWENTY COUNTIES VOTING TO-DAY—EIGHT OF THE COUNTIES
"DRY"—BITTER CAMPAIGN

LANSING, Mich., April 6.—Twelve counties of Michigan today voted on the local option question. Eight of the counties are now "dry." The campaign this year has been hotly waged. Man thousands of dollars have been spent for campaign literature and scores of mass meetings have been held.
Probably the fiercest fight has been in Ingham county, which contains Lansing, the state capital. In 1910 Ingham went dry by a majority of less than 1000. Two years ago it voted against prohibition by about 450 majority.

TO ATTEMPT COME BACK

MARTIN J. SHERIDAN, FORMER WORLD'S ALL-ROUND ATHLETE, STARTS TRAINING

NEW YORK, April 6.—Martin J.
Sheridan, the former world's champion and all-around athlete, has started training with the expectation of winning back his lost laurels. Sheridan has been out of athletics for some time.
He will probably enter several meets during the summer in preparation for the national Amateur Athletic Union championships in September. His anchorage, is toward the Olympics in 1916 and he hopes to be back to his old time form to represent the United States at that time.
Sheridan made his all-around record on July 5, 1909.

GAMBLING RAIDS

The police executed two gambling raids last Saturday night and early Sunday morning which resulted in no less than 15 men being taken to the station on the charge of being present where a game was being conducted or maintaining a gambling house.
Shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday night, Sgt. Petrie, Special Officer Clark, Patrolman Kinner, O'Sullivan, Regan and J. T. Kelly broke into a coffee house at the upper end of Market street and arrested a crowd of nine men among whom was the proprietor, Bill Alexandropoulos. Officers Joy, Dwyer, Moore, Casella and Farrs made the other raid just before 2 o'clock Sunday morning on Decatur avenue. Frank Parent, William O'Brien, Edward Trumble, Joseph Carpenter, Hermilias Meunier, Alfred De-nat, Joseph Perrot, Thomas Chouinard and Alfred Columbe were the men arrested in this endeavor. They were all charged with gambling on the Lafayette day.

REV. DR. JAS. H. EEOB

TALKED IN TEAM WORK AT Y. M.
C. A. MEN'S MEETING—HE ALSO SPOKE AT PASTORAL CHURCH

Rev. Dr. James H. EEOB of New York spoke at the Y. M. C. A. men's meeting Sunday afternoon and explained "team work" as it applies to social service and everyday life. Dr. EEOB is a member of the advisory committee of the Institute of Social Service.

He said that the business of team work is a very big thing and while it is not very enthusiastic over athletes, he believes that the best thing in athletics is the development of team work. The solitary game is no good, he declared. He said the thing that binds one of our number binds all of us. He pointed out the inefficiency and helplessness of a man considered alone. It is only by the team work of all that the community enjoys its comforts and conveniences and its blessings. The business man who plays the game that everything must come to him will find all things worth living for come from him. It was team work that was the helpful thing. Team work meant pulling together, helping each other. Society is the group or the team and it is society that is doing all the things that are done.

At Pastoral Church

Dr. EEOB spoke at the Pastoral church last night on "The Religion of Social Service." He said that the shifting of the population into cities has been so rapid that the people do not know what to do with themselves. In most of our large and growing cities there are not homes enough for the people, not schools enough for the children, not conveniences enough to get the people about their business and pleasure. Here are problems that have come upon us so rapidly that we are not prepared for them. We are still beginning to realize, for example, that the slum does not pay, or that three-fourths of our industrial slum is in need of help.

Now if we could only be patient with ourselves and with each other, bear our growing pains with steady nerve and work together in brotherhood and good will, many of our problems would disappear of themselves. The others would come to solution in orderly and natural sequence.

Sunday, the pastor, Rev. C. E. Fisher, D. D., preached on "Some of the Lessons of Palm Sunday." He said that the lesson that the people of Jesus was that of a spiritual king, a leader intrinsically greater than that of the most crowned monarch. "Inasmuch as in our daily lives we exercise self-denial and purity of motive," said the preacher, "in just such degree are we disciples of Jesus Christ. As Jesus was a spiritual ruler, so let us pattern after him, strive for spiritual domination over our lower natures. We owe a debt to the great Nazarene for the emulating pattern of moral and spiritual exemplarship he has given unto us. Then let us enroll ourselves under His white banner, and in the midst of the turmoil of this busy world show that we appreciate our divine leader in standing firm for righteousness."

Monahan and Chief Ranger Murphy and Chief Ranger Monahan were chosen delegates to the annual state convention, while Stephen Breen and John J. Mahoney were chosen as alternates.

WAS RIDING FREIGHT

FROM DEATH—NOW AT ST.
JOHN'S HOSPITAL

A young man who gave his name as Albert Norbury, and who claimed his home is in Indiana, jumped from a moving freight car yesterday afternoon and miraculously escaped death, for he slipped beneath the car, but, fortunately, rolled out just in time to prevent the wheels from passing over his body. As it was the young man sustained a broken rib and possible internal injuries as the result of his fall.

According to the young man's story told at St. John's hospital, whether he was removed shortly after the accident, he has been traveling across the country from Indiana. Yesterday he was riding a freight bound for Ayer, whereas he believed the train was bound for Worcester. He found out his mistake shortly after the freight had gone through this city, and immediately leaped from the car he was riding and in so doing partly rolled across the track over which the freight was passing, but fortunately escaped being ground under the wheels. On account of his broken rib he was unable to move further and was found a short time later by railroad men who removed him to the home of Dr. James F. Toban, whence he was removed to the hospital.

It was stated at the hospital that the young man spent a comfortable night and that his condition is rapidly improving.

AMONG THE SENATORS

THIRTY-THREE ARE TO BE ELECTED

ED NEXT FALL AND SOME SHARP
CONTENTS ARE UNDER WAY

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Thirty-three United States senators are to be elected this year by direct vote of the people in the first general test of the 17th amendment to the constitution.

Terms of 31 present members of the senate expire March 3, next, and in addition to these successors must be chosen to the late Senator Johnston of Alabama, and the late Senator Bacon of Georgia.

In Georgia, besides a successor to Senator Bacon, there will be a contest over the seat of Senator Hoke Smith. Mr. Smith will seek to retain his seat. In Alabama besides the election of a successor to Senator Johnston for the regular term beginning March 3 next, there will be a senator chosen to fill his unexpired term, which will sit until March 3, 1915, only.

Of the sitting members of the senate most of the republicans whose terms expire are candidates to succeed themselves, although they have been running for Senators Bradley of Kentucky, Gallinger of New Hampshire, and Root of New York, might retire. No definite announcements have been made, however, in these cases.

Of the democrats whose terms expire, all except Senator Thornton are candidates to succeed themselves. Senator Shively of Indiana already has been nominated in convention and in the recent Arkansas primaries, according to uncanvassed returns, Senator Clark was nominated by a small majority. There may be some controversy over this nomination.

In Alabama, the senatorial primaries will be held today. Representative Underwood and Representative Richmond Pearson Hobson being the candidates for the long term. The result of that contest is being awaited with interest, not only in Washington, but throughout the country.

A lively contest already is under way in Kansas, where Representative Victor Murdock seeks the senatorial nomination at the hands of the progressive party to enter the lists against Senator Bristow and where Ex-Senator Curtis seeks to win the republican nomination from Senator Bristow.

The fight in Pennsylvania already is booming, primaries to be held next month. The outlook is that Senator Penrose will be nominated by the republicans; Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, by the democrats, and Gifford Pinchot as the candidate of the progressive party, element.

MILK DRIVERS STRIKE INCREASE IN DIVORCES

H. P. HOOD & SONS' EMPLOYES
QUIT BECAUSE OF ALLEGED DIS-CRIMINATION

BOSTON, April 6.—Drivers employed by H. P. Hood & Sons, milk contractors, struck in the Forest Hills district early today and union officials said they expected the majority of drivers at other points to refuse to deliver milk today. The company asked for police protection. The strike was called because of the claims of the men that many drivers had been discharged for joining the union.

EXPLOSION IN LONDON CHURCH

LONDON, April 6.—An explosion in St. Martin's church, Trafalgar square, last night did considerable damage to the pews and a stained window in the south aisle. A candlestick, supposed to have contained the explosive was found. The outrage is attributed to nihilist suffragets.

FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE

BOSTON, April 6.—The Boston Central Labor union decided yesterday not to take part in the parade to be held next month as a demonstration in favor of woman suffrage. The delegates expressed the belief that marching would not help the cause, but that they would do all possible to support laws for equal suffrage as a matter of justice and an economic necessity.

Address: New York City

There are exceptions to the rule, but those who enter such a marriage are taking a chance. Many of the children that result from such marriages are lost to all religions. They are neither good Catholics nor good Protestants.
"Marriage is a contract. It is a natural contract and God has the right to dictate conditions governing it. What God hath joined together let no man put asunder. Marriages should bind the contracting parties until death parts them."

MARRIAGE REDUCED TO MERE CIV-IL SERVICE PERFORMED OUTSIDE OF CHURCH, REASON FOR MANY

BOSTON, April 6.—Marriage reduced to a mere civil service and performed outside of the church, was one of the reasons assigned for the increase of divorce by Fr. Paulinus of the Pastoral Order before a gathering of 2500 Catholic and non-Catholic people at the cathedral last night.

He scored those who want to be married at home in the glow of brilliant lights and decorations and with an imposing attendance of bridesmaids, guests of honor, flower girls and other escorts.

Fr. Paulinus further warned both Catholics and non-Catholics against hurrying one of another faith, saying, "If a non-Catholic young man should ask my advice in respect to his proposed marriage to a Catholic girl, I would tell him not to. She would make his life miserable. The same is true of a Catholic who would marry a non-Catholic."

"They would live at variance and the one thing that brings sunshine, peace and happiness into the home—namely religion—would be eliminated."

NO LIQUOR IN U. S. NAVY

Sec. Daniels Issues Sweeping Order Banishing All Alcoholic Drinks From Navy

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The United States navy will be "dry" after July 1. Secretary of the Navy Daniels has signed an order which absolutely prohibits the use or introduction of alcoholic liquors upon any vessel of the navy or within the confines of any navy yard or shore station. This order was issued to the service today and will become effective July 1, 1914.

It is now expected that a similar order will soon be issued which will forbid liquor in any officers' clubs at government posts and reservations. Besides abolishing what is known as the officers' mess on board ship and the sale of liquor at the officers' clubs on shore, Secretary Daniels' order is so sweeping as practically to enforce total abstinence upon naval officers for extended periods. It will henceforth be a violation of this order for any officer or guest upon any naval vessel to have in his possession any alcoholic beverage.

Officers living on shore will be prohibited from having any liquor in their private homes. If their duties require their residence on naval reservations, wives of officers so situated will be prohibited from serving punches or any other form of liquor at their social functions.

A MEDICINE OF MERIT

A proprietary medicine, like everything else that comes before the public, has to prove its merits. The law of the survival of the fittest applies in this field as in others. The reason for the tremendous success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is because it has been fulfilling a real human need for forty years, so that today thousands of American women owe their health and happiness to the marvelous power of this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs—nature's remedy for woman's ills.

of the order are made personally responsible for its enforcement and it is Secretary Daniels' determination that it shall be rigidly observed.

Text of Daniels' Order

"The use or introduction for drinking purposes of alcoholic liquors on board any naval vessel or within any yard or station is strictly prohibited and commanding officers will be held directly responsible for the enforcement of the order."

Mr. Daniels, it is known, has had this order under favorable consideration for a long time—ever since in fact he first discovered that officers on board ship maintained what is known as a wine mess from which they were permitted to purchase light wines and beers whenever they desired.

Mr. Daniels is an ardent disciple of William J. Bryan and to the latter's influence is partly attributed the present order. While navy officers have been aware of Secretary Daniels' intimations on the subject, they never had dreamed that he would make the prohibition so sweeping and drastic.

Mr. Daniels announces that he has taken this action upon the recommendation of Dr. William C. Bralsted, whom he recently appointed surgeon-general of the navy. It was the secretary himself, however, who called upon the surgeon-general for a recommendation, and there is no doubt here that the surgeon-general knew of Secretary Daniels' views on the subject.

Party Leaders Alarmed

Naval officers who were aware of the proceeding and of the imminence of the order attempted to dissuade the secretary, but without avail. Leaders in the democratic party were also alarmed over it and there is reason to believe that an appeal was made by them for the secretary not to sign the order. His signature was attached today, however, before he left this city for Richmond.

The prohibition issue has for months

been hanging threateningly over congress and it is predicted now that Secretary Daniels' action will give it an impetus which will lead to renewed demands for national legislation and embarrasment for the Wilson administration.

The prohibition forces tried to draw Mr. Wilson into their contest when he was running for the presidency, but he evaded the issue by declaring that legislation governing the liquor traffic was properly a matter of local and state legislation. The Bryan grape-juice episode gave the anti's a new opportunity to claim the support of the national administration, but the agitation resulting from it was mild compared with what is certain to follow from the action of the secretary of the navy.

May Extend to Army

Already plans are being made by prohibition supporters to insist upon the extension of the principle, so as to bar all alcoholic liquors from the clubs and homes of army officers on army reservations.

The news of the signing of the order caused a sensation in Washington. At the Army and Navy club yesterday it was the only topic of conversation. Many of the officers were so angry over the order that they just sputtered. They insisted that it would result in humiliating the American navy before the world and in giving Europe another opportunity to ridicule the United States. They insisted that the Daniels order would be regarded in European naval circles as the companion-piece to grape-juice diplomacy.

In explanation of the order Secretary Daniels made the following statement:

"I am in hearty agreement with the views expressed by the surgeon-general in his paper accompanying the recommendation. There should not be on shipboard with reference to intoxicating drinks, one rule for officers and another and different rule for the enlisted personnel."

Protect Young Officers

"The saddest hour of my official life is when an officer or enlisted man must be punished for intoxication. During the past week it has been my painful duty to approve a court-martial for dismissal from the service of an officer for intoxication. He told me that he had never tasted intoxicating drink until he did so in the wine mess on his cruises. Others who have been disciplined for drinking to excess made similar statements to me."

"Officers are now commissioned at the age of 22 years. Has the government a right to permit this temptation, which too often destroys the highest usefulness of young officers? I think not."

"If there is one profession more than another that calls for a clear head and a steady hand it is the naval profession. Experience has shown the wisdom of having no intoxicants on our ships for the young men who enlist. I believe experience has demonstrated that a uniform rule should prevail in the navy for all who enlist in the service, from the highest rank to the youngest enlisted man or officer who comes into the service, and that the abolition of the wine mess will be justified."

ORDER PLEASING PROHIBITIONISTS

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Secretary Daniels' order barring the use of alcoholic liquors in the navy, effective after July 1 next, was generally discussed in naval and other circles here today. The order, one of the most sweeping ever promulgated by the navy department, not only abolishes the traditional wine mess of the officers but will bar all alcoholic liquors from every ship and shore station of the navy.

Surgeon General Bralsted recommended it after an exhaustive investigation into the problem.

While declining to discuss for publication the effect of the order, navy officials privately expressed the belief it may fall of its purpose to prevent or decrease drunkenness within the army. In effect the order does no more than abolish the wine mess. No distilled spirits are sold in the wine mess—only wines and beer. Officers contend it is absurd to suppose that men ever become drunkards on beer or champagne. They express the opinion that the order will trespass their personal liberty and prevent their affording visitors from foreign navies the wines which they are accustomed to on their own vessels. The order was hailed with joy here today by the prohibition forces who declare it will have a great influence in the furtherance of the temperance cause.

GENERAL OFFICES OF A. P.

NEW YORK, April 6.—The general offices of the Associated Press are now located at 51 Chambers street, this city.

The approaching demolition of the Western Union building, which is to be replaced by a new structure, made removal necessary from the quarters which have been occupied by the Associated Press since the formation of the present organization and were, for many years before that, the headquarters of one of the news gathering associations which it superseded.

DIAMOND NOTES

Eight Federal league clubs are confident of finishing "one-two-three," thereby having an edge on the two major organizations, with their formation of the new league. The division, it may be said, is plain. It is just as big a guess selecting the cellar changes.

Manager Jesse C. Burkett, may have another record play to hand the United States to this spring.

Stanley Bates, the left-handed twirler of the Busters last season, is on the border line of the holdout class, if he isn't already a full-fledged member. Bates thinks his salary this season ought to be set higher than it was last year, and if it was left to his judgment alone, Bates would raise the ante quite a distance.

Perhaps Bates thinks he is entitled to a big boost on account of the pitcher's record he is credited with. He is given 10 wins and only three losses. That looks like a fine record, particularly for a youngster breaking into professional baseball, as Bates did last year.

From that viewpoint it might seem that Bates was reasonably entitled to a considerable boost in salary over what he received a year ago.

But the book viewpoint isn't exactly the same that was furnished at Boulevard park several times last season. There are several gains among those 10 wins which belong to Bates only under the rules.

"Take him out," the fans yelled when he started to fade after the middle of the game and Burkett stuck in Dushman or some more experienced twirler to finish. With a lead to start, the pitcher held back his opponents and the game was won by the Busters.

Bates was credited with the win in the records under the rules of the game. But not one of the fans who saw him would credit him with the actual win. They knew if he had been permitted to remain the particular game would not have been won.

That's why the record book is not always the safe thing to go by, and that's one reason why Manager Burkett is not inclined to think that Bates has any reason to throw his chest out and pass as a big winner on the record sheet.

He looked like a youngster with material in him to develop into a good pitcher. He developed his talent properly. But he didn't show any ability that would warrant placing reliance on him for the coming season. He has yet to make good and needs plenty of seasoning.

With the Federal league schedule still a dark secret, the interesting pastime of sizing up the opening games in the three big leagues is still a matter of anticipation. However, it is worth a mention that an excellent opportunity is afforded the newcomers at Pittsburgh for a debut. According to the National league schedule the Pirates open in St. Louis, giving the Feds full away until April 22—nearly a week after the start of the season, even when the Pirates arrive here.

The attraction isn't a startling one, the first series with St. Louis. No matter how you figure it, the Feds are withholding a lot of good information by their silence on the schedule proposition.

Wall Schanz, premier catcher of the Athletics, has a lame arm, the first time in his baseball career that he has been thus bothered. In his absence Lopp, who has improved amazingly since last season, is fitting in behind the bat.

The Lynn, Lowell, Portland and Worcester clubs appear to be favorite resorts of young players who are eager to break into the New England league from semi-pro or amateur ranks. Flaherty, Gray, Duffy and Burkett are generally recognized as being managers of wisdom and discretion, who will give recruits a valuable season. Fred Lake is not far behind, either, in number of applications received from these aspirants.

"It can drive 'em a mile." That's what they're saying down in Portland about Young Clark, a first base candidate in Hugh Duffy's camp, who is a left-handed batter. It is a familiar spring sound.

A bizarre collection of occupations is found to take in the off season time of the Pirates, according to a list just made up. Gibson, Cooper, Harmon and Duffy are the favorites on the team. Manager Clark also can be heard from a farmer. Joe Connelman, Orie McArthur and Joe Leonard are students. There are three salesmen, two plumbers and five clerks. Hyatt is so used to butchering stock that he butchers the ball horsehide on the diamond. Matt Coleman is a stage coachman. Ed Gen. McQuillan is an electrician. Knauthier to a stenographer.

PARK TO BE SOLD

Auction at Rockingham Park April 15—Flag is Now Floating

HAVERHILL, April 6.—Despite the efforts of the protective committee, of which William E. Bixby and Charles H. Hayes of this city are members, to avert the foreclosure on the mortgage of Rockingham park, it is announced through the office of Attorneys Rowell & Clay of Lawrence that on April 15 at 2 o'clock Rockingham park will be sold at public auction under foreclosure proceedings.

There are 199 acres of land in this tract, grandstand, clubhouse, stables, cattle sheds and dwelling houses. A deposit of $10,000 on the day of the sale will be required and the balance of payment due in 20 days. Edwin D. Flinders of Nashua, N. H., will be the auctioneer.

THE Y. M. C. A. PLEDGE

NOTICES FOR SECOND INSTALLMENT OF PLEDGES BEING SENT OUT

Notices are being sent out by the Y. M. C. A., calling for the second payment on the pledges made during the recent campaign when the sum of $82,361 was pledged in nine days. At present $64,783.45 has been paid and over 6000 of the 8000 subscribers have sent in their amounts in full, thereby saving the association the expense and labor of sending the second notices. The greater part of the outstanding debt has been paid since the first appeal was made but there are several bills to meet during the next few weeks, and it is the hope of those in charge that the receipts from this second call will enable the payment of these debts and allow the association to go ahead with its work and make such improvements as are necessary in the building.

Charles M. Clagston is the treasurer of the campaign committee and he states that although a great many of the outstanding interest bearing notes have been reduced, others will come due within a few weeks and if the payments are prompt the association will be free from debt in a short time.

The Easiest Way To End Dandruff

Stop Falling Hair and Itching Scalp.

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This does it entirely. To do this, first cut about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to keep your hair looking rich, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

Mr. Pig: He's a greyhound, I suppose.

Mr. Monk: I have just heard that man descended from a monkey.
Mr. Hippo: Oh well, what do you care, so long as you're healthy?

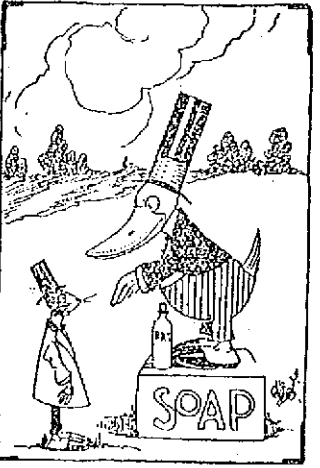

Mr. Turtle: I'm running a shell game now.
Mr. Frog: You can't beat me, I'm not so green as I look.

Mr. Rabbit: Old Round chased me ten blocks yesterday.
Mr. Cat: Why don't you climb a tree like I do when he chases me?

Mr. Horse: I hear that Mrs. Pig don't get on well with her husband.
Mr. Pupp: I suppose she claims she got a "pig" in a bag.

Dr. Duck: With one drop of this Rat Exterminator, you can get rid of your hated rats.
Mr. Rat: Aw! you're a "quack," I don't want your medicine.

NEW ENGLAND FARMS

Conditions of the Farming Industry—Hay, Grain and Fruit Crops—High Price of Eggs

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The land and the farming of New England have often been criticized. There are two chief classes of critics. These are composed of people who have known the farming of these states 20 years ago, and those who are seeing it today in a superficial manner.

For a generation or two past the changes in farming the country over, had left the farming of New England in a depressed condition, according to a specialist of the department of agriculture. The reaction of the last decade is now remedying this depression. It was true that New England could not produce some of the staple crops in competition with the land of the Central States, especially when the land was low priced. The present change is due to the large and grow-

Observation from railway trains often results in statements which exaggerate the amount of rough land in New England. As a rule some of the poorest land lies in sight of the railways, while the rest of this region is by no means all of the same character. The tillable land is much more extensive than is often understood, and the non-tillable is a valuable asset as grazing or woodland.

The development of profitable farming on New England land has not yet gone so far, but that there are now many sections where the land is really cheap, considering its productive capacity. To make the production of crops pay good interest on the value of the land, it must, of course, be so chosen as to avoid the speculative values caused by suburban or summer residences, or in a few cases by over-estimated farming values. The very cheap land is often to be avoided also, because it is not fitted for farming and is at the moment devoid of forest covering. Some of the cheap farms are not large enough in acreage, or produce too little income per acre, to keep a farmer and his family. Such farms, however, may form desirable parts of a larger farm business. Most of the real farming is done on land valued at from ten to one hundred dollars per acre and the greater part from $25 to $50 per acre, the whole farm taken together.

The distinctive features of New England farming are due to the fact that the region as a whole is particularly adapted to the growth of grass and trees. So, in general, the kinds of farming which depend on the grass crop predominate. These kinds of farming are profitably supplemented by orcharding, and derive great help from the presence of woodland. The last furnishes winter employment for many farmers and their teams.

Hay growing for the market on the moist or heavy soils of New England is more profitable than corn growing in the Central States. Potatoes on the well drained lands of northern New England and apple orchards on the uplands of all but the most northern part are profitable and command markets which are not so easily reached from other states. Truck and small fruit crops are in demand and are profitable to raise near to any of the larger towns and cities. Market milk is also a paying product even somewhat further from the cities, but is not so universally profitable as has been supposed, when it has to be sold for

RESISTANCE TO DISEASE

Why is it that one person can work all day standing in cold water, slush and snow with no harmful effect, while another with less exposure contracts colds, pneumonia, rheumatism, sciatica or something equally distressing and dangerous?

Because in the first case the body was in such perfect balance that there was "resistance" to disease. In the second there was lack of tone that invited ill health.

Keep your system toned up with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and foods that once distressed you will be harmless. Exposure will bring no fears of rheumatism and neuralgia and even germ diseases need hardly be dreaded.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills assist digestion, correct the lassitude, the palpitation of the heart, shaky nerves and the pallor of face and lips that are the results of thin, impure blood.

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness. Take them as a tonic. If you are not in the best physical condition and cultivate a resistance that will keep you well and strong. Get a box from the nearest drug store and begin this treatment now.

Peaches are profitable in a number of localities in the southern half of New England, as, for instance, on the slopes of the Connecticut valley in Massachusetts and Connecticut, and on favored slopes in New Hampshire along the southern border. The production of eggs and poultry pays well when properly managed, for the average price of eggs in southern New England are almost the highest in the country. Livestock farming which utilizes the relatively cheap grazing land of northern New England is favorably situated, but should not depend exclusively on dairy products. The growing of young dairy cattle for the use of market milk regions and of sheep for mutton utilize part of these pastures to advantage. Other products are of local importance and profit in various parts of these states, whose special conditions or markets obtain.

There are two chief problems in New England farming where the land has been under cultivation for so many years. The first is to supply humus economically. It has been supposed that livestock would do this but it is now evident that in many situations other means must be employed. Short rotations including a clover sod to plow down with frequent regularity do much to keep the needed amount of humus in the soil. Where land is in a badly exhausted state other more hardy crops must first be grown as green manure to build the land up to where it will grow clover in rotation. Winter rye and buckwheat are two of the most hardy and efficacious crops to plow under green for soil improvement.

The second problem in the choosing of the combination of enterprises to make the farm most profitable as a whole. This very frequently means selecting the best adapted cash crop in a given locality to combine with the dairy farming or other livestock business. It may also mean the selection of the proper rotation to employ the farmer and his teams to best advantage at all times of the year, both in growing the several crops and in disposing of them. This question may usually be solved from the experience of successful farms in the same region or at least in adjoining states.

EXPECT 475,000 VOTES

CHICAGO ELECTION TOMORROW—175,000 WOMEN EXPECTED TO GO TO THE POLLS

CHICAGO, April 6.—The political campaign here drew to a close last night and Chicago women prepared, for the first time, to exercise their right of franchise at the election here Tuesday. There are 217,614 women eligible to cast their votes and election authorities expect that at least 175,000 of these will go to the polls and aid in the selection of 36 aldermen and express themselves on the 12 questions of municipal policy submitted.

The entrance of the women is expected to result in the largest vote ever cast in a municipal election here. There are 155,153 men on the registration lists and a total of more than 475,000 votes is expected.

Although there are eight women candidates among the 154 seeking places in the city council, most of the women's clubs and civil organizations have centered their campaign efforts in the first ward, where Miss Maria Drake, a lawyer stenographer, has set out to displace (Edith Hughes) John Connelley, who with Michael Keenan, has represented the ward for 20 years. The ward contains the downtown business district, a mile or more of fashionable residences along the lake shore, and several miles of densely packed lodging houses.

POINCARÉ'S TESTIMONY

DEPOSITION OF PRESIDENT OF FRANCE IN CALMETTE CASE TELLS OF CALL BY CALLAUX

PARIS, April 6.—The deposition of Raymond Poincaré, president of the republic, was taken yesterday by M. Forthion, president of the court of appeal in connection with the inquiry into the killing of Gaston Calmette by the figure by M. Callaux.

Although President Poincaré's testimony was not made public, it is understood to be deposed that M. Callaux, at that time minister of finance, called at the Elysée palace on the morning of the tragedy and discussed with him the campaign which Calmette was conducting. M. Callaux informed the president that he had every reason to believe that M. Calmette was about to publish certain private letters and expressed great alarm at the intense nervous excitement under which M. Callaux was laboring.

President Poincaré tried as best he could to calm the minister saying that he knew M. Calmette well and believed him incapable of printing the letters in question. M. Callaux left the Elysée only partially reassured, declaring that he could not remain passive if the editors of the figure published the letters.

MRS. EDDY FOUND

Detectives Believe They Have Clue to Missing Siegel Fortune

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 6.—Mrs. Diana E. Eddy, the Boston mystery widow, whom the district attorney's office of that city charges with knowing what became of the fortune of Henry Siegel, the wrecked banker and department store king, and the trunk which is believed to contain the secret of the Siegel fortune, if not the fortune itself, were apparently safely trapped in the Linden apartments here last night.

A swift automobile is being held in readiness at the Linden, at 121 Waterman street, to pursue the trunk, which Inspector Silas W. W. of the Boston police and Inspector Caffrey of the local force stated they believe contain the hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of Siegel securities, which Mrs. Henry Siegel charged in her divorce libel her husband had successfully hidden.

The issuing of a search warrant for which the police were preparing last night is likely to clear up the whole mystery of Mrs. Eddy, which District Attorney Feltner has considered of such vital importance to the creditors of the Siegel store and bank that he has instituted a relentless hunt for her.

In the face of these statements from Mrs. Susan Brown, mother of James Salisbury Brown, the broker, who has the apartment at the Linden and is engaged to Mrs. Eddy, that Mrs. Eddy was not the "Mrs. Eddy of Boston" referred to as correspondent in the Siegel divorce case, and that she was not in the apartment, detectives here last night said they had located her and to an extent established her connection with the case.

A new sensation was sprung in the case when it was announced yesterday that a summons had been taken out for Brown himself in Massachusetts, to have him tell what he knows of

Mrs. Eddy's connection with the Siegel case, and that a similar summons will be taken out here today.

They believe they penetrated a clever attempt to outwit the authorities when Mr. Brown and an attractive woman fled from the apartments Saturday just before inspectors, Watto and Caffrey arrived to serve their summons on Mrs. Eddy.

A Day With District Attorney Whitman

Photos by American Press Association.

1.—District Attorney Whitman, Mrs. Whitman and Olive Whitman, their daughter. 2.—Mr. Whitman at telephone. 3, 4, 5 and 6.—Characteristic poses of Mr. Whitman.

By LLOYD D. WILLIS.

WOULD you care to spend a working day with Charles S. Whitman, the district attorney of New York county, whose heavy handed blows at graft and political corruption have been resounding so loudly through the Empire State?

Let me warn you now it will be a day replete in action. It will take you into the busiest law office in the world. You may have to go without luncheon, or you may even be late to dinner. But if you are willing to take these chances and are curious to know what transpires behind the scenes in the district attorney's office on the average working day, why, come along.

The administrator of New York county's criminal law department arrives at his office on the third floor of the Criminal Courts building, 32 Franklin street, at 10 a. m. Eight or nine hours of nerve racking work are ahead of him—the work of keeping his fingers on the keys of the big legal machine which grinds out and disposes of 4,800 indictments a year, obtains some 3,000 convictions for felonies and 5,000 convictions for misdemeanors, disposes of 2,500 applications for bail bonds and a thousand and one other duties devolving upon the prosecutor's office. It is no slight task that is performed daily by the district attorney of New York county.

Mr. Whitman's sturdy figure, whose square jaw and firm mouth denote determination in every line, has just entered his private office by way of the judges' chambers, which about the district attorney's suit in the rear. He always uses the rear entrance, thus avoiding the early callers who congregate in the main office. In a moment Mr. Whitman's hat and coat are off, and he plunges into the office mail. This has been opened and assorted. His secretary and his able stenographer, Miss Marguerite Deterling, who has been Mr. Whitman's aid for seven years, attend to that.

"No callers until the desk is cleared," is the morning order.

For half an hour the district attorney dictates rapidly and the pile of mail fades away. Hurried notations on some of the letters indicate to his secretary what disposition of the matter is to be made. The phone bell rings. It is Colonel Alexander Bueen on the wire. William Sulzer, the impeached ex-governor of New York state, has some documents bearing on the highways and canal contracts in investigation which he wishes personally to place in Mr. Whitman's hands. An engagement is made for 11:30 a. m. Mr. Whitman turns from the telephone, glances swiftly through the list of waiting visitors and the nature of the business on which they come, sees the ones whom his assistants cannot handle, then sends for the members of his staff who have left word with the district attorney's secretary that matters of importance must be discussed.

Downstairs a murder trial is proceeding. The district attorney is represented there by James A. Delehanty. New evidence has been obtained, but before offering it Mr. Delehanty desires to consult the chief prosecutor. Mr. Whitman leaves his office, hurries to the supreme court and confers there with Delehanty.

Receives Call From Sulzer.

Back to his office, where Ex-Governor Sulzer, now an assemblyman from the Sixth district, awaits him. "The same old Bill" explains his visit, is questioned by Mr. Whitman and leaves, after pledging his aid in the district attorney's effort to convict any gratifiers who may have figured in the holdup of contractors during the last few years.

Later deliveries have brought more mail. Telegrams have also been received. A magazine desires Mr. Whitman's picture and copy of a recent address on simplifying the code of civil procedure. Autograph collectors request a sample of his cigraphy; college men, preparing papers, want information; a student of crime desires assistance in his studies. These and a hundred kindred requests come through the mail, by messenger or over the telephone.

It is the lunch hour, but Mr. Whitman has no time to leave the Criminal Courts building.

"Get a bite sent in," is the instruction to Louis Hoffman, the genial guardian of the outer office. Louis is off to a nearby restaurant with the order—chops, a salad and a pot of coffee.

Before his lunch arrives Mr. Whitman confers with Chief Magistrate McAdoo. They are still in earnest conversation when the tray is brought in. It is the signal for the chief magistrate to leave, for he has a luncheon engagement outside. The "bite" is spread upon a table in the "inner sanctum," as the district attorney's staff call a small private room in the rear of Mr. Whitman's office. It is in this small room that some of his most important conferences are held behind closed doors. No attendant ever enters there while his chief is engaged in the inner sanctum.

During the hasty lunch Mr. Whitman continues to work. There are letters to sign, documents to scan or memorandums of evidence to weigh. These papers are spread on the table, some of them between his dishes. Fifteen minutes pass, the dishes are hustled away, and Mr. Whitman for an hour is engrossed in legal documents.

A call comes from the special grand jury room. Through the rear door he hastens and a moment later is before the jury which is hearing state contract graft evidence. It is late in the afternoon when Mr. Whitman, tired out by the strain of questioning reluctant state officials or former officials, returns to his private office.

Gets Report on Becker Case.

There is more work ahead however. The threads of evidence to be used in the retrial of Police Lieutenant Becker for the murder of the gambler Herman Rosenthal have to be gathered. The prosecutor's assistant, Frederick Groehl, has been out interviewing witnesses all morning. He is ready to report to Mr. Whitman. For an hour they are closeted, going carefully over the case, weighing the evidence, discarding some, accepting some. Lawyers for several of the principals in the first trial—Rose, Schepps and Webber—are communicated with by telephone. Finally Mr. Groehl leaves the inner sanctum.

But the day's work is not over. The courts have closed for the day. The judges have gone home. The average lawyer is homeward bound. Night is closing in. From the dim bulk of the Criminal Courts building lights shine brightly through the third floor windows of the district attorney's office. Again he is at his desk. There are more visitors to see, more conferences with his aids—fifty-two of whom constitute his legal staff, fourteen full fledged assistants and thirty-eight deputies. Of course all of them do not confer daily with their chief.

Early in the evening the newspaper men seek an audience with Mr. Whitman. A volley of questions greet the prosecutor. Some are answered, some are not. To all questions bearing on pending grand jury proceedings Mr. Whitman turns a deaf ear. They are tabooed.

As the newspaper men leave, a stack of letters dictated during the day is placed before Mr. Whitman and for ten minutes his pen is busy. There is time for a smoke—the first cigar of the day. During the evening he will smoke two or three more. A final talk with his aids in the state contract graft inquiry and Mr. Whitman leaves for home, choosing the subway rather than his own machine. There is a function to attend. A quick change to evening dress, a hurried bite of dinner. Midnight comes before the day's work is really over. Every public man will tell you that speakingmaking is work, and hard work too.

The day with Mr. Whitman left the writer dizzy, but to the district attorney there was nothing unusual about it. "Some time I'm going to take a day off and get a good rest," he says. "If the prosecutor rests as rapidly as he works a lot of resting will be crowded into that day off."

JEALOUSLY GUARD GATUN LOCKS

AS a result of secret tests it has been demonstrated that the defenses of the Atlantic terminal of the Panama canal are adequate to protect the Gatun locks, which are seven miles inland. These tests were made by the third division of the Atlantic battleship fleet, in command of Rear Admiral Nathaniel R. Usher, in conjunction with the coast artillery and engineer officers of the canal commission.

The data which were obtained by the naval observers with the aid of marine glasses were forwarded to the joint army and navy board, which referred the navy report to Colonel Goethals and the coast artillery officers of the commission for further investigation. Colonel Goethals reported that the data obtained by the battleships would not have been of any value to an enemy's fleet and that the height of the intervening land would prevent hostile fleets from dropping projectiles into the Gatun locks from the open sea.

To keep a hostile fleet farther away an important modification of the defense arrangements was made by Colonel Goethals. This was the extension of the breakwater from Toro point, some distance farther out to sea than was originally intended. Such action was taken because the navy department suggested the desirability of providing a safe anchorage within the harbor for at least sixteen battleships, and on the sea end of the breakwater long range guns will be erected.

The joint army and navy exercises to test the forts which were set for February, following the advance base maneuvers in Porto Rico, have been postponed until 1915 at the request of the war department. In suggesting the postponement the officials of the army said that it would be more advisable to defer the maneuvers until the land fortifications had been entirely finished and all the fire control instruments installed. As the exercises were initiated by the war department the navy department agreed to the postponement.

The present scheme of protecting the canal on the Colon end provides a fort on Margarita Island, where eight mortars of a new type having a range of 20,000 yards, two fourteen-inch guns and two six-inch guns will be mounted. On the Toro point side there will be eight mortars, two fourteen-inch guns and two six-inch guns. In addition heavy guns will be erected on the end of the breakwater running out from Toro point. There will also be two six-inch guns on Manzanilla point, opposite the city of Colon.

On the Pacific side a question concerning the adequacy of the defense has been raised by some coast artillery officers because of the lack of fortifications on Taboga Island, which is about 12,000 yards from the end of the Pacific terminus of the canal. Some experts say that an enemy's vessels could take up a position behind Taboga Island and attack the Panama fortifications. This and other important questions were considered during the recent trip of Mr. Garrison, the secretary of war, to the isthmus. Mr. Garrison was accompanied by Brigadier General E. M. Weaver, chief of coast artillery.

Gatun lake, when full, will cover an area of 167 square miles, being the largest artificial body of water in the world, with the possible exception of the lake in Egypt, created by damming the Nile. It constitutes the summit level of the Panama canal. Through it vessels will steam a distance of twenty-five miles on their journey from ocean to ocean. The lake was formed by building a massive earthen dam from bluff to bluff across the Chagres valley at Gatun, impounding the waters of the Chagres river. A re-constructed concrete spillway is located near the center of the dam.

COXEY'S WASHINGTON INVASION

COXEY AND SOME OF HIS FOLLOWERS.

GENERAL JACOB S. COXEY, who in 1894 made a name for himself when he headed a mighty army of the unemployed from all sections of the country to march to Washington, planned to have his next "invasion" due at the national capitol on May 22, 1911. He arranged to have the general advance begun on the occasion of his sixtieth birthday, April 18. The horses that drew his phaeton twenty years ago are dead, but the phaeton was repainted in preparation for the new journey.

As in 1894, the army will "hike" by divisions and will represent all parts of the country from points as far east as Boston, as far west as Seattle, as far south as New Orleans and as far north as Detroit. The division that the commander in chief will personally lead will be assembled in Massillon, O., the home town of General Coxey.

General Coxey directed the organization of the New York division from the Waldorf-Astoria. According to the figures submitted by the generalissimo, if even a third of all the unemployed now in the United States manages to reach Washington it means that the capital city will be swamped with about 1,000,000 idle and penniless men. If all the unemployed went along according to General Coxey, it would mean an army of between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000.

"When we get to Washington," said the general, "it shall be the purpose of the leaders to impress upon the government that there is an army of the unemployed in this fair land of ours and that it is a mighty huge one."

"Today there are between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 more unemployed in the country than a year ago, and something must be done, and that's why the army is being organized to march to Washington. The country will finance the undertaking, just as it did in 1894. The people in the towns and villages through which the various divisions will pass being counted upon to show their patriotism by providing food, shelter when needed, to the marchers. And the people will help, too, when they realize what it all means."

At this point General Coxey let out a secret. It was the "why" of the whole great undertaking. A conspiracy, he said, had been entered into by the rich men of the country.

"First of all," said General Coxey, "these conspirators wanted to have a certain sort of currency bill passed—a bill that would suit them to a 't.' And they got it, although they managed to make the people think they were against it. The bill as it passed was a Wall street measure pure and simple. "Secondly, the conspirators have a scheme to force the interstate commerce commission to grant a 5 per cent increase in freight rates. Thirdly, they began to give smaller orders for railroad equipment, closing many plants and compelling the others to reduce prices in order to get business. This threw thousands of men out of employment."

"In the fourth place, they wanted to and succeeded magnificently in creating an army of unemployed men, whom they will use as a club against the employed to make cheaper wages. Fifthly, many months ago they unloaded stocks at par, and now they are buying them back at 50 and 75 cents on the dollar. A smart crowd that, I tell you."

"Why don't you have a division of suffragettes?" General Coxey was asked. "Maybe we will," he replied, "and if we do a woman of national fame will lead it. And the Chicago suffragette band will play the music for them to march by."

FOR NEW ENGLAND PROSPERITY

The news of the selection of Boston as one of the centres of the federal reserve bank system comes with timeliness on the heels of the prosperity conference called by the governor for the purpose of boosting Massachusetts, and the choice of the reserve bank organization committee is a good stimulus to the prosperity boom. The reserve bank of Boston will be a benefit to all of New England because it will enable the banks of the region to be free, allowing them the privilege of applying to a centrally located bank for relief in time of temporary stringency, instead of compelling them to look to New York for succor as heretofore. It will also remove the uncertainty which in the past kept the banks of New England from adding many a legitimate business venture out of fear, arising from New York speculation. Furthermore, it will place the credit of New England in the hands of men who are in sympathy with the affairs of New England and who know the needs of the territory which they serve financially.

The next important step in the adaptation of the new banking law to the financial system of the country will be the appointment of the five persons who, with the controller of the currency and the secretary of the treasury, will constitute the new federal reserve board. The naming of this board is one of the most delicate problems that has confronted President Wilson since his inauguration, and that he realizes the seriousness of it is evident from his expressed aspirations, and from the fact that he intends to take the full time allowed by law before making known his decisions. He has announced that he will send the names to the senate in about four weeks.

It is too much to expect that the membership of the federal reserve board will suit all sections of the country equally and the result of the president's choice may be well forecasted from the agitation that has followed the selection of the reserve bank centres in some quarters. While rivalries and animosities exist between cities and sections it is difficult to get unanimity of opinion and in a federal reserve board of six or so, it is impossible to have all the country represented equally. New England may be pardoned for the ambition to be represented here also, but if the men named be able, sincere, in sympathy with the law and free from entangling alliances, New England will welcome them, wherever they hail from.

ROGERS CRITICIZES PRESIDENT

Neither President Wilson nor Secretary Bryan have shown themselves to be over-sensitive with regard to adverse personal criticism, but even were they abnormally susceptible to abuse they would not in all probability lose a great deal of sleep over the resounding accusations of Representative Rogers, republican, of Massachusetts. We had always supposed that the district represented by Mr. Rogers was one of unusual industrial importance and we believe that his predecessors in office generally found enough to do in looking after the affairs of their constituents; but it has remained for our present congressman to take the world on his shoulders, like a political Atlas. Mr. Rogers may allege that his duties in connection with the foreign relations committee of the house—of which he is a member—entirely him to assail the foreign policy of the administration; but there is a certain unfortunate untimeliness between his trade and the vote on the tolls question, in which Mr. Rogers differed from the president and favored a disregard of our treaty obligations.

Young people are apt to make rash utterances and Mr. Rogers' political youth must be taken into consideration when discounting his grave charges concerning the appointments in the diplomatic corps and consular service with the campaign fund of the president. Yet it must be humiliating to many men of all parties in Mr. Rogers' district that he should be the first to ascribe ignoble motives to President Wilson, particularly at this critical time when the president needs the honest support of every generous citizen both in and out of congress in advancing a broad and liberal policy. Years will teach Mr. Rogers discretion if he does not let his zeal to discredit the administration run away with his good judgment. He is, we believe, an ardent reader and student, and he could not do better in the near future than to vary his studious research in the congressional library by a perusal of a little fable in Aesop which tells of an ambitious lion that saw an owl and becoming envious tried to swallow himself on what—with disastrous results. Mr. Rogers feels apparently that as a republican he is bound to criticize democratic measures and policies right or wrong. In all probability it was this feeling that led him to get in wrong in regard to the currency bill when such men as Senator Weeks, whose republicanism cannot be questioned, were broad-minded enough to favor the bill.

PANAMA CANAL FORTIFIED

Some students of international questions have alleged that if congress decides against the right of this country to exempt its coastwise shipping from tolls in the use of the Panama canal, it has no right to fortify the canal, but this view is not held either by the war department or by the mass of the American people. Coincident with the opening of the canal the last gun of the fortifications which will guard the Atlantic entrance to the waterway will be placed in position, and the forts at the Pacific end will be nearing completion at the same time. Speaking recently in answer to some critics who expressed doubt that the United States could hold the waterway in times of war, Secretary Garrison said: "If you could see the great forts which have been erected at the Atlantic and Pacific ends of the canal you would not doubt our ability to protect this most valuable property from any foreign enemy."

The secretary went on to explain that the range of a modern battleship is 12 to 14 miles and no hostile battleship could get near the canal entrance without running the gauntlet of our shore batteries which are situated near the sea for miles along the coast. The American coast batteries are equipped to do effective work at greater distances than any warship, and would thus be able to prevent hostile fleets from getting near enough to damage the locks. Ports have also been placed on small islands at the Atlantic entrance and should any foreign ship get near enough to be dangerous it would have to run beside these island forts at close range. At the Pacific end the fortifications consist mainly in two great forts upon which are mounted the most powerful guns made in America, and probably the most powerful in the world. Speaking of one of the guns—the 16-inch gun recently completed at Sandy Hook—Secretary Garrison said: "When in position this gun will prevent the approach of any fleet, even if all the other guns on the fort were silenced. It alone is powerful enough to sink an entire squadron, and the men who operate it can hit a target the size of an ordinary sheet at a distance of 14 miles, nine shots out of ten."

ABUSE OF TELEPHONES

Sooner or later all forms of domestic or civic troubles are aired before legislative committees; the latest is the wall of the party-line telephone user who is connected with a monopolizing individual or individuals who telephone for long periods at a stretch regardless of the disconcert of other patrons. Almost all who have been on a four-party line will understand the sorrows of the remonstrant in question and will sympathize with him. Complaints by users of party lines were aired last Friday at a conference between the New England Telephone and Telegraph company and the Public Service commission. The suggestion was made that telephone conversations on party lines be limited by law to five minutes, but the company, through the commission, wisely decided that this plan is not feasible. In an effort to bring about remedial co-operation, however, between telephone patrons and the telephone company, a statement was issued which will help to eliminate the abuse of the telephone log. Among other things, the commission suggested "a statement in the telephone directory in some such form as the following:

"Satisfactory service on party lines depends very largely upon the willingness of the joint users to co-operate with one another in their demand on the service. The company accordingly respectfully requests party line subscribers to limit their conversations to five minutes when others wish to use the line and to give immediate notice of way in case of emergency calls."

BURN THE MOTH NESTS

The advice of Commissioner Donnelly to the private property owners of the city with regard to the brown-tail and gypsy moth pests is timely and commendable. Year in and year out thousands of men are employed by the city to aid in eradicating these scourges of grove and orchard, and their efforts are negated largely through negligence. Many persons make no effort to remove the nests from their premises and those who strive to do so frequently adopt the wrong methods. The commissioner urges on citizens generally, the necessity of applying for the permits so that the moth nests may be burned. If care is taken in this process of eradicating the moths, there ought to be good results even in one season. The state is co-operating with the city and people generally cannot do better than to co-operate with their public officials in this important matter.

FAIR PLAY FOR PEARSON

It was hoped by the friends of our fellow-townsmen Adjutant-General Pearson that the decision of the supreme court making his tenure of office valid until the end of his term, would be a relief to him. It is, however, a disappointment to him, as he is now faced with a new trial, and he is now faced with a new trial, and he is now faced with a new trial.

under the existing law, would result in his remaining unsequestered, but unfortunately such does not appear probable. The legislature, which frames laws can repeal laws, and if a bill reported by the legislative committee on military affairs last Friday gets on the statute books, General Pearson will be removed from his present office with but little ceremony. Without wishing to criticize the motives of the military committee, which reported favorably on the bill, it seems that if the efficiency of the militia of Massachusetts were the ruling consideration the present law would be allowed to stand. The Lowell delegation in the legislature should stand by Pearson.

Through the fear of Premier Asquith north to plead with his constituents the cause of English democracy was a triumphant demonstration. It was as nothing as compared with the ovation which he will receive when he returns to parliament—the champion of a vindicated cause.

Hearings on the need for abolishing the Middlesex grade crossing may bring the much-needed improvement no nearer, but it will prevent us from growing too indifferent, merely because the dangerous eyesore has always been with us. Hearing may follow hearing but some day we'll hear, and see, the end of the crossing. Haste the day.

HOW YOU MAY THROW AWAY YOUR GLASSES

The statement is made that thousands wear eyeglasses who do not need them. If you are one of these unfortunate, then these glasses may be ruining your eyes instead of helping them. Thousands who wear "wind-downs" may prove for themselves that they can dispense with glasses if they will get the following prescription filled at once: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Opton; fill a two-ounce bottle with water and drop in one Opton tablet. With this harmless liquid solution bathe the eyes to four times daily and you are likely to be astonished at the results right from the start. Many who have been told that they have astigmatism, eye-strain, cataract, sore eyes, weak eyes, conjunctivitis and other eye disorders, report wonderful benefits from the use of this free prescription. Get this prescription filled and use it; you may so strengthen your eyes that glasses will not be necessary. Thousands who are blind or nearly so, or who wear glasses would never have acquired them if they had cared for their eyes in time. Save your eyes before it is too late! Do not become one of these victims of neglect. Eyeglasses are only like crutches and every few years they must be changed to fit the ever-increasing weakened condition, so better see if you can, like many others, get clear, healthy, strong, magnetic eyes through the prescription here given.—Advertisement.

All sorts of waistcoats, long, short, and fancy, have been worn in the senate chamber on various occasions, and in this respect J. Ham Lewis has been featured in the big lights, but the other day the garment which placed the "O" in waistcoat was exhibited by Vice President Marshall when he carelessly flipped back his coat in the discussion on personal expenditures for senators.

The material was Persian and the effect kitschish. Some thought that the vice-president looked like a set piece in the new decoration.

Investigation by Senator Lewis, whose sole day was ruined by the demonstration, developed the fact that the waistcoat had been made from a piece of old carpet.

of antique khorassan woven by women in Persia 2000 years ago. The cut was a little more modern. Mirza Kuli Khan, in charge of the Persian legation in Washington, presented the ornate bit of cloth to the vice president, and, despite the fact that the material is generally used for rugs and table covering, Mr. Marshall elected to bedeck himself and prostrate J. Ham Lewis.

Woven into the fabric a design of somewhat gaudy leaves and twigs gave the vice presidential midnight a beautiful autumnal appearance and the Kurdish work was thoroughly appreciated by those who withstood the dazzle long enough to make it out. A Persian rug maker who was in the gallery when the garment first set up a cry, whispered something to Allah and began a dance closely resembling the more or less fashionable kitchen sink. He said when quieted, that the waistcoat was a song bouquet and that the motif was herati. Those seated near him said that they wouldn't doubt it a bit, although it was a bit hard to speak so of a small waistcoat.

"Beaten—and by a jug of wine, a fancy waistcoat, and thou!"

Such is the vested power of a vice president.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Judge R. B. Lindsay, the famous justice and criminologist, declares that human nature is the same in every breast, and that if the right appeal is made to people who go astray, there is always a chance to lead them "into the light." This humane theory is advanced in the famous photo-play, "The Kismet," which will be shown in this city for the first time at the Opera House today. Produced by the Famous Players Film company in four great parts with the distinguished actress Carlotta Nilsen in the leading role, this wonderful feature has stirred the civilized world with its appeal for the helpless criminals who are "born sinners," ascends far above the plane of the drama that merely interests and thrills. Its directness, simplicity and power are irresistible. Its conclusion is powerful and touches a responsive and sympathetic chord in the heart of all humanity.

"PEG O' MY HEART"

Miss Marion Denier, the engaging little actress who will interpret the role of Peg in Oliver Morosco's production of "Peg O' My Heart," when this exquisite comedy by Harry M. Winkler is seen at the Opera House Friday evening, April 15th, has had a thorough experience in the character work. Peg presents possibilities which any actress would be glad to try and Miss Denier counts herself a fortunate young woman indeed to be selected for a role which is one of the "finest" in current theatricals.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Besides being of a highly entertaining nature, "Traffic in Souls," the week's offering at the Merrimack Square theatre all this week has a wonderfully strong lesson which it teaches in formation of glues and warnings it sends out to the general public against the so-called "white slave traffic," said to be so prevalent in the larger cities of our country. Those who are in a position to know state that this really marvelous picture story is one of the strongest in the repertoire of the Merrimack Square theatre and that it will be given afternoon and evening, the first matinee performance being at 1:15 and the first night presentation at 7:15. The usual Merrimack Square theatre prices will prevail.

Patrons of this theatre will no doubt be delighted to hear of the engagement of the Merrimack Square Theatre Players for the week commencing Easter Monday matinee, April 13, in America's best comedy, "The Man on the Box." The piece is from Harold McGrath's book by the same name, and has sufficient merit to it to commend it to all lovers of high-class comedy. The cast will include such favorites as Walter Scott Weeks, Stewart Wilson, Charles Stevens, W. Clark, Fred Hovel, Thomas Carroll, Cecil Lugrin, Miss May B. Jones, Evelyn Eddy, Geneva H. Williams, Natalie Rounds and others, including a new leading woman to be announced later. Seats for the opening night will go on sale Wednesday, April 8, at 10 a. m. No other seats will go on sale until Saturday, April 11. Be sure and make early application for our tickets at the opening night and note the return of your favorites right with the hearty welcome that it richly deserves. The offering for the week commencing April 29th, "The Old Son," by Winchell Smith, author of "The Fortune Hunter," and other plays equally as good.

This theatre will be closed all day Good Friday.

KEITH'S THEATRE

"Just Half Way," a delightful little comedy of life, will be the feature presentation at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week, with Rinehart and Heritage playing the leading roles. This sketch is the work of one of the best known of latter day dramatic authors. It is said to hold a charm all its own. It is based on a phase of life not at all unusual, and not specially dramatic. It is however, cleverly written, and clean and sweet from start to finish. It is the first of a series of such sketches to be written by the man in question, the man who has made the theatre his career over its circuit. "Just Half Way" will start a new era in vaudeville sketches. It is undoubtedly the piece is not only carefully written but it is played by a thoroughly competent company.

Elephants who really think that is what their owner says, will do a lot of interesting things. Their owner is one Robbins, who got the mchaelmas when they were young and raised them in an Indian stockade until they were big enough to bring to Europe. There they appeared in nearly all of the leading vaudeville theatres and hippodromes. So successful was the act that they have been brought to America at great expense. Last year they were featured with a very well known circus. This act is new and from those ordinarily put forward for elephants.

Recently there has been a trend towards a more refined kind of vaudeville entertainment. Notwithstanding this there has been the declaration made that there is no room in the vaudeville for anything so serious as the classical. But Guernsey and his company for a musical act which is of the very highest standard. Harp and violin duo and solos will be given by them. Guernsey was born in Chelsea and since the age of 12 years he has had the benefit of the most expert advice for his violin playing. In Europe and in America he has been a successful interpreter of the best municipal orchestra of Germany. Mlle. Carmen is a Bohemian by birth. She, too, studied in Germany and was the most celebrated of musicians and it was in Berlin that she first met. Since that time they have appeared in all of the big concert halls and vaudeville theatres of the continent, and they are now making their first tour of America. The act is bound to make a deep impression which is widely known from most two-men acts before the public. They are known as "The Italian minstrels" and they mix patter, comedy, singing and dancing in an admirable manner. They have only recently played in the principal vaudeville theatres in New York, and for a few weeks, or until the close of the season, will appear in new cities.

Herron and Gaylord have been featured in a number of Mort Singer's musical comedies, out in Chicago. They have been eminently successful with their unusual first act and are expected to do into vaudeville. Their duo has for the fit and style of our Suits—and most of these kind remarks have come from young men—the keenest customers to whom we sell clothes—

We know of course the improvements that have been made in our patterns, but it was very satisfactory to have our friends find the changes so noticeable. Some very clever manufacturers have carried out our ideas this season, putting into our less expensive Suits many little nice touches that add greatly to their appearance without increasing the cost.

Just as clever models as in our more expensive lots—for $20 and $25. The fabrics, colorings and weaves are as new as the models, and the variety is much larger than we've shown in the past.

Five other reels will be shown, including a Keystone comedy. An extraordinary announcement is made that Mrs. Sarah Bernhardt will soon be seen in pictures at this photo-play house in connection with Mlle. Refane. Bernhardt's play will be "Camille," and Refane's "Madame Sans-Gene," two of the most successful interpretations of these wonderful characters. More will be said later about these artists.

W. C. T. U. PRESIDENT IS DEAD

Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens Died Today at Portland, Me.

Devoted Her Life to Temperance Work—Was Noted Orator

PORTLAND, Me., April 6.—Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, president of the Women's National Christian Temperance Union, died early today.

Mrs. Stevens, who was born in Dover, Me., 70 years ago, continued to the last the temperance work to which she had devoted her life. Her mind remained clear and late last week she was able to dictate correspondence in connection with the work of her office. With her when the end came were her husband, Michael Stevens, her daughter, Mrs. Gertrude Lovett of this city and Miss Anna Gordon of Evansville, Ill., vice president of the National W. C. T. U. At the conventions of the World's Christian Temperance union at Geneva, New York, and Boston, Mrs. Stevens was vice president at large, presided in the absence of the president. Her ability as a speaker and worker for temperance first became widely recognized in the campaign of 1884 which placed the prohibition amendment in the Maine constitution. She had been president of the National W. C. T. U. since 1905. Several years ago she was awarded the honorary degree of master of arts by Bates college. Mrs. Stevens' last active work was a trip to Washington last December in the interests of the movement for a prohibition amendment to the federal constitution.

REV. J. MUDGE

Says That Life at the Age of Seventy is Glorious

"How life looks at 70," was the subject of an interesting sermon by Rev. Jas. Mudge, D. D., at the Highland M. E. church Sunday night. Dr. Mudge is well known in Lowell having been pastor of the church in which he spoke last night and also of the Centralville M. E. church in this city. Sunday was his birthday anniversary and he had observed the morning by preaching at a church in Lynn where he had formerly been pastor and in the evening he came to Lowell.

For his sermon Sunday evening he found his inspiration in Psalm 90, 10th verse: "The days of our years are three score years and 10 and if by reason of strength they be four score years, yet is there strength, labor and sorrow; for it is soon cut off and we fly away."

Rev. Dr. Mudge said in part: "I have come to an occasion which furnishes me with reason for reflection, reflection, and also for collection. Some there are here who have reached to the estate of three score years and 10; others are near it, and many others are looking forward to it. At 70 years one may be said to be in the very youth of old age. I am not really old, and yet if I am to be old or not as he feels. Yet, at 70, one is undeniably getting old. Middle life really begins at 40 and is not fully passed until three score years and 10 have passed.

"Seventy is a good round number. It is made up of two very important factors. Seven is the sacred number, sacred not only among the Hebrews but also among the Indians and among many other peoples. It is made up of three, representing the deity, and four, representing the earth. And 10, also a significant number, four is the sum of one, two, three and seven, then it seems doubly significant. And when one reaches to three score years and 10, all over the world, there is cause for great celebration. Surely, it is a good, rounded, complete period of existence.

"It is a remarkable fact that my birthdays have indicated epochs, at least, in my life. They have meant great things to me. On my 13th birthday I joined the church. I shall never forget that glorious day; for it was the beginning of my life of after life. And, on my 21st birthday I was ordained to the ministry in a church in East Boston. On my 25th birthday I sailed for home from Bombay, India, after laboring there. On my 31st birthday I preached my farewell sermon in the little church across the river. It is rather a remarkable chain of facts, that my birthdays have meant so much to me, have started epochs in my life, but God so ordained it. And now on Palm Sunday, the day commemorating the entry into Jerusalem of Jesus Christ, I round out my three score years and 10.

"How does life look to me at 70? It is glorious. I can look just across the valley, to that celestial land. I catch a glimpse of the heavenly land, and of the happiness there. I have come to know and more fully than I ever knew him before. At 70 I have more faith in Him than I ever had. I know how true He is. If you have known him as I have, then there can be no such thing as skepticism, no such thing as anxiety. Gladness deepens in one as he approaches the three score and 10. He has placed his trust in the Lord. One sees gladness ruling the earth, one listens to all things with an ear attuned to the heavenly. One and one makes two, and two makes four, and four makes eight, and eight makes sixteen, and so on. The three score years and 10, if it has been reached, means the material, the spiritual, brings one to a glorious look into the valley, across which one must go, to reach the great heights of God's glory."

still in the possession of Judge Wallace's family.

Robert, son of James and Mary Wallace, settled in Henniker, where in 1902 he became judge of the Hillsboro county court.

Jonas Wallace, Judge Wallace's father, was a judge of the Hillsboro county court and was at one time president of the New Hampshire senate.

Robert M. Wallace received his early education in the schools and at the academy at Henniker, and at the age of 16 entered Dartmouth college, which he was graduated with honors in 1897.

He studied law in the office of Mason W. Tappan, who afterward became attorney general of New Hampshire. He was admitted to the bar in 1899 and the following year removed to Milford, where he formed a partnership with the late Bainbridge Wadleigh, United States senator, which they continued until Senator Wadleigh's removal to Boston.

Afterward Mr. Wallace continued his practice alone, representing his town in the legislature in 1877 and 1878, and at the constitutional convention in 1889.

In 1883 he was elected county solicitor for Hillsboro county, and held the office by re-election until 1893, when Governor Smith appointed him judge advocate general upon his staff, and followed it

NEW CHINESE MINISTER

K. F. SHAH, FIRST TO REPRESENT THE REPUBLIC IN AMERICA ARRIVED AT NEW YORK

NEW YORK, April 6.—K. F. Shah, the new Chinese minister to the United States, reached here yesterday on the steamer Kaiserin Augusta Victoria from Hamburg. With him were his family and attendants and a party of 15.

K. F. Shah is one of the products of the new regime of China. Word of his coming to the country had been sent by the American minister at Peking, Paul S. Reinsch, who advised the Washington government that Mr. Shah left Peking with his family on March 4, traveling by way of Siberia, meaning to come here from New York for the minister's presentation to President Wilson.

Mr. Shah will be the first minister under the new republic of China, recently recognized by the American government.

MUSICIANS JOIN FIND INFERNAL MACHINE

Union Was Organized at Woburn by Two Lowell Men

Messrs. Charles A. Delaronde and Joseph H. Hubbard, two officers of local 83, American Federation of Musicians, went to Woburn yesterday in order to organize the musicians of the neighboring city and they report success, for they expect that in the near future at least 30 of the 75 or more musicians at Woburn will join the Lowell local of this large and prosperous organization and ultimately form a branch of their own.

The reunion of musicians took place at Woburn Brass Band hall and the affair was largely attended. The two Lowell men spoke interestingly on the benefits to be derived from the association and they urged all those present to enroll under the banner of the American Federation of Musicians.

At present there are two brass bands and five orchestras in Woburn and no effort has ever been made to enroll the members into the Musicians' association. A short time ago the Lowell local was asked to send speakers to that city and accordingly Messrs. Delaronde and Hubbard were detailed to instruct their brothers from Woburn in regard to the association. The Lowell men were well received and at the close of the meeting luncheon was served and a social hour was spent.

Prof. L. N. Guilbault, who was recently initiated into the Lowell association, has received permission to secure the services of a number of members for his Easter concert which will be held at the Associated hall Sunday evening for the benefit of St. Jean Baptiste church.

The many friends of Bert F. Taber, conductor of Taber's Sixth Regiment band who left Lowell a short time ago to establish himself in Wells, N. H., will be pleased to learn that he has returned to this city, and that he has decided to remain in Lowell permanently.

Fred Bryant, a member of the Lowell local, and now a resident of Arlington, was renewing acquaintances at the Musicians' quarters yesterday.

Taber's Sixth Regiment band has been hired for the Greek parade next Sunday, which will be held in connection with the observance of Independence day.

TRIAL OF DR. J. E. PRICE

THREATENING POSTAL CARD SENT TO WOMAN ADVISING HER NOT TO PRESS CHARGES

NEW YORK, April 6.—A threatening postal card sent to Mrs. Hilma Dohl, advising her not to press her charges was today's contribution to the incidents attending the secret ecclesiastical trial of Dr. Jacob E. Price, the Methodist clergyman who is charged with misconduct by nine women members of his congregation. Mrs. Dohl said on the stand that Dr. Price had made improper proposals to her and "treated her as no man had ever treated her before."

Your accusations against Dr. Price," read the postal card, "are false. I suppose you are another suffragette clamoring for newspaper notoriety. Better let this matter drop."

The prosecution called another witness today in the person of Mrs. William Duke Moore, who made charges similar to those made by the complainants who had preceded her.

How about that "Seely Dinner" Supt. Welch?

At a recent meeting of the municipal council, Commissioner Brown, in speaking to a question of personal privilege, declared that he would soon have something to say about a "Seely dinner" that was held in a down-town office building, but this far he has not made any move in that direction, nor has he given the council or the public any further information.

His remarks, however, have had the effect of rousing the public mind to the seriousness of the charge, and the town has been rife with gossip concerning this so-called "Seely dinner." The substance of current rumor would indicate that a disgraceful performance of the sort mentioned by Mr. Brown actually did occur in our city, and hence it would seem to be the duty of Supt. Welch to investigate the whole affair without any delay, and if possible to bring to justice any and all persons who were responsible for this nauseating exhibition.

If Supt. Welch's official hands were ever tied, he cannot claim that they are tied now, for under the direction of Mayor Murphy he has shown commendable vigilance in the recent crusade against the tango and other dances of the so-called animal variety, and it is alleged that the dance at the "Seely dinner" was a thousand times worse than any tango or animal dance ever given in Lowell.

According to the current gossip of the street, three women dancers were brought to this city from Boston, and a number of local gentlemen were informed that a very interesting exhibition would be given on the third floor of a Central street office building on a certain night and that there would be wine, cigars, etc., the whole performance to cost the spectators something like $2 or $4 a head. Several of those notified agreed to be present knowing the nature of the performance, while others who put in an appearance did so under a misapprehension, and were deeply mortified to find themselves present at an indecent and illegal exhibition without any means of escape.

A portion of the room, it is said, was set apart for a temporary stage, screens and curtains were adjusted so that the dancers and the managers of the affair were hidden from view between the dances, and the announcements to the assemblage. The first dances were performed in ballet dress but after each succeeding dance the women retired behind the screens and gradually reduced their clothing, reappearing each time with less and less until finally they were without even the ballet costume. Meanwhile champagne was being handed around quite liberally and the managers and the dancers consumed their share, if not a little more, between the acts and behind the screens. In the end, it is alleged, that the women appeared before the spectators in the nude and went through a series of performances of the most disgusting character. At this point in the show, it is claimed, that some of the spectators fearing a visit from the police, attempted to get out of the room, but were prevented from so doing. Protest was of no avail and they were compelled to remain through what, according to the report, was the most disgraceful exhibition ever seen in this city.

Is it not the duty of the superintendent of police, therefore, to investigate this whole affair and see if it is possible to bring the promoters of this shocking performance to justice? If Commissioner Brown has any information concerning the details of this telephoreon debacle, it would seem that Supt. Welch could get it, but in any event there is enough talk about town to indicate that the superintendent should not have much difficulty in getting all the particulars necessary to present the case to the proper authorities.

Besides the violation of the law against such indecent performances, if these rumors are well founded, there was also a flagrant violation of the liquor law, for the building was not licensed for the sale of champagne at $3 per head, or any other price. Is it not up to Supt. Welch to find out who were the men who brought these dancing women to Lowell, who acted as stage managers, who poured the wine and who collected the money for the show and the drink?

The mayor having started in a laudable crusade against immoral dances and questionable theatrical performances, the superintendent of police will be but carrying out His Honor's instructions in sifting this matter to the bottom. This is no time to stop the good work. Let the crusade continue and let the promoters of this disgraceful "Seely dance" be hunted down in order that nothing of the kind may be attempted again in our city. Do your duty, Supt. Welch, and do it without delay and without fear. The citizens of Lowell and the mayor of our city are behind you.

SEWER WORK STARTED WITH GANG OF 175 MEN

Commissioner Morse Loosened up This Morning—Will Run Three Shifts on Appleton Street Job—Other City Hall News

Commissioner Charles J. Morse opened the season's sewer work this morning in Appleton and Brookside streets and about 1700 feet in Varnum avenue. I presume that we will encounter more or less ledge, but we are going to push the work along as rapidly as possible.

Street Work Planned
Relative to street work, Mr. Morse said: "We are going to tackle the two biggest jobs ever tackled by the street department of Lowell in one year, the Westford street job and the Gorham street job. There has been some talk of vitrified brick for the Westford street job but I am in favor of recent blocks. New blocks cost a fraction over five cents a block and recent block cost about three cents apiece. I do not know the cost of vitrified brick but I do know that granite blocks will last longer and, in my judgment, they make a much better job. It will be some time before we will be able to start street work, but when it starts there will be something doing. There is considerable frost in the ground at the present time but it will disappear before very long."

"The job will probably cost about $50,000. It will mean the block paving with recent granite blocks from Chelmsford street to Loring street, pretty nearly a half-mile stretch. More than that, the old asphalt base will have to be ripped out and this will cost money. The street is in horrible condition and nothing short of a new roadway will do. There is a new big water main down in the street and I have notified Commissioner Carmichael that all the houses along the street will have to be connected with that main before we start operations. It will be a big job, but when completed the residents of that section and the traveling public, in general, will be pleased with it and they will have a street that will be good for 20 years. At the end of that time the blocks can be pulled out, turned around and set in again."

"I must confess, however, that I am up against it on the price that I will have to pay the pavers. The old price was $3.50 a day, but the new schedule calls for $4 a day and there isn't any way out of it. I have gone through the matter from top to bottom and have investigated it thoroughly. There is nothing left to do but to pay the pavers $4 a day. I have about ten pavers, and that will mean a total increase of $24 a week."

Gorham Street Paving
"The second big job will be the block paving in Gorham street. This will cost a big sum of money, but it must be done. Gorham street is the most natural artery for travel into the city from Boston."

"There are a lot of odds and ends to be fixed up before the big jobs are tackled. There are four streets that I want to have fixed just as soon as I can get to them. They are the macadamized streets which have broken down and which are in pretty bad shape. High, Andover, Powell and Nesmith streets will have to have a top dressing put on them."

Council Meeting Wednesday
When the municipal council adjourned last week it adjourned to Wednesday of this week, forgetting for the time being that hearings had been scheduled for tomorrow. The hearings included pole locations in Epping and Walker streets and also on petitions for the storage of gasoline in Hurd and Amory streets.

Because of the mandamus proceeding in Boston tomorrow in connection with the purchase of the Pillsbury estate for a contagious hospital, it will be impossible for the municipal council to meet and the hearings scheduled for tomorrow will take place on Wednesday.

WILLIAM B. SAWYER INSTANTLY KILLED

At North Billerica Station—He Belonged in Keene, N.H.—David Sheehan Found Dead in Boarding House

A man believed to be William B. Sawyer of Keene, N. H., employed by the Boston & Maine railroad as a machinist, was instantly killed by a train within 100 yards of the railroad station at North Billerica shortly before 10 o'clock this forenoon. His body was cut in two and as there was no one near to identify him at the time the railroad officials notified Undertaker Healey, who removed the remains to his parlors on Branch street.

It is believed that the man boarded the train in this city to go to the B. & M. repair shops, which are located about a mile beyond the station at North Billerica. Whether he fell asleep on the train or was not aware of his whereabouts, is not known, but when the train stopped at the North village he made no attempt to get off.

Hardly had the train started toward Billerica Centre when the man hurried from his seat and rushing to the steps on the car next to the last, jumped to the ground. There is a bridge crossing Mt. Pleasant street, North Billerica, at this point and in jumping he hit against the bridge and was knocked back on the track and the wheels of the last car passed over his body, cutting it in twain. His identity could not be learned at the time of the accident and the remains were brought to the depot until the undertaker's wagon arrived.

Mr. Sawyer was about 60 years of age and lived in Keene, N. H. His son is now employed at the repair shops and was sent for to care for the body. He was well dressed and in his clothes were found a railroad transportation pass and a machinist's card. Both contained the name of William Sawyer, Keene, N. H.

Man Killed by Gas
The strong odor of illuminating gas in front of the Middlesex House, a lodging house located at 545 Middlesex street, caused the discovery about seven o'clock this morning of the dead body of David Sheehan, evidently a victim of gas asphyxiation. The dead man had occupied the room in which he was found for the past six or eight months and was well known in that vicinity. He was a man slightly over fifty years of age and of a robust physique.

Sheehan had been out of work for some time past and on several occasions had uttered expressions of discouragement. He was a man who drank rather heavily at times and, it is said, had been drinking before he retired last night.

There is no bracket in the room where the dead man was found, the gas being turned on from a gas-cock set close to the wall. When the body was discovered this morning the gas was wide open. Medical Examiner Meigs will view the body later.

STRICT ORDERS ISSUED

AGAINST SETTING FIRES IN OPEN AT BLACKSMITH SHOP IN HAMPSHIRE STREET

State Officer Smith came to Lowell today and in company with Edward F. Saunders, chief of the fire department, visited Mr. Henri Emond at 59 Hampshire street relative to a complaint lodged against Mr. Emond by neighbors on Friday last. Mr. Emond has a blacksmith shop at his residence on Hampshire street and has occasion to start fires for the purpose of putting new tires on wagon wheels. In order to avert the danger of such fires the following notice has been sent out by Commissioner Carmichael and Chief Saunders:

Mr. Henri Emond, 59 Hampshire St., Lowell, Mass.:
Dear Sir—As directed by chapter 32, section 5, of the revised laws, we, the undersigned, having received complaints from persons having an interest in premises adjacent to your place of business at 59 Hampshire street, Lowell, Mass., and upon investigation we find that on several days in the month of April, 1914, at your place of business, at 59 Hampshire street, Lowell, Mass., you have caused the unlawful existence of conditions liable to cause fire.

By the setting fire to wood and other materials in the open upon the street, sidewalk and yard adjacent to your blacksmith shop, at 59 Hampshire street, Lowell, Mass.

We, the undersigned, hereby order you to remedy said unlawful existing conditions, by not setting any more fires or causing to be set any more fires in the open at said 59 Hampshire street, Lowell, Mass.

The executive committee of the Lowell board of trade met this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, and at 4:30 o'clock the city beautiful committee held a meeting.

REV. DR. JAS. H. ECOB

TALKED IN TEAM WORK AT V. M. C. A. MEN'S MEETING—HE ALSO SPOKE AT PAWTUCKET CHURCH

Rev. Dr. James H. Ecob of New York spoke at the V. M. C. A. men's meeting Sunday afternoon and explained "Team work" as it applies to social service and everyday life. Dr. Ecob is a member of the advisory committee of the Institute of Social Service.

He said that the business of team work is a very big thing and while he is not very enthusiastic over athletics, he believes that the best thing in athletics is the development of team work. The sulfate game is too good, he declared. He said the thing that hurts one of our number is the lack of team work. He pointed out the inefficiency and helplessness of a man considered alone. It is only by the team work of all that the community enjoys its comforts and conveniences and its blessings. The business man who plays the game that everything must come to him will find all things worth living for gone from him. It was team work that was the helpful thing. Team work means pulling together, helping each other. Society is the group or the team, and it is society that is doing all the things that are done.

At Pawtucket Church
Dr. Ecob spoke at the Pawtucket church last night on "The Religion of Social Service." He said that the shifting of the population into cities has been so rapid that the people do not know what to do with themselves. In most of our large and growing cities there are not homes enough for the people, not schools enough for the children, not conveniences enough to get the people about their business and pleasure. Here are problems that have come upon us so rapidly that we are not prepared for them. We are still beginning to realize, for example, that the slum does not pay, or that three-fourths of our industrial slaughter is needless.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Sunday, the pastor, Rev. C. B. Fisher, D. D., preached on "Some of the Lessons of Palm Sunday." He said that Christ's humble entry into Jerusalem taught the lesson that the sceptre of Jesus was that of a spiritual king, an emperor intrinsically greater than that of the product of a monarch. "Inasmuch as in our daily lives we exercise self-denial and purity of motive," said the preacher, "in just such degree are we disciples of Jesus Christ. As Jesus was a spiritual ruler, so let us pattern after him, strive for spiritual domination over our lower natures. We owe a debt to the great Nazarene for the enduring pattern of moral and spiritual exemplarship he has given unto us. Then let us enroll ourselves under his white banner, and in the midst of the turmoil of this busy world show that we appreciate our divine leader in standing firm for righteousness."

Several interesting communications were read, and it was reported that the state convention would be held in Worcester. It was announced that plans are being made for a monster mass meeting of Hibernians to be held in this city the next Sunday in May.

YOUNG MAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH—NOW AT ST. JOHN'S HOSPITAL

A young man who gave his name as Albert Norbury, and who claimed his home is in Indiana, jumped from a moving freight car yesterday afternoon and miraculously escaped death, for he slipped beneath the car, but, fortunately, rolled out just in time to prevent the wheels from passing over his body. As it was the young man sustained a broken rib and possible internal injuries as the result of his fall.

According to the young man's story told at St. John's hospital, whether he was removed shortly after the accident, he has been traveling across the country from Indiana. Yesterday he was riding a freight bound for Ayer, whereas he believed the train was bound for Worcester. He found out his mistake shortly after the freight had gone through this city, and immediately leaped from the car. He was riding and in so doing partly rolled across the track over which the freight was passing, but fortunately escaped being ground under the wheels. On account of his broken rib he was unable to move further and was found a short time later by railroad men who removed him to the home of Dr. James F. Hoban, whence he was removed to the hospital. It was stated at the hospital that the young man spent a comfortable night and that his condition is rapidly improving.

THIRTY-THREE ARE TO BE ELECTED NEXT FALL AND SOME SHARP CONTESTS ARE UNDER WAY

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Thirty-three United States senators are to be elected this year by direct vote of the people in the first general test of the 17th amendment to the constitution. Terms of 31 present members of the senate expire March 3, next, and in addition to these successors must be chosen to the late Senator Johnston of Alabama, and the late Senator Bacon of Georgia.

In Georgia, besides a successor to Senator Bacon, there will be a contest over the seat of Senator Hoke Smith. Mr. Smith will seek to retain his seat. In Alabama besides the election of a successor to Senator Johnston for the regular term beginning March 3 next, there will be a senator chosen to fill his unexpired term, which will sit until March 3, 1915, only.

Of the sitting members of the senate most of the republicans whose terms expire are candidates to succeed themselves, although there have been rumors that Senators Bradley of Kentucky, Gallinger of New Hampshire, and Root of New York might retire. No definite announcements have been made, however, in these cases. Senator Crawford of South Dakota has just been defeated in the primary fight for nomination, losing to Representative Charles Henry Burke of South Dakota.

Of the democrats whose terms expire, all except Senator Thornton are candidates to succeed themselves. Senator Shively of Indiana, already has been nominated in convention and in the recent Arkansas primaries, according to uncorroborated returns, Senator Clarke was nominated by a small majority. There may yet be some controversy over this nomination. In Alabama, the senatorial primaries will be held today. Representative Underwood and Representative Richmond Pearson Hobson being the candidates for the long term. The result of that contest is being awaited with interest, not only in Washington, but throughout the country.

A lively contest already is under way in Kansas, where Representative Victor Murdock seeks the senatorial nomination at the hands of the progressive party to enter the lists against Senator Bristow and where Ex-Senator Curtis seeks to win the republican nomination from Senator Bristow.

The fight in Pennsylvania already is booming, primaries to be held next month. The outlook is that Senator Penrose will be nominated by the republicans; Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, by the democrats, and Gifford Pinchot as the candidate of the progressive party element.

MILK DRIVERS STRIKE

R. F. HOOD & SONS' EMPLOYEES QUIT BECAUSE OF ALLEGED DISCRIMINATION

BOSTON, April 6.—Drivers employed by R. F. Hood & Sons, milk contractors, struck in the Forest Hills district early today, and union officials said they expected the majority of drivers at other points to refuse to deliver milk today. The company was called for police protection. The strike was called because of the claims of the men that many drivers had been discharged for joining the union.

EXPLOSION IN LONDON CHURCH
LONDON, April 6.—An explosion in St. Martin's church, Trafalgar square, last night did considerable damage to the pews and a stained window in the south aisle. A canonizer, supposed to have contained the explosive was found. The outrage is attributed to militant suffragets.

FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE
BOSTON, April 6.—The Boston Central Labor union decided yesterday to take part in the parade to be held next month as a demonstration in favor of woman suffrage. The delegates expressed the belief that marching would not help the cause, but said they would do all possible to support laws for equal suffrage "as a matter of justice and as economic necessity."

INCREASE IN DIVORCES

MARRIAGE REDUCED TO MERE CIVIL SERVICE PERFORMED OUTSIDE OF CHURCH, REASON FOR MANY

BOSTON, April 6.—Marriage reduced to a mere civil service and performed outside of the church, was one of the reasons assigned for the increase of divorce by Fr. Paulinus of the Pastoral Order before a gathering of 2000 Catholic and non-Catholic people at the cathedral last night.

He scored those who want to be married at home in the glow of brilliant lights and decorations and with an imposing attendance of bridesmaids, maids of honor, flower girls and other consorts.

Fr. Paulinus further warned both Catholics and non-Catholics against marrying one of another faith, saying, "If a non-Catholic young man should ask my advice in respect to his proposed marriage to a Catholic girl, I would tell him not to. She would make his life miserable. The same is true of a Catholic who would marry a non-Catholic."

There are exceptions to the rule, but those who enter such a marriage are taking a chance. Many of the children that result from such marriages are lost to all religions. They are neither good Catholics nor good Protestants.

"Marriage is a contract. It is a natural contract and God has the right to dictate conditions governing it. What God hath joined together let no man put asunder. Marriages should bind the contracting parties until death parts them."

MAN FINED $25

For Driving Auto While Under Influence of Drink

Sing Wah, the Chinese laundryman who was arrested at his Pawtucketville laundry last week and charged with having in his possession an opium smoking outfit and a number of Chinese "policy" slips, appeared today on continuance.

Lawyer Toye, counsel for the defendant, pleaded guilty to both charges. Sing Wah received the same sentence as that meted out last week to his fellow countryman. He was fined $25, $50 on the opium complaint and $25 for being present where gambling implements were found.

Daniel Gillis, a young man from Lawrence, was charged with driving an auto while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty.

Supt. Welch stated to the court that the young man was not actually driving the machine at the time he was arrested. Gillis drives a big auto truck for a Worcester concern and comes to Lowell several times a week.

Supt. Welch told Judge Enright that he had been in communication with the defendant's employers and that the young man bore an excellent reputation. He suggested to the court a fine of $25.

"It is bad enough," stated his honor, "to have to put up with the reckless driving of sober chauffeurs to say nothing of having drunken men operating machines." The court further stated that the only reason he did not impose a jail sentence upon the defendant was the fact that he bore such a good previous record. He was fined $25.

William J. Lally was charged with threatening his wife and was also arraigned for drunkenness. The defendant has been in court on a previous occasion for domestic trouble.

The wife testified that her husband had threatened a rape and made threats to kill her with it. She told the court that she lived in perpetual fear of the man.

Lally was indignant at the charge. "Why would you imagine such a thing," he asked the superintendent. "Why it is positively ridiculous," Judge Enright, however, ordered him to furnish a bond of $200 as a guarantee of good behavior during the next six months.

The other offenders this morning were all drunks of various degrees. Joseph Duchesne was sent to jail for three months. Michael A. Sullivan, a fifth offender, informed the court that he was on his way to Foshier to take the cure. He was given a week's time in which to matriculate. David Welch and Henry P. Lambert received fines of $15 and John Monahan, Mary McElroy and Xavier Deschamps all qualified in the $5 class.

SUPERIOR COURT OPENS

Judge Sanderson Opened Civil Session This Morning—No Cases Ready for Trial

The April sitting of the superior court opened at the court house on Gorham street at 10 o'clock this forenoon with Judge Sanderson presiding. The calendar is an unusually short one and it appears that the session will be finished earlier than usual.

At the opening of the court prayer was offered by the Rev. Nathaniel W. Matthews, pastor of the Gorham Street Methodist church. A large gathering of lawyers from Lowell and elsewhere assembled in the room while the first ten pages of the list were called and of the cases read, none were ready for trial today.

WILD MILITANT SHRIEKS OVER 3000 ATTENDED

STOPPED COURT PROCEEDINGS IN LONDON—GENERAL DRUMMOND'S YELLS

LONDON, April 6.—General Mrs. Flora Drummond, the militant suffragette, shrieked so loudly when she was arraigned today at the police court in connection with the suffragette disturbances at the Colonial demonstration in Hyde Park on Saturday that she had to be forcibly removed.

She would not allow either the magistrate or the prosecuting attorney to utter an audible word.

When Mrs. Drummond entered the prisoners' enclosure she shouted at the top of her voice that she would permit anyone but herself to speak because she said the magistrates and the police courts were doing the dirty work of Premier Asquith. She then proceeded to bombard the court with volleys of verbal shrapnel until she was carried out by warders.

The magistrate stated that he would hear the case later in the day.

THE CLOSE OF THE MISSIONS AT ST. JOSEPH'S AND ST. JEAN'S CHURCHES

It is figured that over 3000 men received holy communion yesterday morning in St. Joseph's and St. Jean Baptiste churches, the event being the closing of the annual mission for married men of the parish. Sermons were delivered every morning and evening at both churches, the missionaries being Rev. Fr. Fortier, O. M. I., and Rev. Fr. Allard, O. M. I., both from Quebec. The mission was one of the most successful conducted in St. Joseph's parish for years, and the clergyman of the parish as well as the missionaries are dated with the flattering success of the retreat. The close of the mission took place last evening when services were held in both churches at 7:30 o'clock. St. Jean Baptiste church was filled to the doors and additional chairs had to be supplied and when that method was exhausted there were more men looking for seats, and they were directed to the sanctuary where they seated themselves on the steps of the altar. Rev. Fr. Fortier was the preacher, and he delivered a forceful sermon on "Perseverance." The service closed with benediction of the blessed sacrament, after the papal blessing had been bestowed upon the congregation by the missionary.

The 31st St. Joseph's church in Lee street was also the scene of a very large gathering last night. With the exception of a few places in the galleries, every new in the church was taken up and the men listened attentively to a very interesting sermon delivered by Rev. Fr. Allard, O. M. I., who took for his subject "Perseverance." The reverend clergyman reviewed the good work that had been done during the week and also complimented the men for attending communion in such large numbers. He urged frequent communion as the best mode of salvation, and concluded by bestowing upon those present the papal blessing.

Rev. C. A. Paquette, O. M. I., officiated at benediction, and a fine musical program was given under the direction of Telesphore Malo. Dooley's "Scholarship" was sung by L. J. Z. Robillard and E. J. Laroche; a trio, Roseville's "Ave Maria Stella" was rendered by T. Malo, E. C. Gaurin and P. J. Laroche; while another trio, "Veni Creator" was sung by J. E. Nofel, T. Malo and L. J. Z. Robillard. At the close of the service the choir sang Stearns' "Laudate."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Foye of 21 Marlborough street, are rejoicing over the birth of a daughter, and Frank is passing around his favorite brand of cigars.

A CHANGE IN FIRM

SIMMONS BROS. ARE NOW IN PARTNERSHIP WITH THEIR UNCLE, R. O. ADAMS

Two of Lowell's best known and most popular young business men, Herbert A. Simmons and his brother, Warren H. Simmons, have recently bought out an interest in the undertaking and embalming establishment of J. B. Currier Co. in Prescott street, and the firm's place of business has undergone a complete remodeling. The Simmons Bros. will now be associated in business with their uncle, R. O. Adams, who has been connected with the firm for many years.

Undertakers Currier Co. now offer to the public one of the most complete undertaking and embalming apartments in New England. Not the slightest detail has been neglected in an attempt to place before the bereaved relatives and friends a full list of everything that the sad duties of the profession call for.

Not the least part of the remodeling of Undertakers J. B. Currier Co.'s Prescott street apartments is their new chapel. This is one of the most elegantly furnished and equipped of its kind anywhere and is totally isolated from the rest of the building. The new morgue is also worthy of note for in this as well the same idea of sombre grandeur is carried out.

In the addition of the Simmons brothers to the firm the J. B. Currier

Co. has procured two young men who are well read and thoroughly trained in the more modern branches of the science of embalming as well as being wholly capable funeral directors.

Mr. Herbert Simmons is a graduate of the Barnes School of Anatomy, Embalming and Sanitary Science of New York and is also a post-graduate of the New England Institute of Anatomy of Boston. He is a registered embalmer in New Hampshire as well as Massachusetts. Mr. Warren Simmons completed his scientific studies at the New England Institute of Anatomy and Sanitary Science of Boston. Both of the new partners were educated in the public schools of Lowell before taking up their studies for the profession which they will utilize at the apartments of Undertakers J. B. Currier Co. at 35 Prescott street.

Shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday night Sergt. Petrie, Special Officer Clark, Patrolmen Keeney, O'Sullivan, Regan and J. T. Kelley broke into a coffee house at the upper end of Market street and arrested a crowd of nine men among whom was the proprietor, Bill Alexopoulos. Officers Bagley, Dwyer, Moore, Cossette and Taffar made the other raid just before 2 o'clock Sunday morning on Decatur avenue. Frank Parent, William O'Brien, Edward Tremblay, Alfred Duval, Joseph Perreault, Thomas Chouinard and Alfred Columbe were the men arrested in this endeavor. They were all charged with gambling on the Lord's day.

Nine sad-faced individuals stepped up to the defendants' bench this morning and pleaded guilty to being present where a game was being conducted on the Lord's day. These were the Decatur avenue gamblers, and after hearing what Supt. Welch had to say on all 53. The case of the men arrested in the Greek coffee house was continued until next Thursday.

Pierre Mainville of Montreal, Que., and formerly of this city, is renewing acquaintances in Lowell.

NEW ENGLAND FARMS

Conditions of the Farming Industry—Hay, Grain and Fruit Crops—High Price of Eggs

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The land and the farming of New England have often been criticized. There are two chief classes of critics. These are composed of people who have known the farming of these states 20 years ago, and those who are seeing it today in a superficial manner.

For a generation or two past the changes in farming the country over, had left the farming of New England in a depressed condition, according to a specialist of the department of agriculture. The reaction of the last decade is now remedying this depression. It was true that New England could not produce some of the staple crops in competition with the land of the Central States, especially when that land was low priced. The present change is due to the large and grow-

Observation from railway trains often results in statements which exaggerate the amount of rough land in New England. As a rule some of the poorest land lies in sight of the railways, while the rest of this region is by no means all of the same character. The tillable land is much more extensive than is often understood, and the non-tilable is a valuable asset as grazing or woodland.

The development of profitable farming on New England land has not yet gone so far, but that there are now many sections where the land is really cheap, considering its productive capacity. To make the production of crops pay good interest on the value of the land, it must, of course, be chosen as to avoid the speculative values caused by suburban or summer residences, or in a few cases by over-estimated farming values. The very cheap land is often to be avoided also, because it is not fitted for farming and is at the moment devoid of forest covering. Some of the cheap farms are not large enough in acreage, or produce too little income per acre, to keep a farmer and his family. Such farms, however, may form desirable parts of a larger farm business. Most of the real farming is done on land valued at from ten to one hundred dollars per acre and the greater part of it is perhaps on the land worth from $25 to $50 per acre, the whole farm taken together.

The distinctive features of New England farming are due to the fact that the region as a whole is particularly adapted to the growth of grass and trees. So, in general, the kinds of farming which depend on the grass crop predominate. These kinds of farming are probably supplemented by orcharding, and have great help from the presence of woodland. The last furnishes winter employment for many farmers and their teams.

Hay growing for the market on the moist or loamy soils of New England is more profitable than corn growing in the Central States. Potatoes on the well drained lands of northern New England and apple orchards on the uplands of all but the most northern part are profitable and command markets which are not so easily reached from other states. Truck and small fruit crops are in demand and are profitable to raise near to any of the larger towns and cities. Market milk is also a paying product even somewhat further from the cities, but is not so universally profitable as has been supposed, when it has to be sold for

Why is it that one person can work all day standing in cold water, slush and snow with no harmful effect, while another with less exposure contracts colds, pneumonia, rheumatism, sciatica, or something equally distressing and dangerous?

Because in the first case the body was in such perfect balance that there was "resistance" to disease. In the second there was lack of tone that invited ill health.

Keep your system toned up with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and foods that once distressed you will be harmless. Exposure will bring no fears of rheumatism and neuralgia and even germ diseases need hardly be dreaded.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills assist digestion, correct the lassitude, the palpitation of the heart, shaky nerves and the pallor of face and lips that are the results of thin, impure blood.

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness. Take them as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition and cultivate a resistance that will keep you well and strong. Get a box from the nearest drug store and begin this treatment now.

Patches are profitable in a number of localities in the southern half of New England, as, for instance, on the slopes of the Connecticut valley in Massachusetts and Connecticut, and on favored slopes in New Hampshire along the southern border. The production of eggs and poultry pays well when properly managed, for the average prices of eggs in southern New England are among the highest in the country. Livestock farming which utilizes the relatively cheap grazing land of southern New England is favorably situated, but should not depend exclusively on dairy products. The growing of young dairy cattle for the use of market milk regions and of sheep for mutton utilize part of these pastures to advantage. Other products are of local importance and profit in various parts of these states, whose special conditions or markets obtain.

There are two chief problems in New England farming where the land has been under cultivation for so many years. The first is to supply humus economically. It has been supposed that livestock would do this but it is now evident that in many situations other means must be employed. Short rotations including a clover sod to plow down with frequent regularity will do much to keep the needed amount of humus in the soil. Where land is in a badly exhausted state other more hardy crops must first be grown as green manure to build the land up to where it will grow clover in rotation. Winter rye and buckwheat are two of the most hardy and efficacious crops to plow under green.

The second problem is the choosing of the combination of enterprises to make the farm most profitable as a whole. This very frequently means selecting the best adapted cash crop in a given locality to combine with the dairy farming or other livestock business. It may also mean the selection of the proper rotation to employ the farmer and his teams to best advantage at all times of the year, both in growing the several crops and in disposing of them. This question may usually be solved from the experience of successful farms in the same region or at least in adjoining states.

MRS. EDDY FOUND

Detectives Believe They Have Clue to Missing Siegel Fortune

POINCARÉ'S TESTIMONY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 6.—Mrs. Diana E. Eddy, the Boston mystery widow, whom the district attorney's office of that city charges with knowing what became of the fortune of Henry Siegel, the wrecked banker and department store king, and the trunk which is believed to contain the secret of the Siegel fortune, if not the fortune itself, were apparently safely trapped in the Linden apartments here last night.

A swift automobile is being held in readiness at the Linden, at 121 Waterman street, to pursue the trunk, which Inspector Silas W. White of the Boston police and Inspector Caffrey of the local force stated they believe contains the hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of Siegel securities, which Mrs. Henry Siegel charged in her divorce libel her husband had successfully hidden.

The issuing of a search warrant, for which the police were preparing last night, is likely to clear up the whole

mystery of Mrs. Eddy, which District Attorney Pelletier has considered of such vital importance to the creditors of the Siegel store and bank that he has instituted a relentless hunt for her.

In the face of irate statements from Mrs. Susan Brown, mother of James Salisbury Brown, the broker, who has the apartment at the Linden and is engaged to Mrs. Eddy, that Mrs. Eddy was not the "Mrs. Eddy of Boston" referred to as correspondent in the Siegel divorce case, and that she was not in the apartment, detectives here last night, said they had located her and to an extent established her connection with the case.

A new sensation was sprung in the case when it was announced yesterday that a summons had been taken out for Brown himself in Massachusetts, to have him tell what he knows of

Mrs. Eddy's connection with the Siegel case, and that a similar summons will be taken out here today.

They believe they penetrated a clever attempt to outwit the authorities when Mr. Brown and an attractive woman fled from the apartments Saturday just before Inspectors White and Caffrey arrived to serve their summons on Mrs. Eddy.

FOR NEW ENGLAND PROSPERITY

The news of the selection of Boston as one of the centers of the federal reserve bank system comes with timeliness on the heels of the prosperity conference called by the governor for the purpose of boosting Massachusetts, and the choice of the reserve bank organization committee is a good stimulus to the prosperity boom. The reserve bank of Boston will be a benefit to all of New England because it will enable the banks of the region to be freer, allowing them the privilege of applying to a centrally located bank for relief in time of temporary stringency. Instead of compelling them to look to New York for succor as heretofore, it will also remove the uncertainty which in the past kept the banks of New England from adding many a legitimate business venture, out of fear, arising from New York speculation. Furthermore, it will place the credit of New England in the hands of men who are in sympathy with the affairs of New England and who know the needs of the territory which they serve financially.

The next important step in the adaptation of the new banking law to the financial system of the country will be the appointment of the five persons who, with the controller of the currency and the secretary of the treasury, will constitute the new federal reserve board. The naming of this board is one of the most delicate problems that has confronted President Wilson since his inauguration, and that he realizes the seriousness of it is evident from his expressed aspirations, and from the fact that he intends to take the full time allowed by law before making known his decisions. He has announced that he will send the names to the senate in about four weeks.

It is too much to expect that the membership of the federal reserve board will suit all sections of the country equally and the result of the president's choice may be well forecasted from the agitation that has followed the selection of the reserve bank centers in some quarters. While rivalries and animosities exist between cities and sections it is difficult to get unanimity of opinion and in a federal reserve board of six or so, it is impossible to have all the country represented equally. New England may be pardoned for the ambition to be represented here also, but if the men named be able, sincere, in sympathy with the law and free from entangling alliances, New England will welcome them, wherever they hail from.

ROGERS CRITICIZES PRESIDENT

Neither President Wilson nor Secretary Bryan have shown themselves to be over-sensitive with regard to adverse personal criticism, but even were they abnormally susceptible to abuse they would not in all probability lose a great deal of sleep over the resounding, accusations of Representative Rogers, republican, of Massachusetts. We had always supposed that the district represented by Mr. Rogers was one of unusual industrial importance, and we believe that his predecessors in office generally found enough to do in looking after the affairs of their constituents; but it has remained for our present congressman to take the world on his shoulders, like a political Atlas. Mr. Rogers may allege that his duties in connection with the foreign relations committee of the house—of which he is a member—entitle him to assail the foreign policy of the administration; but there is a certain untimeliness between his tirade and the vote on the tolls question, in which Mr. Rogers differed from the president and favored a disregard of our treaty obligations.

Young people are apt to make rash utterances and Mr. Rogers' political youth must be taken into consideration when discounting his grave charges connecting the appointments in the diplomatic corps and consular service with the campaign fund of the president. Yet it must be humiliating to many men of all parties in Mr. Rogers' district that he should be the first to ascribe ignoble motives to President Wilson, particularly at this critical time when the president needs the honest support of every generous citizen both in and out of congress in advancing a broad and liberal policy. Years will teach Mr. Rogers discretion if he does not let his zeal to discredit the administration run away with his good judgment. He is, we believe, an assiduous reader and student, and he could not do better in the near future than to vary his studious research in the congressional library by a perusal of a little fable in Aesop which tells of an ambitious toad that saw an ox and becoming envious tried to swell himself on what-with disastrous results. Mr. Rogers feels apparently that as a republican he is bound to criticize democratic measures and policies right or wrong. In all probability it was this feeling that led him to get in wrong in regard to the currency bill when such men as Senator Weeks, whose republicanism cannot be questioned, were broad-minded enough to favor the bill.

PANAMA CANAL FORTIFIED

Some students of international questions have alleged that if congress decides against the right of this country to exempt its coastwise shipping from tolls in the use of the Panama canal, it has no right to fortify the canal, but this view is not held either by the war department or by the mass of the American people. Coincident with the opening of the canal the last gun of the fortifications which will guard the Atlantic entrance to the waterway will be placed in position, and the forts at the Pacific end will be nearing completion at the same time. Speaking recently in answer to some critics who expressed doubt that the United States could hold the waterway in times of war, Secretary Garrison said: "If you could see the great forts which have been erected at the Atlantic and Pacific ends of the canal you would not doubt our ability to protect this most valuable property from any foreign enemy."

The secretary went on to explain that the range of a modern battleship is 12 to 14 miles and no hostile battleship could get near the canal entrance without running the gamut of our shore batteries which are situated near the sea for miles along the coast. The American coast batteries are equipped to do effective work at greater distances than any warship, and would thus be able to prevent hostile fleets from getting near enough to damage the locks. Forts have also been placed on small islands at the Atlantic entrance and should any foreign ship get near enough to be dangerous it would have to run beside these island forts at close range. At the Pacific end the fortifications consist mainly in two great forts upon which are mounted the most powerful guns made in America, and probably the most powerful in the world. Speaking of one of the guns—the 16-inch gun recently completed at Sandy Hook—Secretary Garrison said: "When in position this gun will prevent the approach of any fleet, even if all the other guns on the fort were silenced. It alone is powerful enough to sink an entire squadron, and the men who operate it can hit a target the size of an ordinary sheet at a distance of 14 miles, nine shots out of ten."

ABUSE OF TELEPHONES

Sooner or later all forms of domestic or civil troubles are altered before legislative committees; the latest is the wall of the party-line telephone user who is connected with a monopolizing individual or individuals who telephone for long periods at a stretch regardless of the discomfiture of other patrons. Almost all who have been on a four-party line will understand the sorrows of the remonstrant in question and will sympathize with him.

Complaints by users of party lines were aired last Friday at a conference between the New England Telephone and Telegraph company and the Public Service commission. The suggestion was made that telephone conversations on party lines be limited by law to five minutes, but the company, through the commission, wisely decided that this plan is not feasible. In an effort to bring about remedial co-operation, however, between telephone patrons and the telephone company, a statement was issued which will help to eliminate the abuse of the telephone hour. Among other things, the commission suggested "a statement in the telephone directory in some such form as the following:

"Satisfactory service on party lines depends very largely upon the willingness of the joint users to co-operate with one another in their demand on the service. The company accordingly respectfully requests party line subscribers to limit their conversations to five minutes when others wish to use the line and to give immediate notice of what is in excess of emergency calls."

BURN THE MOTH NESTS

The advice of Commissioner Donnelly to the private property owners of the city with regard to the brown-tail and grey-moth pests is timely and commendable. Year in and year out hordes of men are employed by the city to aid in eradicating these scourges of the city and their efforts are frequently negated largely through negligence. Many persons make no effort to remove the nests from their premises and those who strive to do so frequently adopt the wrong methods. The commissioner urges on citizens, generally, the necessity of applying for permits so that the moth nests may be burned. If care is taken in this process of eradicating the moths, there ought to be good results even in one season. The state is co-operating with the city and people generally cannot do better than to co-operate with their public officials in this important matter.

FAIR PLAY FOR PEARSON

It was hoped by the friends of our fellow-townman, Assistant-Clerk Pearson, that the decision of the superior court making his tenure of office valid until the end of his term.

under the existing law, would result in his remaining unmoistened, but unfortunately such does not appear probable. The legislature which frames laws can repeal laws, and if a bill reported by the legislative committee on military affairs last Friday gets on the statute books, General Pearson will be removed from his present office with but little ceremony. Without wishing to criticize the motives of the military committee which reported favorably on the bill, it seems that if the efficiency of the militia of Massachusetts were the ruling consideration the present law would be allowed to stand. The Lowell delegation in the legislature should stand by Pearson.

Though the tour of Premier Asquith north to plead with his constituents the cause of English democracy was a triumphant demonstration, it was as nothing as compared with the ovation which he will receive when he returns in parliament—the champion of a vindicated cause.

HOW YOU MAY THROW AWAY YOUR GLASSES

The statement is made that thousands wear eyeglasses who do not need them. If you are one of these unfortunate, then these glasses may be ruining your eyes instead of helping them. Thousands who wear "wind-downs" may prove for themselves that they can dispense with glasses if they will get the following prescription filled at once: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Opton; fill a two-ounce bottle with water and add in one Opton tablet. With this harmless liquid solution, bathe your eyes two to four times daily and you are likely to be astonished at the results right from the start. Many who have been told that they have astigmatism, eye-strain, cataract, sore eyes, weak eyes, conjunctivitis and other eye disorders, report wonderful benefits from the use of this free prescription. Get this prescription filled and use it; you may strengthen your eyes that glasses will not be necessary. Thousands who are blind or nearly so, or who wear glasses, would never have required them if they had cared for their eyes in time. Save your eyes before it is too late. Do not become one of these victims of neglect. Eyeglasses are only like crutches and every few years they must be changed to fit the ever-increasing weakened condition, so better see if you can, like many others, get clear, healthy, strong, magnetic eyes through the prescription here given.—Advertisement.

The material was Persian and the effect kitchentish. Some thought that the vice-president looked like a set piece in the new decoration.

Investigation by Senator Lewis, whose sole day was ruined by the demonstration, developed the fact that a waistcoat had been made from a piece

Mirza Kuli Kahn, in charge of the Persian legation in Washington, presented the ornate bit of cloth to the vice president, and, despite the fact that the material is generally used for rugs and table covering, Mr. Marshall elected to bedeck himself and prostrate J. Ham Lewis.

Woven into the fabric a design of somewhat gaudy leaves and twigs gave the vice presidential midriff a beautiful autumnal appearance and the Kurdish work was thoroughly appreciated by those who withstood the dazzle long enough to make it out. Such is the vested power of a vice president.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Judge R. B. Lindsay, the famous justice and criminologist, declares that human nature is the same in every breast, and that if the right appeal is made to people who go astray, there is always a chance to land them on the right. This humane theory is advanced in the famous photo-play "Leah Kleschna," which will be shown in this city for the first time at the Opera House today. Produced by the Famous Players Film company in four great parts with the distinguished actress Carlotta Nielsen in the leading role this wonderful feature has stirred the civilized world with its appeal for the helpless criminal. Leah Kleschna, a woman of the street, is the drama that merely interests and titillates. Its directness, simplicity and power are irresistible. Its moral is powerful and touches a responsive and sympathetic chord in the heart of all humanity.

"PEG O' MY HEART"

Miss Marion Dentler, the engaging little actress who will interpret the role of Peg in Oliver Morosoff's production of "Peg O' My Heart" when this exquisite comedy is staged at the Opera House, is seen at the Opera House Friday evening, April 15th, has had a thorough experience in character work. Peg presents possibilities which any actress would be glad to try and Miss Dentler counts herself a fortunate young woman indeed to be selected for a role which is considered one of the "finest" in current theatrics.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Besides being of a highly entertaining nature, "Traffic in Souls," the week's offering at the Merrimack Square theatre all this week has a wonderfully strong lesson which it teaches. Information that it gives, and warnings it sounds out to the general public against the so-called "white slave traffic," said to be so prevalent in the large cities of the country. Those who are in position to know state that this really marvelous picture story is one of the strongest instruments in the elimination of vice that could possibly be used. The performances will be given afternoon and evening, the first matinee performance being at 1:15 and the first night presentation at 5:15 o'clock. The usual Merrimack Square theatre prices will prevail.

Patrons of this theatre will no doubt be delighted to learn of the return engagement of The Merrimack Square Theatre Players for the week commencing Easter Monday matinee, April 13, in America's best comedy, "The Man On the Box." The place is from Harold McGrath's book by the same name, and has sufficient merit to it to commend it to all lovers of high-class comedy. The cast will include such favorites as Walter Scott Weeks, Stewart Wilson, Charles Stevens, W. J. Clark, Fred Hovel, Clara Carroll, Cecil Lugin, Miss May B. Hurst, Ivaloe Eddy, Geneva H. Williams, Natalie Rounds and others, including a new leading woman, an announced later. Seats for the opening night will go on sale Wednesday, April 8, at 10 a. m. No other seats will go on sale until Saturday, after the noon sale and make early application for your tickets at the opening night and make the return of your favorites ring with the hearty voices of a richly deserved success. The offering for the week commencing April 20, will be "The Only Son," by Winchell Smith, author of "The Fortune Hunter" and other plays equally as good.

This theatre will be closed all day Good Friday.

KEITH'S THEATRE

"Just Half Way," a delightful little comedy of life, will be the feature presentation at the R. F. Keith theatre, the week with Rhehart and Heritage playing the leading roles. This sketch was written by one of the best known of latter day dramatic authors, and it is said to hold a charm all its own. It is based on the fact that there is all unusual and not specially dramatic. It is, however, delicately woven and clean and sweet from start to finish. The story is a simple one, such as is to be written by the man in question, and the management of the Keith theatres has secured all of them for the week commencing April 13, and the "Just Half Way" will start a new vaudeville sketches. It undoubtedly will have a warm reception here, for it is not only carefully written but is played by a thoroughly competent company.

Elephants who really think, that is what their owner says, will do a lot of interesting things. Their owner is one Robbins, who got the pachyderms when they were young, and trained them in an Indian stockade until they were big enough to bring to Europe. There they appeared in nearly all of the leading vaudeville theatres and hippodromes. So successful was the act that they have been brought to America at great expense. Last year they were featured with a very well known circus. This act differs much from those ordinarily put forward for elephants.

Recently there has been a trend towards a more refined kind of vaudeville entertainment. Notwithstanding this there has been the declaration made that there is no room in the varieties for anything savoring of the classical. But Guerrero and Carman offer a musical act which is of the very highest standard. Harp and violin duets and solos will be given by them. Guerrero was born in Chicago and since the age of 12 years he has had the benefit of the most expert advice for his violin playing, in Europe and in America. He was concertmaster in the orchestra of the Metropolitan Opera House in Germany under the most celebrated of masters, and it was in Berlin that the twain first met. Since that time they have appeared in all of the big concert halls and vaudeville theatres of the continent, and they are now making their first tour of America. The act is bound to make a deep impression. Webb and Burns offer an act which is widely different from most two-man acts before the public. They are known as "The Italian minstrels" and they mix patter, comedy, singing and dancing in an inimitable manner. They have only recently returned from a tour of the principal vaudeville theatres in New York, and for a few weeks, or until the close of the season, will appear in New York.

Herron and Gaylord have been featured in a number of short Sings' musical comedies, out in Chicago. They were eminently successful with their humorous and original songs, and are now on the vaudeville. Their trip has

THE OWL THEATRE.

For the two first days of the week at the Owl, the feature is entitled "The Better Man," the story of a thief who finds the way to help a man he was going to rob. How he conducts a successful expedition in a country hardly known, and saves a big comedy from bankruptcy is shown. And finally he wins the daughter of his erstwhile would-be victim. Five other reels will be shown, including a Keystone comedy. An extraordinary announcement is made that Anna Bernhardt will soon be seen in pictures at this photo-play house in connection with Mme. NATIONAL LEAD COMPANY

NO LIQUOR IN U. S. NAVY

Sec. Daniels Issues Sweeping Order Banishing All Alcoholic Drinks From Navy

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The United States navy will be "dry" after July 1. Secretary of the Navy Daniels has signed an order which absolutely prohibits the use or introduction of alcoholic liquors upon any vessel of the navy or within the confines of any navy yard or shore station. This order was issued to the service today and will become effective July 1, 1914.

It is now expected that a similar order will soon be issued which will forbid liquor in any officers' clubs at government posts and reservations. Besides abolishing what is known as the officers' wine mess on board ship and the sale of liquor at the officers' clubs on shore, Secretary Daniels' order is so sweeping as practically to enforce total abstinence upon naval officers for extended periods. It will henceforth be a violation of this order for any officer or guest upon any naval vessel to have in his possession any alcoholic beverage.

Officers living on shore will be prohibited from having any liquor in their private homes, if their duties require their residence on naval reservations. Wives of officers so situated will be prohibited from serving punches or any other form of liquor at their social functions.

Commanding officers by the terms of the order are made personally responsible for its enforcement and it is Secretary Daniels' determination that it shall be rigidly observed.

Text of Daniels' Order

"The use or introduction for drinking purposes of alcoholic liquors on board any naval vessel or within any yard or station is strictly prohibited and commanding officers will be held directly responsible for the enforcement of the order."

Mr. Daniels, it is known, has had this order under favorable consideration for a long time—ever since in fact he first discovered that officers on board ship maintained what is known as a wine mess from which they were permitted to purchase light wines and beers whenever they desired.

Mr. Daniels is an ardent disciple of William J. Bryan and to the latter's influence is partly attributed the present order. While navy officers have been aware of Secretary Daniels' inclinations on the subject they never had dreamed that he would make the prohibition so sweeping and drastic.

Mr. Daniels announces that he has taken this action upon the recommendation of Dr. William C. Bialsted, whom he recently appointed surgeon-general of the navy. It was the secretary himself, however, who called upon the surgeon-general for a recommendation, and there is no doubt here that the surgeon-general knew of Secretary Daniels' views on the subject.

Party Leaders Alarmed

Naval officers who were aware of the proceeding and of the influence of the order attempted to dissuade the secretary, but without avail. Leaders of the democratic party were also alarmed over it and there is reason to believe that an appeal was made by them for the secretary not to sign the order. His signature was attached today, however, before he left this city for Richmond.

The prohibition issue has for months

been hanging threateningly over congress and it is predicted now that Secretary Daniels' action will give it an impetus which will lead to renewed demands for national legislation and embarrasment for the Wilson administration.

The prohibition forces tried to draw Mr. Wilson into their contest when he was running for the presidency, but he evaded the issue by declaring that legislation governing the liquor traffic was properly a matter of local and state legislation. The Bryan grape-juice episode gave the anti a new opportunity to claim the support of the national administration, but the agitation resulting from it was mild compared with what is certain to follow from the action of the secretary of the navy.

Already plans are being made by prohibition supporters to insist upon the extension of the principle, so as to bar all alcoholic liquors from the clubs and homes of army officers on army reservations.

The news of the signing of the order caused a sensation in Washington. At the army and navy club yesterday it was the only topic of conversation. Many of the officers were so angry over the order that they just spluttered. They insisted that it would result in humiliating the American navy before the world and in giving Europe another opportunity to ridicule the United States. They insisted that the Daniels order would be regarded in European naval circles as the companion-piece to grape-juice diplomacy.

In explanation of the order Secretary Daniels made the following statement:

"I am in hearty agreement with the views expressed by the surgeon-general in his paper accompanying the recommendation. There should not be on shipboard with reference to intoxicating drinks, one rule for officers and another and different rule for the enlisted personnel."

Protect Young Officers

"The saddest hour of my official life is when an officer or enlisted man must be punished for intoxication. During the past week it has been my painful duty to approve a court-martial for dismissal from the service of an officer for intoxication. He told me that he had never tasted intoxicating drink until he did so in the wine mess on his cruises. Others who have been disciplined for drinking to excess made similar statements to me."

"Officers are now commissioned at the age of 22 years. Has the government a right to permit this temptation, which too often destroys the highest usefulness of young officers? I think not."

"If there is one profession more than another that calls for a clear head and a steady hand it is the naval profession. Experience has shown the wisdom of having no intoxicants on our ships for the young men who enlist. I believe experience has demonstrated that a uniform rule should prevail in the navy for all who enlist in the service, from the highest rank to the youngest enlisted man or officer who comes into the service, and that the abolition of the wine mess will be justified."

ORDER PLEASES PROHIBITIONISTS

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Secretary Daniels' order barring the use of alcoholic liquors in the navy, effective after July 1 next, was generally disapproved in naval and shore circles today. The order, one of the most sweeping ever promulgated by the navy department, not only abolishes the traditional wine mess of the officers but will bar all alcoholic liquors from every ship and shore station of the navy.

Surgeon General Bialsted recommended it after an exhaustive investigation into the problem.

While declining to discuss for publication the effect of the order, navy officials privately expressed the belief it may fail of its purpose—to prevent or decrease drunkenness within the army. In effect the order does no more than abolish the wine mess. No distillate spirits are sold in the wine mess—only wines and beer. Officers contend it is absurd to suppose that men ever become drunkards on beer or champagne. They express the opinion that the order will trespass their personal liberty and prevent their affording visitors from foreign navies the wines which they are accustomed to on their own vessels. The order was hailed with joy here today by the prohibition forces who declare it will have a great influence in the furtherance of the temperance cause.

GENERAL OFFICES OF A. P.

NEW YORK, April 6.—The general offices of the Associated Press are now located at 51 Chambers street, this city.

The approaching demolition of the Western Union building, which is to be replaced by a new structure, made removal necessary from the quarters which have been occupied by it. The building has been paid since the first appeal was made but there are several bills to meet during the next few weeks, and it is the hope of those in charge that the receipts from this second call will enable the payment of these debts and allow the association to go ahead with its work and make what improvements are necessary in the building.

CHARLES M. CLOSTON

Charles M. Closton is the treasurer of the campaign committee and he states that although a great many of the outstanding interest bearing notes have been reduced, others will come due within a few weeks and if the payments are prompt the association will be free from debt in a short time.

DEFENDER OF AMERICA'S CUP

BRISTOL, R. I., April 5.—The dimensions of the sloop Resolute, which is nearly in readiness for the America's cup defense trials, were made known yesterday and show her to be of moderate design. She is 104 feet long, 10 inches. With her centerboard up she will draw 15 feet, 10 inches of water, and with it down she will draw a draft of nearly 22 feet. Work on the sloop is advancing rapidly and it is expected she will be launched within two weeks.

BERNHARDT COMING TO U. S.

PARIS, April 6.—Mme. Sarah Bernhardt announced yesterday that she intended to make a tour of the United States, Australia, Russia and England. She will open in New York in October.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

NO ACTION TAKEN AT SPECIAL SESSION CALLED ON SATURDAY EVENING

The special meeting of the school committee held Saturday afternoon called ostensibly for the purpose of considering the proposition to rescind its action taken at the regular meeting whereby the services of janitors were dispensed with on Sundays during the month of April, adjourned without taking action of any kind.

The janitors, at a conference between their representatives and the school committee, had asked that such action so far as it affected their Sunday work, be deferred until the month of November, claiming that they would be able to save the amount represented by Sunday wages in April, $640, in other ways. Immediately upon the calling of the special meeting, Mr. Campbell moved adjournment and it was speedily voted. There was no discussion whatever.

There are at least a dozen candidates for the position of mayor of Lowell and measures made vacant by the death of John W. Scott, and it is hinted that the position will go, either to Warren R. Jordan or Geo. E. Evans. Mr. Jordan is slightly acquainted with politics, having served as private secretary to Mayor Meehan. Mr. Evans is a seasoned politician, having served as superintendent of streets and registrar of voting. He is at present employed in the registrars' office. Mr. Jordan has youth on his side, but that doesn't always count in the race for office.

Stop Falling Hair and Itching Scalp.

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This dissolves it entirely. To do this just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and itching of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to keep your hair looking rich, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and it does all you need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

PARK TO BE SOLD

Auction at Rockingham Park April 15—Flag is Now Floating

HAVERHILL, April 6.—Despite the efforts of the protective committee, of which William E. Bixby and Charles H. Hayes of this city are members, to avert the foreclosure on the mortgage of Rockingham park, it is announced through the office of Attorneys Rowell & Clay of Lawrence that on April 15 at 2 o'clock Rockingham park will be sold at public auction under foreclosure proceedings.

There are 100 acres of land in this tract, grandstand, clubhouse, stables, sheds and dwelling houses. A deposit of $10,000 on the day of the sale will be required and the balance of payment due in 20 days. Edwin D. Flanders of Nashua, N. H., will be the auctioneer.

NOTICES FOR SECOND INSTALLMENT OF PLEDGES BEING SENT OUT

Notices are being sent out by the Y. M. C. A. calling for the second installment of the pledges made during the first campaign, when the sum of $32,361 was pledged in nine days. At present $64,783.45 has been paid and over $6000 of the $5000 subscribers have sent in their amounts in full, thereby saving the association the expense and labor of sending them second notices.

The greater part of the outstanding debt has been paid since the first appeal was made but there are several bills to meet during the next few weeks, and it is the hope of those in charge that the receipts from this second call will enable the payment of these debts and allow the association to go ahead with its work and make what improvements are necessary in the building.

3 KILLED IN FALL OF BRIDGE

Engine and Two Cars Dropped Into Water—35 Injured

Engineer and Baggage Men Crushed to Death—Fireman Scalded

ATTICA, Ind., April 6.—Three persons were killed and about 35 others injured, some of them seriously, when the Wabash passenger train No. 4, known as the Continental Limited, was wrecked when the bridge over the Wabash river, just west of here, gave way yesterday. The engine, a baggage car and the day coach dropped into the water.

When the cars left the bridge the crowded day coach fell with the rear end out of the water and though the majority of the injured were in this car, none of them was killed. The car hardly had settled in the water before the work of rescuing the passengers was commenced and in a few minutes all had been taken out.

They were taken to a hospital at Lafayette on a special train.

The Dead and Injured

The dead:

MILLER, J. L., Peru, Ind., fireman, scalded.

HULL, TIMOTHY, Peru, Ind., engineer, crushed beneath engine.

THOMAS, HARRY, Huntington, Ind., baggage master, crushed by trunks.

Among the injured are:

Gemmer, Lorenz E., Indianapolis, aged 10; internal injuries; not expected to live.

Krauss, Frank, Wheeling, W. Va., cut about head and back injured.

Grusweh, Walter, Georgetown, Ill., ankle broken.

Cunningham, T. W., Tulsa, Ok., back injured.

Slusson, Charles, Cataline, Ill., injured internally.

Bilas, Frank, Detroit, scalp cut and leg injured.

Polen, Vanse, Kewanna, Ind., injured internally.

Webb, J. E., Peru, Ind., ribs fractured and back injured.

Weakened by Earlier Wreck

The railroad's bridge over the Wabash river was weakened early yesterday when a freight train was wrecked upon the structure. The Continental Limited was stopped on the west side of the bridge and a switch engine was sent across to determine whether the structure would hold the passenger train. Railroad officials believed it safe and the Limited was ordered to proceed.

The train crept out on the bridge slowly, and when about 100 feet out on the structure the bridge gave way beneath the weight. The engineer was caught under his engine and crushed to death.

The fireman, who jumped, was scalded to death, and when the front end of the baggage car was toppled downward Thomas was crushed beneath an avalanche of trunks.

A business meeting is to be held in the evening to be presided over by Theodore W. Richards, president of the society and professor of chemistry at Harvard.

The lad had strayed from his home and had sought shelter in the empty apartment, where he remained, without food or drink.

LARGE BOSTON CONCERN ANNOUNCED A REDUCTION OF 75 CENTS A TON, TODAY

BOSTON, April 6.—A reduction of 75 cents a ton in the price of coal this morning has been announced by one of the largest concerns in Boston and it is expected that there will be a general cut this week. This is doubtless the usual spring reduction, but in view of the recent increase in wages at the mines and the increase in transportation cost, it is considered by most dealers a surprisingly large one.

One company announces the following reductions to go into effect today: Furnace coal, from $7.25 to $6.50 a ton; steam coal, from $8 to $7.25; store, from $8 to $7.25; chestnut, from $8.25 to $7.50 and pea, from $8.25 to $7.50.

TWELVE COUNTIES VOTING TODAY—EIGHT OF THE COUNTIES "DRY"—BITTER CAMPAIGN

LANSING, Mich., April 6.—Twelve counties of Michigan today voted on the local option question. Eight of the counties are now dry. The campaign this year has been hotly waged. Many thousands of dollars have been spent for campaign literature and scores of mass meetings have been held.

Probably the fiercest fight has been in Ingham county, which contains Lansing, the state capital. In 1910 Ingham went dry by a majority of less than 1000. Two years ago it voted against prohibition by about 450 majority.

"He can drive 'em a mile." That's what they're saying down in Portland about Young Clark, a fast base candidate in Hugh Duffy's squad, who is a left-handed batter. It is a familiar spring sound.

A bizarre collection of occupations is found to take up the off season time of the Pirates, according to a list just made up. Gibson, Connor, Harmon and Duffy are the farmers on the team. Manager Clarke also can be ranked as a farmer. Joe Conzelmann, Ollie McArthur and Joe Leonard are students. There are three salesmen, two plumbers and five clerks. Hyatt is so used to butchering stock that he butchers the ball horsehide on the diamond. Bob Coleman is a stage mechanic and Geo. McQuillan an electrician. Kuntzner is a stenographer.

Referee Gives Morgan Alabama Democrats Another Draw With Vote Today—Underwood a Candidate

Joe Morgan, the Manchester boxer, still continues to hold the inside track on fight referees. Of his bout with Al Shubert last week at Turner's Falls, in which the verdict was a draw, the Fall River Herald has the following to say:

SHUBERT DRAWS WITH MORGAN
TURNER'S FALLS, April 3.—Al Shubert of New Bedford gave Joe Morgan of Manchester a good beating last night, but as was the case at Manchester when Shubert beat Morgan by a mile, the referee called the bout a draw.

The verdict was not popular, and Shubert's handlers protested vigorously. They declared that the New Bedford boy had a wider margin over Morgan than he did in their last bout at Lawrence when Shubert was given the decision. The boys have fought three times, Shubert getting a decision and two draws.

Shubert fought a great battle last night and clearly showed his superiority over Morgan.

U. S. BUNTING BUSY SHORTAGE OF $9000

ATHLETIC COMMITTEE HOLDS ANOTHER SESSION AND PLANS FOR MEMORIAL DAY CARNIVAL

The athletic committee of the Bunting club held an important meeting at the club house Saturday afternoon. The reports of several sub-committees showed that everything is progressing satisfactorily for the big out-door meet which the club intends to run Decoration day. A letter was read from "Billy" Quail, the champion long distance runner of America, stating his willingness to run a ten-mile handicap against local runners and if satisfactory arrangements can be made, he will be present and make an effort to beat his record on the Bunting track. Secretary Emley read several letters from well known runners and athletes asking for particulars of field and track events. Just as soon as the committee receives word from other long distance runners and decides what local professional event they will run, a full list of sports will be made out and entry blanks will be left at the Y. M. C. A. in Lawrence and Lowell for all those who wish to enter. The committee who visited Lawrence last week reported that great enthusiasm was being shown in that city, especially in the Merrimack road race from Lawrence to Lowell and it is expected that there will be at least thirty entries for that event. They reported that the sentiment in Lawrence was to make the Y. M. C. A. headquarters in that city the starting point. It was voted to leave the matter open as to where the race shall commence, until the local managers have been heard from. Physical Director Bagley of the Y. M. C. A. of Lawrence informed the committee that he and his men are just about to get an opportunity to meet the Y. M. C. A. of Lowell in a competition on the field and track and men representing his association will enter every event and make a hard fight.

ALPHONBUS KILKELLY GONE FOR 15 YEARS, ENTITLED TO SHARE SUM OF $13000

BOSTON, April 6.—If Alphonsus Kilkelly, who 15 years ago was known to be in New York, does not put in an appearance soon he will probably lose his share of an estate, amounting to about $13,000, so declared his cousin, Mrs. Kilkelly Murphy of 60 Harbor View, Dorchester, last evening. She also has an interest in that estate.

Mrs. Murphy says she discharged her responsibility to the long lost cousin when she placed advertisements in the New York paper. She merely asked in the advertisements that Kilkelly write to her.

NEWSPAPERS DISCUSSED

GEORGE PERRY MORRIS SAYS "EDITOR" IS A FIGHTER FOR LIBERTY—COST OF PAPER HIGH

BOSTON, April 6.—George Perry Morris, a Boston newspaper man, told Fred Hall last night that the head of a great newspaper carries one of the heaviest responsibilities in the community. His topic was "Ethical Aspects of Journalistic Work."

A. J. Phillips, who spoke on "The Press and Society," said the newspaper came the nearest to answering the question, "You press the button and we die." George W. Coleman, leader of the Ford Hall meetings, gave a prayer for newspaper men which was applauded.

Said Mr. Morris: "Journalism is a tremendous right for liberty of thought and speech—of the public forces in democracy. The newspaper calls in specialists today, and the journalist takes a far higher ethical attitude than he used to. I don't think anyone realizes the amount of responsibility, moral, intellectual and social, which devolves on the head of a great newspaper."

Said Mr. Phillips: "The newspaper is the only necessity of life that has gone down in price instead of up."

"The newspaper depends largely on being able to sense the public needs, the public business and the professions, it touches the public, not on one side, but at every point in its consciousness."

"A newspaper is just a mirror of the news, and just as good as bad as the people who write it and who publish it. It has the best writers in the country working on its staff. Few realize what it costs year year to run a paper. One I have in mind paid out, last year, $200,000 for white paper alone, $350,000 for composition, $275,000 for its editorial staff, and many other large items."

He said that while he did not consider the details of the Harry Thayer trial had been elevating reading, at the same time he didn't know of anything that has done more to dissipate the clouds surrounding the life of the press.

"There are ethics," he said, "at every point, that cannot be got at save through publicity."

WORKMEN BORING NEW WELLS

The land on either side of the river boulevard and known as the boulevard well land is the scene of great activity these days and it all has to do with Lowell's water problem. Lowell was worried about her water supply but there seems to have been no real cause for worry. Fears were expressed in certain quarters that the boulevard wells were slowly but surely giving up the ghost and that Lowell in the not distant future would have to look for a new water supply. Within the last month or so, however, experts have stated that there is still lots of water at the boulevard and all that's required is a rearrangement of the wells.

The work of rearranging the wells includes the taking up of old wells and the putting in of new wells. The water department has about 50 men engaged in the work of taking up old wells and installing new ones and work of this nature is being carried on at different points. The work is being pushed along quite rapidly because the "digging" is easy. There is no need to contend with and after the big pile driver has penetrated a somewhat obstinate layer of hard clay the rest is easy. The driving machine is operated by means of a crank. In the picture accompanying this article the weight in the tall driver is down. The crank will send it up again and when it strikes the top it is released and falls back again on the point. It is a slow process at best. Commissioner Carmichael has charge of the water department and he intends to install about 200 new wells. This will increase the water producing area and it is hoped, will reduce the amount of iron and manganese in the water. The pump shown in the picture is called a "test pump" and is used for the purpose of testing the temperature of the water. The average depth of the wells is about 10 feet and that represents some considerable digging.

PALM SUNDAY SERVICES

At Catholic Churches—Close of Men's Retreat at Sacred Heart—Other Church News

Christ's entry into Jerusalem was celebrated yesterday morning at all the Catholic churches of this city by exercises of unusual solemnity, chief among which was the blessing and distribution of the palms which typified the palm branches carried by the multitude that saluted forth to meet him. The music reflected the jubilant " Hosanna" of the fervent Jews, and in many of the churches processions were held, carrying out still further a similitude to the scripture narrative. When the various congregations filled the streets at the conclusion of the services they carried tropical palm branches that recalled to all they met the character of the feast day. Besides the special exercises incident to Palm Sunday, important announcements were made in all the churches concerning the solemn ritual of Holy week; in most of the churches the impressive Tenebrae will be sung on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, and the morning services for the same period will be redolent of the spirit of mourning which pervades the canonical observances of the Catholic church for the period preceding Easter.

The mass was celebrated by Rev. Robert McCoy, O. M. I. A feature of the musical program was the rendition of Pro Pseccuti, from Rossini's Stabat Mater by Geo. Kirwin. It was given with fine expression and clear voice.

The final service of the day, the close of the men's retreat, was held at 6:30 o'clock, and the spacious edifice was crowded. The services were most impressive, and particularly so when viewed from the choir loft. A large assemblage of men standing and singing hymns of praise, receiving the papal benediction and in other ways assisting in the ceremonies, presented a spectacle as inspiring as it was beautiful. Another feature was the fact that the announcement of a reception into the Holy Name society bore fruit and a large number took the pledge of the society. The sermon preached by Rev. T. Franklin Wood, O. M. I., was an exhortation to the men to persevere in their resolutions.

Fr. Wood spoke eloquently of the fervor and self sacrifice of the men during the past week and said that their devotion brought great consolation to God. He urged the men, true Christians of God, to resolutely determine to persevere in the resolutions framed during the retreat.

By your attendance at the services during the week, by your large numbers at communion this morning and by your magnificent demonstration of love and friendship of God, you will go out into the world to temptations and enemies of mankind. The world will call you by its vanities and allurements. But men stand firm, true Christians of God, resolutely determine to persevere in the resolutions framed during the retreat.

Now that you have been forgiven your sins, resolve to keep away from these occasions of sin. Resolve to reform and correct whatever needs correction.

You will go out into the world to temptations and enemies of mankind. The world will call you by its vanities and allurements. But men stand firm, true Christians of God, resolutely determine to persevere in the resolutions framed during the retreat.

Not only did the evening services bring great joy and gratification to the participants and participants but during the entire day the church and its environs were crowded with men performing their religious duties and the spectacle was one long to be remembered and one that will be recorded in the annals of the parish as the most successful in years.

In the morning the members of the Holy Name society attended the 7:30 o'clock mass and received holy communion in a body. The mass was celebrated by Rev. John P. Flynn, O. M. I., spiritual director of the society. The sermon was delivered by Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I. The pastor extended his congratulations to the men for their attendance at all the services and particularly for their large numbers at communion.

During the mass a musical program of rare excellence was given under the direction of Organist John J. Kelly. It included a beautiful duet, "Come Holy Spirit," by John McMahon and Edward McKeely, and a solo, "The Psalm," by George Kirwin.

After mass the men, headed by Pres. John J. Kirwin, marched to the school hall where breakfast was served. They then adjourned to the main hall, where they listened to an instructive and interesting address by James W. Kelly, Esq., Mr. Kelly spoke on the early history of Catholics in this city. He treated his subject eloquently and supplied a brief history of the establishment of all the Catholic churches in Lowell. Each of speakers will not permit an adequate account of his lecture, but suffice to say it was one greatly enjoyed by all. The young attorney was accorded a rising vote of thanks at his conclusion. An excellent musical program, arranged by Friends of St. Francis, chairman of the entertainment committee, was also carried out. It included numbers by John J. Kelly, James Gaskin, John McMahon, John Broderick, John Dillon, Miss Marion Dillon, Walter Mack, George Kirwin, Miss Jessie Plunkett. It was one of the most artistic programs ever given in the hall and the contributors were highly compensated for their fine work. Rev. Fr. Flynn then spoke along congratulatory lines and asked God's blessing for all who assisted by their presence and otherwise at the exercises.

At the high mass at 11 o'clock palms were blessed and distributed. ## BOYS MAROONED

On Island Till One Swam Channel and Gave Alarm

PAWTUCKET, April 6.—From 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon until nearly midnight eight small boys in the Fairview section of this city were marooned on an island in the Stump Hill pond, so-called, in the town of Lincoln, a few miles from here.

The boys were Albert Rigby, George and Jesse Knowles, Clifford and Edward Shen, Joseph Salisbury and Edward and John. They were taken off the island by a boat that had been carried to the pond and sent to their rescue.

The boys, while at play about the pond, came across an old boat which had no oars. The entire party embarked in it and the rising wind blew them so far from shore that they were afraid to jump out, as they remained in the leaking craft until they were wafted to the island in the center of the pond.

Here they made a tour of inspection, and when they came back the boat was nowhere in sight. It is supposed to have sunk.

The boys sought themselves horse, but locally being remote, nobody heard their cries for help.

Meantime there was anxiety in their homes, when darkness came on and none of them appeared.

Albert Rigby, aged 11 years, who knows how to swim, finally plunged into the icy water and swam to the shore. He ran to the nearest house and told the plight of his comrades.

The father of the Salisbury boy was notified, and taking his automobile he obtained a boat which was taken to the pond. The tired and hungry boys were taken to the mainland and sent home.

The Rigby boy suffered no ill effects from his cold plunge.

CARDINAL O'CONNELL

DEDICATED HOME OF ST. CLARE LEAGUE OF CATHOLIC WOMEN AT LAWRENCE

St. Clare branch, League of Catholic Women, formally opened its new home on Haverhill street, Lawrence, Saturday afternoon, when it was dedicated by His Eminence, Cardinal William O'Connell.

The cardinal arrived in the city about 1 o'clock, and dined with the Augustinian Fathers, at their residence on Haverhill street, and at 2 o'clock he went to the St. Clare house, where he delivered an address and received members of the league at the end of an aisle of 21 girls, holding streamers of red ribbon. Those presented to the cardinal passed through the aisle.

The ushers and ribbon girls were dressed in white, with large bows of red ribbon as badges.

The maidens in the parlors were banded with red sashes and ferns, furnished through the kindness of the ushers and the ribbon girls.

The house was filled all afternoon and a vast crowd remained outside to see the cardinal.

Just before 2 o'clock, a large number of honorary members of the league went to the parsonial residence on Haverhill street and escorted the cardinal to the house, which is not far from the corner of White street. Upon the arrival of His Eminence, the members of the league sang several hymns under the direction of Prof. Thomas E. Leonard.

The musical program included "Hymn to the Holy Name," composed by Cardinal O'Connell; "Hymn to the Pope," composed by Rev. H. A. Gauss.

To "Pilate's Daughter"

About 110 young ladies of the Sacred Heart church, under the direction of Miss Mary E. Wood, attended the performance of "Pilate's Daughter" in Boston, yesterday, and came away profoundly impressed by the sublime lesson it teaches, of those scenes and incidents, so inseparably linked with the life of Christ. The party of Lowell on a special train, at 12:20 o'clock, the early arrival in Boston affording an ample opportunity for the gathering to inspect St. Alphonsus hall and to pay a visit to the Mission church. All were given splendid seats at the performance, and the progress of the beautiful play, which has attracted the attention of theatrical men in this country, stamped Rev. Fr. Kennedy, O. S. B., the author, as an able dramatist. After the play the Lowell party had dinner at the United States hotel. Before leaving Lowell a most agreeable surprise was accorded Miss Wood, the manager of the party, by presenting her a beautiful black walrus traveling bag, in appreciation of her personal efforts in arranging the entire trip and the dinner. All the details of the visit to the play were personally attended to by Miss Wood and her success was a striking tribute to her splendid executive ability. The presentation of the gift was made in the waiting room, just before leaving for Boston and the recipient responded briefly yet gracefully thanking all for the gift.

After an appetizing dinner at the famous United States hotel, the party boarded the special, leaving Boston at 8:30 a. m. arriving here at the Bazaar station, where the majority, detrained, about 9 o'clock, tired but supremely happy in the thought that a delightful day was spent.

REV. J. MUDGE

Says That Life at the Age of Seventy is Glorious

"How Life Looks at 70" was the subject of an interesting sermon by Rev. Jas. Mudge, D. D., at the Highland M. E. church Sunday night. Dr. Mudge is well known in Lowell having been pastor of the church in which he spoke last night and also of the Centralville M. E. church in this city. Sunday was his birthday anniversary and he had observed the morning by preaching at a church in Lynn where he had formerly been pastor and in the evening he came to Lowell.

For his sermon, Sunday evening he found his inspiration in Psalm 90, 10th verse: "The days of our years are three score years and 10; if by reason of strength they be four score years, yet is there strength, labor and sorrow; for it is soon cut off and we fly away."

"I have come to an occasion which furnishes me with reason for recollection, reflection, and also for anticipation. Some there are here who have reached to the estate of three score years and 10; others are near it, and many others are looking forward to it. At 70 years one may be said to be in the very youth of old age. I am not really old, and yet if one be 70 he is old or not as he feels. Yet, at 70, one is undeniably getting old. Middle life really begins at 40 and is not fully passed until three score years and 10 have passed.

"Seventy is a good round number. It is made up of two very important factors. Seven is the sacred number, sa-

paign of 1881 which placed the prohibitory amendment in the Maine constitution. She had been president of the National W. C. T. U. since 1898. Several years ago she was awarded the honorary degree of master of arts by Bates college. Mrs. Stevens' last active work was a trip to Washington last December in the interests of the movement for a prohibitory amendment to the federal constitution.

cred not only among the Hebrews but also among the Indians and among many other peoples. It is made up of three, representing the deity, and four, representing the earth. And 10, also a significant number, for it is the sum of one, two, three and four. But when you have ten times seven, then it seems doubly significant. And when one reaches to three score years and 10, all over the world, there is cause for great celebration. Surely, it is a good, rounded, complete period of existence.

"It is a remarkable fact that my birthdays have indicated epochs, at least, in my life. They have meant great things to me. On my 13th birthday I joined the church. I shall never forget that glorious day for it was the beginning of my joys of after life. And, on my 24th birthday I was ordained to the ministry in a church in East Boston. On my 30th birthday I sailed for home from Bombay, India, after laboring there. On my 61th birthday I preached my farewell sermon in the little church across the river. It is rather a remarkable chain of facts, that my birthdays have meant so much to me, have started epochs in my life, but God so ordained it. And now on Palm Sunday, the day commemorative of our entry into Jerusalem of Jesus Christ I round out my three score years and 10.

"How does life look to me at 70? It is glorious. I can look just across the valley, to that celestial land. I catch a glimpse of the heavenly land, and of the mansions there. I have come to know God more fully than I ever knew him before. At 70 I have more faith in Him than I ever had. I know how true He is. If you have known him as I have, then there can be no such thing as distrust, no such thing as anxiety. Gladness reigns in one as he approaches the three score and 10, if he has placed his trust in the Lord. One sees gladness ruling the earth, one listens to all things with an ear attuned to the Heavenly. One, and one knows that life is glorious. The three score years and 10, if it has been reached with the material, if one has sought the immaterial, the spiritual, brings one to a glorious look into the valley across which one must go to reach the great heights of God's glory."

JUDGE WALLACE IS DEAD

WAS CHIEF JUSTICE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE SUPERIOR COURT FROM 1901 TO 1913

MILFORD, N. H., April 6.—Robert Moore Wallace, ex-chief justice of the New Hampshire superior court, died at 9 o'clock yesterday morning at his home in this town after a long illness. He was 67 years old.

He was born in Henniker, N. H., the son of Jonas and Mary (Dunbar) Wallace. On his father's side he was a direct descendant of Thomas Wallace, one of the sturdy Scotch-Irish founders of Londonderry who came to America in 1732.

His great-grandparents were James and Mary Wallace, the latter the famous "Ocean-born Mary" whose death in 1720 occurred while her parents were held captive by pirates and resulted in their liberation by the outlaws' captain on condition that the child be named Mary. Some of the valuable gifts from the pirate chief are still in the possession of Judge Wallace's family.

Robert, son of James and Mary Wallace, settled in Henniker, where in 1893 he became judge of the Hillsboro county court.

Jonas Wallace, Judge Wallace's father, was a judge of the Hillsboro circuit court and was at one time president of the New Hampshire senate. Robert M. Wallace received his early education in the schools and at the academy at Henniker, and at the age of 15 entered Dartmouth college, from which he was graduated with honors in 1887.

He studied law in the office of Mason W. Tappan, who afterward became attorney general of New Hampshire. He was admitted to the bar in 1890 and the following year removed to Milford, where he formed a partnership with the late Bainbridge Wadleigh, United States senator, which they continued until Senator Wadleigh's removal to Boston.

Afterward Mr. Wallace continued his practice alone, representing his town in the legislature in 1897 and 1898, and at the constitutional convention in 1893.

In 1893 he was elected county solicitor for Hillsboro county, and held the office by reelection until 1895, when Gov. Smith appointed him judge advocate general upon his staff, and followed it with the possession of Judge Wallace's family.

For years he had made his summer home in Henniker, where he created a beautiful estate from the old ancestral home. The big old-fashioned garden was Judge Wallace's special delight.

In 1907 he was made a trustee of Dartmouth college, serving until 1910, when he refused reelection.

In 1914 Judge Wallace married Ella M. Hutchinson, and five children have been born to them. The three surviving children are Edw. D. of Kansas City, Robert B. of Boston and Helen H. of Milford.

Judge Wallace took a keen interest in the projects for the social or industrial betterment of Milford. As a lover and student of nature he had few equals.

ton. A reception followed the ceremony and an elaborate musical program was rendered by the following: Miss Marple Tregan, Mrs. William Clayton, Mr. Thomas Saxon, Mr. James Thompson, Mr. Harvey Hawwood, Mr. Fred Sunderland, Mr. William Clayton, Mr. David Mangroves, Mr. Harry Lear, Masters Leslie and Arthur Clayton. The happy couple have been the recipients of numerous costly gifts.

NEW CHINESE MINISTER

K. F. SHAH, FIRST TO REPRESENT THE REPUBLIC IN AMERICA ARRIVED AT NEW YORK

NEW YORK, April 6.—K. F. Shah, the new Chinese minister to the United States, reached here late yesterday on the steamer Kaiserin Augusta Victoria from Hamburg. With him were his family and attendants and a party of 16.

K. F. Shah is one of the products of the new republic of China. Word of his coming to this country had been sent by the American minister at Peking, Paul S. Reusch, who advised the Washington government that Mr. Shah left Peking with his family on March 3, traveling by way of Siberia, planning to come here from New York for the minister's presentation to President Wilson.

Mr. Shah will be the first minister under the new republic of China, recently recognized by the American government.

A portrait and sketch of the new minister, forwarded by Mr. Reusch, show him in the garb of the Western world instead of the rich silken robes which have been the traditional garb of Chinese ministers.

Mr. Shah and his family have spent much time in this country. For

ROCKEFELLER ATTACKS THE COLORADO UNIONS

Will Lose $14,000,000 Rather Than Give in, Says John D. Jr., Before House Mines Committee—Defends Non-Union Men

WASHINGTON, April 6.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., told the house mines committee today that his father owns about 10 per cent. of the stock of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Co., the central figure in the industrial strife which has swept the Colorado coal fields. Mr. Rockefeller continued that responsibility for the conduct of corporations lay not only with the stockholders or directors but with the officers of the company.

"In these days when business interests are so diversified and directors are members of so many boards the best they can do is to appoint officers and hold them responsible," he said.

"Don't you think that the fact that the government has found it necessary to take action would warrant you in taking more than a passing interest in the situation?" asked Chairman Foster.

"I have taken more than a passing interest," returned Mr. Rockefeller. "The vast sums of money involved and the great disorder in the field have concerned me closely. But I have done all that I could have done. The officers of the company have been held responsible and if we are at any time convinced their policies are mistaken we will immediately remove them. I am one of my father's representatives in this as in other of his personal investments."

Questioned by Rep. Byrnes, Mr. Rockefeller outlined his father's

How about that "Seely Dinner" Supt. Welch?

At a recent meeting of the municipal council, Commissioner Brown, in speaking to a question of personal privilege, declared that he would soon have something to say about a "Seely dinner" that was held in a down-town office building, but thus far he has not made any move in that direction nor has he given the council or the public any further information.

His remarks, however, have had the effect of rousing the public mind to the seriousness of the charge, and the town has been rife with gossip concerning this so-called "Seely dinner." The substance of current rumor would indicate that a disgraceful performance of the sort mentioned by Mr. Brown actually did occur in our city, and hence it would seem to be the duty of Supt. Welch to investigate the whole affair without any delay, and if possible to bring to justice any and all persons who were responsible for this nauseating exhibition.

If Supt. Welch's official hands were ever tied, he cannot claim that they are tied now, for under the direction of Mayor Murphy he has shown commendable vigilance in the recent crusade against the tango and other dances of the so-called animal variety, and it is alleged that the dance at the "Seely dinner" was a thousand times worse than any tango or animal dance ever given in Lowell.

According to the current gossip of the street, three women dancers were brought to this city from Boston, and a number of local gentlemen were informed that a very interesting exhibition would be given on the third floor of a Central street office building on a certain night and that there would be wine, cigars, etc. The whole performance to cost the spectators something like $3 or $4 a head. Several of those notified agreed to be present knowing the nature of the performance, while others who put in an appearance did so under a misapprehension, and were deeply mortified to find themselves present at an indecent and illegal exhibition without any means of escape.

A portion of the room, it is said, was set apart for a temporary stage, screens and curtains were adjusted so that the dancers and the managers of the affair were hidden from view between the dances, and the announcements to the assembly. The first dances were performed in ballet dress but after each succeeding dance the women retired behind the screens and gradually reduced

Third Edition WILLIAM B. SAWYER INSTANTLY KILLED

At North Billerica Station—He Belonged in Keene, N.H.—David Sheehan Found Dead in Boarding House

A man believed to be William B. Sawyer of Keene, N. H., employed by the Boston & Maine railroad as a machinist, was instantly killed by a train within 100 yards of the railroad station at North Billerica shortly before 10 o'clock this forenoon. His body was cut in two and as there was no one near to identify him at the time the railroad officials notified Undertaker Healey, who removed the remains to his parlors on Branch street.

It is believed that the man boarded the train in this city to go to the B. & M. repair shops, which are located about a mile beyond the station at North Billerica. Whether he fell asleep on the train or was not aware of his whereabouts, is not known, but when the train stopped at the North village he made no attempt to get off.

Hardly had the train started toward Billerica Centre when the man hurried from his seat and rushing to the steps on the car next to the last, jumped to the ground. There is a bridge crossing Mt. Pleasant street, North Billerica, at this point and in jumping he hit against the bridge and was knocked back on the track and the wheels of the last car passed over his body, cutting it in two. His identity could not be learned at the time of the accident and the remains were brought

C. H. HANSON IS SUED

Boston Doctor Charges Hypnotic Influence on Young Wife, Mr. Hanson's Niece

Dr. Edwin A. Sanborn, a Somerville physician, has entered two lawsuits in the Middlesex superior court at East Cambridge, for alleged, alienation of the affections of his wife, Blanche A. Sanborn. He has sued his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren P. Smith of this city, and License Commissioner Charles H. Hanson. The suit against Mr. Hanson is for $50,000 and the other for $10,000. Dr. Sanborn asserts that "hypnotic influences" were brought to bear on his wife before she consented to leave him on Feb. 21, 1911, and that she was "always peculiarly susceptible to such agencies."

Mr. Hanson is Mrs. Sanborn's uncle by marriage. She is Mrs. Hanson's niece. Attorney Melvin M. Johnson of Boston is counsel for Mr. Hanson and Mrs. Sanborn's parents have engaged Attorneys McFadden and Wilson of this city. Attorney Samuel A. Neen of Boston is counsel for Dr. Sanborn.

It seems that some time ago Mrs. Sanborn appealed to the courts for separate support and the probate court ordered Dr. Sanborn to pay his wife $5 a week and the suit brought by the doctor seems a sort of sequel to the probate court proceedings.

The story, however, as set forth by Dr. Sanborn, is decidedly out of the ordinary. He even asserts that his practice and his health have been injured by malicious telephonic elements.

Dr. Sanborn is 60. His wife is 35. They were married 17 years ago. Dr. Sanborn has an office and lives at No. 24 Franklin street, Somerville. He is a graduate of Dartmouth. He was married before.

His wife has been living with her parents in this city since she left him. Dr. Sanborn claims that his young wife, under the hypnotic influence of her parents and relatives, frequently lost

Accept Offered Concession or Bill as it Stands—Redmond's Manly Stand—Simon for Government and Carson for Ulsterites

LONDON, April 6.—The real question of the moment is how far each side is prepared to advance toward an agreement, said John Redmond, leader of the Irish nationalist party, in a speech in the house of commons this afternoon setting forth his party's views on the home rule situation.

The Nationalists, Mr. Redmond said, would have been glad to accept the scheme presented by Sir Horace Plunkett in February by which a plebiscite would be taken after a certain

FISH AND GAME

Meeting of Local Association on Tomorrow Evening

The Lowell Fish and Game association will hold its annual meeting at Odd Fellows building, Middlesex street, tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock, for the election of officers and enrollment of members for the ensuing year.

The Massachusetts fish and game commissioners, George W. Field, Geo. H. Graham and William C. Adams, will be present to meet the members, and will severally address the meeting. They will answer any questions, receive complaints, suggestions, give information, and will have a heart to heart talk with the members for a cooperation with the association.

The proposed combination hunting and fishing license will be discussed as to whether or not the association will approve the proposition in which all members are interested. The association has upwards of 200 members and they are strongly urged to renew their membership and help along the good work already begun in the interest of the sport and for the making of more fish and more game.

COAL IS WASTED

By Mine Owners, Says John Mitchell—Miners Should Get Good Pay

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Organization of coal mine operators, so they may agree on prices, was advocated by John Mitchell, former president of the United Mineworkers of America, today before the federal commission on industrial cooperation. He argued that the government should have supervision over such an arrangement. Forty per cent of all coal mined in the United States was wasted, he said, because mine operators cannot dispose of it at a profit.

"The coal miner is so much better off today than he was in 1870 that there is no basis of comparison," said Mr. Mitchell. "But I believe the miners should be among the best paid workmen in America."

Mr. Mitchell was the first witness at a series of hearings begun today by the commission to investigate collective bargaining, conciliation and arbitration in different industries.

The executive committee of the Lowell board of trade met this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, and at 4:30 o'clock the city beautiful committee held a meeting.

I. W. W. LEADER BEATEN

NEW YORK, April 6.—Friends of the Industrial Workers of the World swarmed into the chief magistrate's court today and convinced the court that Joseph O'Carroll had done nothing to warrant his arrest Saturday in Union square where he was trying to organize a parade of the unemployed. They swore that the police beat O'Carroll brutally and without provocation, and as proof of this I. W. W. leader showed a scalp wound half way across his head.

O'Carroll with eight other men was arrested during Saturday's disturbance on a charge of disorderly conduct. The leaders came first and he was promptly discharged.

LOWELL DELEGATES

May Be Chosen to Attend Centennial Celebration of the Star Spangled Banner at Fort McHenry

The National Star Spangled Banner centennial commission has invited Mayor Murphy to name a number of men to represent the city of Lowell as delegates to the National Star Spangled Banner celebration to be held in Baltimore, Sept. 6 to 13, 1914. The mayor has not yet named the delegates.

Unfortunately, the appointment does not carry with it authority to travel unless the travelers pay their own expenses, inasmuch as there is no appropriation in the much abused budget available for such a purpose. The delegates will, however, have their names printed in the official program of the celebration as the representatives of Lowell.

The Star Spangled banner centennial will celebrate the successful defense of Baltimore at North Fort and Fort Mifflin, the birth of the American national anthem, the achievement of national independence and a century of peace and progress," according to the invitation received by the mayor.

REV. DR. JAS. H. EGB

TALKED IN TEAM WORK AT Y. M. C. A. MEN'S MEETING—HE ALSO SPOKE AT FAULTCHET CHURCH

Rev. Dr. James H. Egb of New York spoke at the Y. M. C. A. men's meeting Sunday afternoon and explained "team work" as it applies to social service and everyday life. Dr. Egb is a member of the advisory committee of the Institute of Social Service.

He said that the business of team work is a very big thing and while it is not very enthusiastic over it, he believes that the best thing in athletics is the development of team work. The selfish game is no good, he declared. He said the thing that hurts one of our number hurts all of us. He pointed out the inefficiency and helplessness of a man considered alone. It is only by the team work of all that the community enjoys its comforts and conveniences and its progress. The business man who plays the game that everything must come to him will find all things worth living for gone from him. It was team work that was the helpful thing. Team work meant pulling together, helping each other. Society is the group of men, and it is society that is doing all the things that are done.

At Faultchett Church

Dr. Egb spoke at the Faultchett church last night on "The Religion of Social Service." He said that the shifting of the population into cities has been so rapid that the people do not know what to do with themselves. In most of our large and growing cities there are not homes enough for the people, not schools enough for the children, not conveniences enough to get the people about their business and pleasure. Here are problems that have come upon us so rapidly that we are not prepared for them. We are still beginning to realize, for example, that the slum does not pay, or that three-fourths of our industrial slaughter is needless.

Now if we could only be patient with ourselves and with each other, and our growing pains with steady care and work together in brotherhood and kind with many of our problems would disappear of themselves. He others would come to solution in daily and natural sequence.

Sunday, the pastor, Rev. C. E. Fisher, D. D., preached on "Son of the Lesson of Palm Sunday." He said that Christ's humble entry into Jerusalem taught the lesson that the scepter of Jesus was that of a spiritual king, an Jesus intrinsically greater than that of the proudest crowned monarch. "The scepter as in our daily lives we exercise self-denial and purity of motive," said the preacher, "in just such degree are we disciples of Jesus Christ." As Jesus was a spiritual ruler, so let us pattern after him, strive for spiritual dominion over our "lower nature." We owe a debt to the great Nazarene for the enabling pattern of moral and spiritual exhortation he has given unto us. Then let us enroll ourselves under His white banner, and in the midst of the turmoil of this busy world show that we appreciate our divine leader in standing firm for righteousness.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Plans are being made for the annual banquet of Court General Dixon, 217, Foresters of America, which is to be on the evening of April 14, and it is expected that the event will be one of the most successful in the history of the society. At a meeting yesterday it was announced that the following speakers would be present: Mayor Murphy, Congressman John Jacob Rogers, Redmond Welch, Supreme Chief Ranger Michael J. Monahan and others. Mayor Murphy and Chief Ranger Monahan were elected delegates to the annual state convention, while Stephen Brown and John J. Mahoney were chosen as alternates.

At a meeting of the committee in charge of the coming ball of the Knights of Columbus, held yesterday afternoon in the rooms on Anne street, Dr. Frederick E. Morris was elected floor director, Grand Knight William F. Thornton presided.

Central Council, A. O. U.

Arrangements are being made by Central Council, A. O. U., for the five divisions of Hibernians to receive communion in a body in the near future. The regular meeting of the council was held yesterday afternoon in the A. O. U. building and considerable business was taken up. Several interesting communications were read, and it was reported that the state convention would be held in Worcester. It was announced that plans are being made for a monster mass meeting of Hibernians to be held in this city the first Sunday in May.

WAS RIDING FREIGHT

YOUNG MAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH—NOW AT ST. JOHN'S HOSPITAL

A young man who gave his name as Albert Norbury, and who claimed his home is in Indiana, jumped from a moving freight car yesterday afternoon and miraculously escaped death, but he slipped beneath the car, but, fortunately, rolled out just in time to prevent the wheels from passing over his body. As it was the young man sustained a broken rib and possible internal injuries as the result of his fall.

According to the young man's story told at St. John's hospital, whither he was removed shortly after the accident, he has been traveling across the country from Indiana. Yesterday he was riding a freight bound for Ayer, whereas he believed the train was bound for Worcester. He found out his mistake shortly after the freight had gone through this city, and immediately leaped from the car he was riding and in so doing partly rolled across the track over which the freight was passing, but fortunately escaped being ground under the wheels. On account of his broken rib he was unable to move further and was found a short time later by railroad men who removed him to the home of Dr. James F. Hoban, whence he was moved to the hospital. That the young man spent a comfortable night and that his condition is rapidly improving.

AMONG THE SENATORS

THIRTY-THREE ARE TO BE ELECTED NEXT FALL AND SOME SHARP CONTESTS ARE UNDER WAY

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Thirty-three United States senators are to be elected this year by direct vote of the people in the first general test of the 17th amendment to the constitution.

Terms of 31 present members of the senate expire March 3, next, and in addition to these successors must be chosen to the late Senator Johnston of Alabama, and the late Senator Bacon of Georgia.

In Georgia, besides a successor to Senator Bacon, there will be a contest over the seat of Senator Hoke Smith. Mr. Smith will seek to retain his seat. In Alabama besides the election of a successor to Senator Johnston for the regular term beginning March 4 next, there will be a senator chosen to fill his unexpired term, which will sit until March 3, 1915, only.

Of the sitting members of the senate most of the republicans whose terms expire are candidates to succeed themselves, although there have been rumors that Senators Bradley of Kentucky, Gallinger of New Hampshire, and Root of New York, might retire. No definite announcements have been made, however, in these cases.

Of the democrats whose terms expire, all except Senator Thornton are candidates to succeed themselves. Senator Shively of Indiana already has been nominated in convention and in the recent Arkansas primaries, according to uncontradicted returns. Senator Clarke was nominated by a small majority. There may yet be some controversy over this nomination.

In Alabama, the senatorial primaries will be held today. Representative Underwood and Representative Richmond Pearson Tolan being the candidates for the long term. The result of that contest is being awaited with interest, not only in Washington, but throughout the country.

A lively contest already is under way in Kansas, where Representative Victor Murdock seeks the senatorial nomination at the hands of the progressive party to enter the lists against Senator Bristow, and where Ex-Senator Curtis seeks to win the republican nomination from Senator Bristow.

The fight in Pennsylvania already is booming, primaries to be held next month. The outlook is that Senator Penrose will be nominated by the republicans, Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, by the democrats, and Gifford Pinchot as the candidate of the progressive party element.

MILK DRIVERS STRIKE

U. P. HOOD &amp; SONS' EMPLOYEES QUIT BECAUSE OF ALLEGED DISCRIMINATION

BOSTON, April 6.—Drivers employed by U. P. Hood & Sons, milk contractors, in the Forest Hills district early today, and many others said they expected the majority of drivers at other points to refuse to deliver milk today. The company asked for police protection. The strike was called because of the claims of the men that many drivers had been discharged for joining the union.

EXPLOSION IN LONDON CHURCH LONDON, April 6.—An explosion in St. Martin's church, Trafalgar square, last night did considerable damage to the pews and a stained window in the south aisle. A canister, supposed to have contained the explosive was found. The outrage is attributed to militant suffragettes.

FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE

BOSTON, April 6.—The Boston Central Labor union decided yesterday not to take part in the parade to be held next month as a demonstration in favor of woman suffrage. The delegates expressed the belief that marching would not help the cause, but said they would do all possible to support laws for equal suffrage "as a matter of justice and as economic necessity."

INCREASE IN DIVORCES

MARRIAGE REDUCED TO MERE CIVIL SERVICE PERFORMED OUTSIDE OF CHURCH, REASON FOR MANY

BOSTON, April 6.—Marriage reduced to a mere civil service and performed outside of the church, was one of the reasons assigned for the increase of divorces by Mr. Paulinus of the Episcopal Order before a gathering of 3000 Catholic and non-Catholic people at the cathedral last night.

He scolded those who want to be married at home in the glow of brilliant lights and decorations and with an imposing attendance of bridesmaids, maids of honor, flower girls and other consorts.

Mr. Paulinus further warned both Catholics and non-Catholics against carrying one of another faith saying, "If a non-Catholic young man should ask my advice in respect to his proposed marriage to a Catholic girl, I would tell him not to. She would make his life miserable. The same is true of a Catholic who would marry a non-Catholic."

There are exceptions to the rule, but those who enter such a marriage are taking a chance. Many of the children that result from such marriages are lost to all religions. They are neither good Catholics nor good Protestants.

"Marriage is a contract. It is a natural contract and God has the right to dictate conditions governing it. What God hath joined together let no man put asunder. Marriages should bind the contracting parties until death parts them."

MAN FINED $25

For Driving Auto While Under Influence of

Sing Wah, the Chinese laundryman who was arrested at his Pawtucket-ville laundry last week and charged with having in his possession an opium smoking outfit and a number of Chinese "policy" slips, appeared today on continuance.

Lawyer Toye, counsel for the defendant, pleaded guilty to both charges. Sing Wah received the same sentence as that meted out last week to his fellow countryman. He was fined $75, $50 on the opium complaint and $25 for being present where gambling implements were found.

Daniel Gillis, a young man from Lawrence, was charged with driving an auto while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty.

Supt. Welch stated to the court that the young man was not actually driving the machine at the time he was arrested. Gillis drives a big auto truck for a Worcester concern and comes to Lowell several times a week.

Supt. Welch told Judge Enright that he had been in communication with the defendant's employers and that the young man bore an excellent reputation. He suggested to the court a fine of $25.

"It is bad enough," stated his honor, "to have to put up with the reckless driving of sober chauffeurs, to say nothing of having drunken men operating machines." The court further stated that the only reason he did not impose a jail sentence upon the defendant was the fact that he bore such a good previous record. He was fined $25.

William J. Lally was charged with threatening his wife and was also arraigned for drunkenness. The defendant has been in court on a previous occasion for domestic trouble.

The wife testified that her husband had flourished a razor and made threats to kill her with it. She told the court that she lived in perpetual fear of the man.

Lally was indignant at the charge. "Why how could you imagine such a thing," he asked the superintendent. "Why it is positively ridiculous." Judge Enright, however, ordered him to furnish a bond of $200 as a guarantee of good behavior during the next six months.

The other offenders this morning were all drunks of various degrees. Joseph Duchesne was sent to jail for three months. Michael A. Sullivan, a fifth offender, informed the court that he was on his way to Foxboro to take the cure. He was given a week's time in which to matriculate. David Welsh and Henry F. Lambert received fines of $15 and John Moushan, Mary McElroy and Xavier Deschamps all qualified in the $5 class.

FAIR SKIES AND WARMER

PROMISES FOR THE FIRST PART

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Fair skies were promised last night by the weather bureau to the eastern section of the country during the first part of the week, but unsettled conditions, probably with rain or snow will prevail in the wake of a "low pressure" area that will travel eastward from the plateau region, reaching the seaboard about the middle of the week.

Temperatures will rise Tuesday over the east and south. No unusual temperatures are indicated at present for any section.

Session This Morning—No Cases Ready for Trial

The April sitting of the superior court opened at the court house on Gorham street at 10 o'clock this forenoon with Judge Sanderson presiding. The calendar is an unusually short one and it appears that the session will be finished earlier than usual.

At the opening of the court prayer was offered by the Rev. Nathaniel W. Matthews, pastor of the Gorham Street Methodist church. A large gathering of lawyers from Lowell and elsewhere assembled in the room while the first ten pages of the list were called and of the cases read, none were ready for trial today.

WILD MILITANT SHRIEKS OVER 3000 ATTENDED

STOPPED COURT PROCEEDINGS IN LONDON—GENERAL DRUM-MOND'S YELLS

LONDON, April 6.—General Mrs. Flora Drummond, the militant suffragette shrieked so loudly when she was arraigned today at the police court in connection with the suffragette disturbances at the Unionist demonstration in Hyde Park on Saturday that she had to be forcibly removed.

She would not allow either the magistrate or the prosecuting attorney to utter an audible word.

When Mrs. Drummond entered the prisoners' enclosure she shouted at the top of her voice that she would not permit anyone but herself to speak because she said the magistrates and the police courts were doing the dirty work of Premier Asquith. She then proceeded to bombard the court with volleys of verbal shrapnel until she was carried out by wardens. The magistrate stated that he would hear the case later in the day.

THE CLOSE OF THE MISSIONS AT ST. JOSEPH'S AND ST. JEAN'S CHURCHES

It is figured that over 3000 men received holy communion yesterday morning in St. Joseph's and St. Jean Baptiste churches, the event being the closing of the annual mission for married men of the parish. Sermons were delivered every morning and evening at both churches, the missionaries being Rev. Fr. Fortier, O. M. I. and Rev. Fr. Allard, O. M. I., both from Quebec. The mission was one of the most successful conducted in St. Joseph's parish for years, and the clergymen of the parish as well as the missionaries are elated with the flattering success of the retreat. The close of the mission took place last evening when services were held in both churches at 8 o'clock. St. Jean Baptiste church was filled to the doors and additional chairs had to be supplied and when more men looking for seats, and they were directed to the sanctuary where they seated themselves on the steps of the altar. Rev. Fr. Fortier was the preacher, and he delivered a forceful sermon on "Perseverance." The service closed with benediction of the blessed sacrament, after the papal blessing had been bestowed upon the congregation by the missionary.

The old St. Joseph's church in Lenox street was also the scene of a very large gathering last night. With the exception of a few places in the galleries, every pew in the church was taken up and the men listened attentively to a very interesting sermon delivered by Rev. Fr. Allard, O. M. I., who took for his subject "Perseverance." The reverend clergyman reviewed the good work that had been done during the week and also complimented the men for attending communion in such large numbers. He urged frequent communion as the best mode of salvation, and concluded by bestowing upon those present the papal blessing.

Rev. C. A. Paquette, O. M. I., officiated at benediction, and a fine musical program was given under the direction of Telephore Malo. Dooley's "O Salutaris" was sung by L. J. Z. Robillard and E. J. Laroche; a trio, Rosewig's "Ave Maria Stella" was rendered by T. Malo, E. C. Gauvin and E. J. Laroche; while another trio, "Veni Creator," was sung by J. E. Nolet, T. Malo and L. J. Z. Robillard. At the close of the service the choir sang Stearns' "Laudate."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Foye of 21 Marlborough street, are rejoicing over the birth of a daughter, and Frank is nursing around his favorite brand of cigars.

A CHANGE IN FIRM

SIMMONS BROS. ARE NOW IN PART-NERSHIP WITH THEIR UNCLE, J.
O. ADAMS

Two of Lowell's best known and most popular young business men, Herbert A. Simmons and his brother, Warren H. Simmons, have recently bought out an interest in the undertaking and embalming establishment of J. B. Currier Co. in Prescott street and the firm's place of business has undergone a complete remodeling. The Simmons Bros. will now be associated in business with their uncle, J. O. Adams, who has been connected with the firm for many years.

Undertakers Currier Co. now offer to the public one of the most complete undertaking and embalming apartments in New England. Not the slightest detail has been neglected. In an attempt to place before the bereaved relatives and friends a full list of everything that the sad duties of the profession call for.

Not the least part of the remodeling of Undertakers J. B. Currier Co.'s Prescott street apartments is their new chapel. This is one of the most elegantly furnished and equipped of its kind anywhere and is totally isolated from the rest of the building. The new morgue is also worthy of note for in this as well the same idea of sombre grandeur is carried out. In the addition of the Simmons brothers to the firm the J. B. Currier

Co. has procured two young men who are well read and thoroughly trained in the more modern branches of the science of embalming as well as being wholly capable funeral directors. Mr. Herbert Simmons is a graduate of the Barnes School of Anatomy, Embalming and Sanitary Science of New York and is also a post-graduate of the New England Institute of Anatomy of Boston. He is a registered embalmer in New Hampshire as well as Massachusetts. Mr. Warren Simmons completed his scientific studies at the New England Institute of Anatomy and Sanitary Science of Boston. Both of the new partners were educated in the public schools of Lowell before taking up their studies for the profession which they will utilize at the apartments of Undertakers J. B. Currier Co. at 55 Prescott street.

GAMBLING RAIDS

18 Men Arrested Saturday Night—Nine Fined $3 Each

The police executed two gambling raids late Saturday night and early Sunday morning which resulted in no less than 18 men being taken to the station on the charge of being present where a game was being conducted or maintaining a gambling house. Shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday night Sergt. Petrie, Special Officer Clark, Patrolmen Kenney, O'Sullivan, Regan and J. T. Kelley broke into a coffee house at the upper end of Market street and arrested a crowd of nine men among whom was the proprietor, Bill Alexopoulos. Officers Bagley, Dwyer, Moore, Cossette and Taffey made the other raid just before 2 o'clock Sunday morning on Decatur avenue. Frank Parent, William O'Brien, Edward Trumble, Joseph Caspenter, Herminas Moutier, Alfred Duval, Joseph Perreault, Thomas Chouinard and Alfred Columbe were the men arrested in this endeavor. They were all charged with gambling on the Lord's day.

Nine sad-faced individuals stepped up to the defendants' bench this morning and pleaded guilty to being present where a game was being conducted on the Lord's day. These were the Decatur avenue gamblers, and after hearing what Sgt. Welch had to say of the affair, Judge Enright fined them all $3. The case of the men arrested in the Greek coffee house was continued until next Thursday.

Pierre Malville of Montreal, Quebec and formerly of this city, is renewing acquaintances in Lowell.

NEW ENGLAND FARMS

Conditions of the Farming Industry—Hay, Grain and Fruit Crops—High Price of Eggs

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The land and the farming of New England have often been criticized. There are two chief classes of critics. These are composed of people who have known the farming of these states 20 years ago, and those who are seeing it today in a superficial manner.

For a generation or two past the changes in farming the country over, had left the farming of New England in a depressed condition, according to a specialist of the department of agriculture. The reaction of the last decade is now remedying this depression. It was true that New England could not produce some of the staple crops in competition with the land of the Central States, especially when the land was low priced. The present change is due to the large and grow-

Observation from railway trains often results in statements which exaggerate the amount of rough land in New England. As a rule some of the poorest land lies in sight of the rail-ways, while the rest of this region is by no means all of the same character. The tillable land is much more extensive than is often understood, and the non-tilable is a valuable asset as grazing or woodland.

The development of profitable farming on New England land has not yet gone so far, but that there are now many sections where the land is really cheap, considering its productive capacity. To make the production of crops pay good interest on the value of the land, it must, of course, be so chosen as to avoid the speculative values caused by suburban or summer residences, or in a few cases by over-estimated farming values. The very cheap land is often to be avoided also, because it is not fitted for farming and is at the moment devoid of any real covering. Some of the cheap farms are not large enough in acreage, or produce too little income per acre, to keep a farmer and his family. Such farms, however, may form desirable parts of a larger farm business. Most of the real farming is done on land valued at from ten to one hundred dollars per acre and the greater part of it is perhaps on the land worth from $25 to $50 per acre, the whole farm taken together.

The distinctive features of New England farming are due to the fact that the region as a whole is particularly adapted to the growth of grass and trees. So, in general, the kinds of farming which depend on the grass crop predominate. These kinds of farming are profitably supplemented by orcharding, and derive great help from the presence of woodland. The last furnishes winter employment for many farmers and their teams.

Hay growing for the market on the moist or loamy soils of New England is more profitable than corn growing in the Central States. Potatoes on the well drained lands of northern New England and apple orchards on the uplands of all but the most northern part are profitable and command markets which are not so easily reached from other states. Truck and small fruit crops are in demand and are profitable to raise near to any of the larger towns and cities. Market milk is also a paying product even somewhat further from the cities, but is not so universally profitable as has been supposed, when it has to be sold for

Why is it that one person can work all day standing in cold water, slush and snow with no harmful effect, while another with less exposure contracts colds, pneumonia, rheumatism, sciatica or something equally distressing and dangerous?

Because in the first case the body was in such perfect balance that this was "resistance" to disease. In the second there was lack of tone that injured the health.

Keep your system toned up with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and foods that once distressed you will be harmless exposure will bring no fears of rheumatism and neuritis and even colds will pass off hardly to be dreaded.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills assist digestion, correct the indigestion, the palpitation of the heart, shaky nerves and the pallor of face and lips that are the results of thin, impure blood.

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness. Take them as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition and cultivate a resistance that will keep you well and strong. Get a box from the nearest drug store and begin this treatment now.

Send to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for a free booklet, "Building up the Blood."

The prices frequent at points more remote from the cities.

Peaches are profitable in a number of localities in the southern half of New England, as, for instance, on the slopes of the Connecticut valley in Massachusetts and Connecticut, and on favored slopes in New Hampshire along the southern border. The production of eggs and poultry pays well when properly managed, for the average prices of eggs in southern New England are among the highest in the country. Livestock farming which utilizes the relatively cheap grazing land of northern New England is favorably situated, but should not depend exclusively on dairy products. The growing of young dairy cattle for the use of market milk regions and of sheep for mutton utilize part of these pastures to advantage. Other products are of local importance and profit in various parts of these states, whose special conditions or markets obtain.

There are two chief problems in New England farming which the land has been under cultivation for so many years. The first is to supply farms economically. It has been supposed that livestock would do this but it is now evident that in many situations other means must be employed. Short rotations including a clover sod to plow down with frequent regularity will do much to keep the needed amount of humus in the soil. Where land is in a badly exhausted state either more hardy crops must first be grown as green manure to build the land up to where it will grow clover in rotation. Winter rye and buckwheat are some of the most hardy and efficacious crops to plow under green for soil improvement.

The second problem is the choosing of the combination of enterprises to make the farm most profitable as a whole. This very frequently means selecting the best adapted cash crop in a given locality to combine with the dairy farming or other livestock business. It may also mean the selection of the proper rotation to employ the farmer and his teams to best advantage at all times of the year, both in growing the several crops and in disposing of them. This question may usually be solved from the experience of successful farms in the same region or at least in adjoining states.

EXPECT 475,000 VOTES

CHICAGO ELECTION TOMORROW—175,000 WOMEN EXPECTED TO GO TO THE POLLS

CHICAGO, April 6.—The political campaign here drew to a close last night and Chicago women prepared for the first time, to exercise their right of franchise at the election here Tuesday. There are 217,611 women eligible to cast their votes and election authorities expect that at least 175,000 of these will go to the polls and aid in the selection of 36 aldermen and express themselves on the 12 questions of municipal policy submitted.

The entrance of the women is expected to result in the largest vote ever cast in a municipal election here. There are 456,283 men on the registration lists and a total of more than 475,000 votes is expected.

Although there are eight women candidates among the 154 seeking places in the city council, most of the women's clubs and civil organizations have rendered their campaign efforts in the first ward, where Miss Marjorie Drake, a lawyer and geographer, has set out to displace (Ruth) Hanson, John Coughlin, who with Michael Keenan, has represented the ward for 20 years. The ward contains the downtown business district, a mile or more of fashionable residences along the lake shore, and several miles of densely packed lodging houses.

POINCARÉ'S TESTIMONY

DEPOSITION OF PRESIDENT OF FRANCE IN CALMETTE CASE TELLS OF CALL BY CAILLAUX

PARIS, April 6.—The deposition of Raymond Poincaré, president of the republic, was taken yesterday by M. Porcheon, president of the court of appeal, in connection with the inquiry into the killing of Gaston Calmette, editor of the Figaro by Mme. Caillaux. Although President Poincaré's testimony was not made public, it is understood to be of great importance, at that time minister of finance, called at the Elysée palace on the morning of the tragedy and discussed with him the campaign which M. Calmette was conducting. M. Caillaux informed the president that he had every reason to believe that M. Calmette was about to print certain private letters, and expressed great alarm at the threatened disclosure of the secret of the Caillaux family.

President Poincaré tried as best he could to calm the minister, saying that he knew M. Calmette well and believed him incapable of printing the letters in question. M. Caillaux left the palace only partially reassured, believing that he could not remain passive if the editors of the Figaro published the letters.

MRS. EDDY FOUND

Detectives Believe They Have Clue to Missing Siegel Fortune

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 6.—Mrs. Diana E. Eddy, the Boston mystery widow, whom the district attorney's office of that city charges with knowing what became of the fortune of Henry Siegel, the wrecked banker and department store king, and the trunk which is believed to contain the secret of the Siegel fortune, if not the fortune itself, were apparently safely trapped in the Linden apartments here last night.

A swift automobile is being held in readiness at the Linden, at 121 Waterman street, to pursue the trunk, which Inspector Silas Walte of the Boston police and Inspector Caffrey of the local force stated they believe contains the hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of Siegel securities, which Mrs. Henry Siegel charged in her divorce that her husband had successfully hidden.

The issuing of a search warrant, for which the police were preparing last night, is likely to clear up the whole

mystery of Mrs. Eddy, which District Attorney Pelletier has considered of such vital importance to the creditors of the Siegel estate and bank that he has instituted a relentless hunt for her.

In the face of irate statements from Mrs. Susan Brown, mother of James Salisbury Brown, the broker, who has the apartment at the Linden and is engaged to Mrs. Eddy, that Mrs. Eddy was not the "Mrs. Eddy of Boston" referred to as correspondent in the Siegel divorce case, and that she was not in the apartment, detectives here last night said they had located her and to an extent established her connection with the case.

A new sensation was sprung in the case when it was announced yesterday that a summons had been taken out for Brown himself in Massachusetts, to have him tell what he knows of

Mrs. Eddy's connection with the Siegel case, and that a similar summons will be taken out here today.

They believe they penetrated a clever attempt to outwit the authorities when Mr. Brown and an attractive woman fled from the apartments Saturday just before Inspectors Walte and Caffrey arrived to serve their summons on Mrs. Eddy.

DOGS IN THE STREET

WITHOUT COLLARS WITH LICENSE NUMBER WILL BE CARED FOR BY POLICE

Chief Martin Conway of the Police department has received a letter from James A. Cotting, claim agent of Middlesex county, asking him to use his influence in enforcing the laws relative to unlicensed and uncollared dogs. There are a large number of dogs in this city as well as in Billerica running the streets, that are not licensed or do not wear collars, and the claim agent insists that each one of these be placed in the gas box.

The letter is as follows:

Dear Sir—You will kindly impress upon your officers, duly appointed, the necessity of enforcing the different sections of chapter 192 of the revised laws and in particular to sections 137, 142 and 144.

In my visits to the different cities and towns in this county during the past three months I have discovered many dogs roaming about the streets uncollared and presumably unlicensed. The law in regard to this is very clear and concise and I must insist that it be lived up to very closely. The county has had several large claims that have had to be paid which were caused by dogs that the officers were unable to identify. As it is now drawing near the time when the licenses of dogs become due, I feel that it is time to act in this important matter, and I insist that every dog which is not licensed and collared according to the provisions of chapter 192, shall be taken care of in the manner as provided for in section 143. Should there be any information which you desire than is what is contained in this letter, you may be sure of my hearty co-operation by not writing me at my office. Yours respectfully,

James A. Cotting, Claim Agent.

FIRE IN ATTIC OF JACOB CLOSE'S
SHOP IN LAWRENCE CAUSES EX-CITEMENT BUT LITTLE LOSS

LAWRENCE, April 6.—Fire in an attic of a 2½ story wooden building, 314 Common street, about 12.30 yesterday morning, routed a few lodgers from the top floor. It had been the custom of Jacob Close, who conducts a second hand shop on the ground floor, to provide sleeping quarters for men at a small price.

One of these lodgers, Dennis Sullivan, is supposed to have thrown a match into a bed after lighting his pipe and caused the blaze. Attracted by the cries of the men, the police department sounded an alarm from box 224. The fire department extinguished the blaze with chemicals.

Lack of fire escapes and narrow stairways added to the precarious situation of the few lodgers and at first some apprehension was felt for their safety. The firemen routed them out by way of a rear flight of stairs.

Sullivan was locked up by the police, charged with drunkenness but was released later in the morning.

MEXICAN SITUATION

Torreon. Since the outbreak of the Carranza revolution he has had a roving commission in northern Mexico and his exequatur from the Mexico City government has been of little value to him, all his dealings being with the constitutionalists. It is the intention of the American government to keep Carranza with General Villa and the constitutionalist leaders to make prompt representations for the safety of Americans and other foreigners and to look after their interests generally.

Should Mr. Carranza find it necessary to go into territory controlled by the Carranza government he may not be able to do business with his local authorities but there is no prospect that he personally will be inconvenienced or prevented from making observations as an unofficial representative. Neither John Lind nor William Bayard Hale had an exequatur while in federal territory.

Official census telling of the expulsion of the 600 Spaniards from Torreon by Villa were expected during the day. Until the Spanish ambassador calls it to the attention of state department officials here there is little likelihood of any action by the Washington government. The United States itself has issued a warning to its citizens to leave the north of Mexico, where military operations are being carried on and has more than once intimated that other governments might well take similar steps. The right of deportation is one provided for under the Mexican constitution and has been exercised alike by the Huerta government and the constitutionalists.

No request for recognition of the constitutionalists has been made by Carranza. President Wilson indicated last night that the United States would be guided by developments as they arose in determining such questions. He pointed out that Washington cannot two years ago recognize Porfirio Diaz a century ago.

FEDERALS FLEE FROM THE REBELS.—BURN BRIDGES AND CUT WHEELS

TORREON, Mex., April 6.—Cutting all wires and burning all bridges he crosses with his army a retreat General Villa Velasco so far has successfully eluded rebel pursuit. Forty-five hundred rebel cavalry have been sent by Villa to assist in overtaking the federals.

Velasco succeeded in taking not only the major portion of the federal army but also all the pronounced federal sympathizers in Torreon.

GEN. VILLA ISSUES ORDERS THAT SPANIARDS AT TORREON BE DEPORTED

TORREON, April 6.—General Francisco Villa yesterday ordered that the 500 Spaniards of this city be deported. He issued instructions that trains be provided at once and that the exodus of all these "Zecus" should begin at once. Their property will be confiscated, temporarily at least.

It is the tragedy of Chihuahua over again, and is said to express the deep-rooted suspicion and even hatred with which the native Mexican, and particularly the peon, looks upon the Spaniard.

Villa expelled the Dons from Chihuahua four months ago, and since then has repeatedly stated that other Spaniards would better get out. His abiding before he came to Torreon. His abiding before he came to Torreon. His abiding before he came to Torreon.

Villa promised that Spaniards innocent of political activity should not be harmed. This was official, but in talking with reporters and friends he said his temper was so far from being cooled by the recent tragedy. Some of these constantly associated with the rebel leader said he did not expect to find many Spaniards who would deserve his clemency.

Their expulsion, it is said, is taken to indicate that they will be held guilty until innocence is proved.

Villa promised he would investigate closely the conduct of each Spaniard and that in due course, those found to have lent aid to the enemy would be allowed to return.

FOR NEW ENGLAND PROSPERITY

The news of the selection of Boston as one of the centres of the federal reserve bank system comes with timeliness on the heels of the prosperity conference called by the governor for the purpose of boosting Massachusetts, and the choice of the reserve bank organization committee is a good stimulus to the prosperity boom. The reserve bank of Boston will be a benefit to all of New England because it will enable the banks of the region to be free, allowing them the privilege of applying to a centrally located bank for relief in time of temporary stringency, instead of compelling them to look to New York for succor as heretofore. It will also remove the uncertainty which in the past kept the banks of New England from adding many a legitimate business venture out of fear, arising from New York speculation. Furthermore, it will place the credit of New England in the hands of men who are in sympathy with the affairs of New England and who know the needs of the territory which they serve financially.

The next important step in the adaptation of the new banking law to the financial system of the country will be the appointment of the five persons who, with the controller of the currency and the secretary of the treasury, will constitute the new federal reserve board. The naming of this board is one of the most delicate problems that has confronted President Wilson since his inauguration, and that he realizes the seriousness of it is evident from his expressed aspirations, and from the fact that he intends to take the full time allowed by law before making his decision. He has announced that he will send the names to the senate in about four weeks.

It is too much to expect that the membership of the federal reserve board will suit all sections of the country equally and the result of the president's choice may be well forecasted from the agitation that has followed the selection of the reserve bank centres in some quarters. While rivalries and animosities exist between cities and sections it is difficult to get unanimity of opinion and in a federal reserve board of six or so, it is impossible to have all the country represented equally. New England may be pardoned for the ambition to be represented here also, but if the men named be able, sincere, in sympathy with the law and free from entangling alliances, New England will welcome them, wherever they hail from.

ROGERS CRITICIZES PRESIDENT

Neither President Wilson nor Secretary Bryan have shown themselves to be over-sensitive with regard to adverse personal criticism, but even were they abnormally susceptible to abuse they would not in all probability lose a great deal of sleep over the resounding accusations of Representative Rogers, republican, of Massachusetts. We had always supposed that the district represented by Mr. Rogers was one of unusual industrial importance and we believe that his predecessors in office generally found enough to do in looking after the affairs of their constituents; but it has remained for our present congressman to take the world on his shoulders, like a political Atlas. Mr. Rogers may allege that his duties in connection with the foreign relations committee of the house—of which he is a member—entitle him to assail the foreign policy of the administration; but there is a certain unfortunate untimeliness between his tirade and the vote on the tolls question, in which Mr. Rogers differed from the president and favored a disregard of our treaty obligations.

Young people are apt to make rash utterances and Mr. Rogers' political youth must be taken into consideration when discounting his grave charges connecting the appointments in the diplomatic corps and consular service with the campaign fund of the president. Yet it must be humiliating to many men of all parties in Mr. Rogers' district that he should be the first to ascribe ignoble motives to President Wilson, particularly at this critical time when the president needs the honest support of every generous citizen both in and out of congress in advancing a broad and liberal policy. Years will teach Mr. Rogers discretion if he does not let his zeal to discredit the administration run away with his good judgment. He is, we believe, an assiduous reader and student, and he could not do better in the near future than to vary his studious research in the congressional library by a perusal of a little fable in Aesop which tells of an ambitious toad that saw an eagle and becoming envious tried to swallow himself on which disastrous results. Mr. Rogers feels apparently that as a republican he is bound to criticize democratic measures and policies right or wrong. In all probability Pearson that the decision of the suit was this feeling that led him to get into wrong in regard to the currency bill when such men as Senator Weeks, whose republicanism cannot be questioned, were broad-minded enough to favor the bill.

PANAMA CANAL FORTIFIED

Some students of international questions have noted that if congress decides against the right of this country to exempt its coastwise shipping from tolls in the use of the Panama canal, it has no right to fortify the canal, but this view is not held either by the war department or by the mass of the American people. Coincident with the opening of the canal the last gun of the fortifications which will guard the Atlantic entrance to the waterway will be placed in position, and the forts at the Pacific and will be nearing completion at the same time. Speaking recently in answer to some critics who expressed doubt that the United States could hold the waterway in times of war, Secretary Garrison said: "If you could see the great forts which have been erected at the Atlantic and Pacific ends of the canal you would not doubt our ability to protect this most valuable property from any foreign enemy."

The secretary went on to explain that the range of a modern battleship is 12 to 14 miles and no hostile battleship can get near the canal entrance without running the gauntlet of our shore batteries which are situated near the sea for miles along the coast. The American coast batteries are equipped to do effective work at greater distances than any warship, and would thus be able to prevent hostile fleets from getting near enough to damage the locks. Forts have also been placed on small islands at the Atlantic entrance and should any foreign ship get near enough to be dangerous it would have to run beside these island forts at close range. At the Pacific end the fortifications consist mainly in two great forts upon which are mounted the most powerful guns made in America, and probably the most powerful in the world. Speaking of one of the guns—the 16-inch gun recently completed at Sandy Hook—Secretary Garrison said: "When in position this gun will prevent the approach of any fleet, even if all the other guns on the fort were silenced. It alone is powerful enough to sink an entire squadron, and the men who operate it can hit a target the size of an ordinary sheet at a distance of 14 miles, nine shots out of ten."

ABUSE OF TELEPHONES

Sooner or later all forms of domestic or civil troubles are aired before legislative committees; the latest is the evil of the party-line telephone user who is connected with a monopolizing individual or individuals who telephone for long periods at a stretch regardless of the discomfiture of other patrons. Almost all who have been on a four-party line will understand the sorrows of the remonstrant in question and will sympathize with him. Complaints by users of party lines were aired last Friday at a conference between the New England Telephone and Telegraph company and the Public Service commission. The suggestion was made that telephone conversations on party lines be limited by law to five minutes, but the company, through the commission, wisely decided that this plan is not feasible. In an effort to bring about remedial co-operation, however, between telephone patrons and the telephone company, a statement was issued which will help to eliminate the abuse of the telephone. Among other things, the commission suggested a statement in the telephone directory in some such form as the following:

"Satisfactory service on party lines depends very largely upon the willingness of the talkers to co-operate with one another in their demand on the service. The company accordingly respectfully requests party line subscribers to limit their conversations to five minutes when others wish to use the line and to give immediate notice of way in case of emergency calls."

BURN THE MOTH NESTS

The advice of Commissioner Donnelly to the private property owners of the city with regard to the brown-tail moth and cypress moth pests is timely and commendable. Year in and year out to many men of all parties in Mr. Rogers' district that he should be the first to ascribe ignoble motives to President Wilson, particularly at this critical time when the president needs the honest support of every generous citizen both in and out of congress in advancing a broad and liberal policy. Years will teach Mr. Rogers discretion if he does not let his zeal to discredit the administration run away with his good judgment. He is, we believe, an assiduous reader and student, and he could not do better in the near future than to vary his studious research in the congressional library by a perusal of a little fable in Aesop which tells of an ambitious toad that saw an eagle and becoming envious tried to swallow himself on which disastrous results. Mr. Rogers feels apparently that as a republican he is bound to criticize democratic measures and policies right or wrong. In all probability Pearson that the decision of the suit was this feeling that led him to get into wrong in regard to the currency bill when such men as Senator Weeks, whose republicanism cannot be questioned, were broad-minded enough to favor the bill.

FAIR PLAY FOR PEARSON

It was hoped by the friends of the following townsmen, Adjutant-General Pearson, that the decision of the suit was this feeling that led him to get into wrong in regard to the currency bill when such men as Senator Weeks, whose republicanism cannot be questioned, were broad-minded enough to favor the bill.

under the existing law, would result in his remaining un molested, but unfortunately such does not appear probable. The legislature which frames laws can repeal laws, and if a bill reported by the legislative committee on military affairs last Friday gets on the statute books, General Pearson will be removed from his present office with but little ceremony. Without wishing to criticize the motives of the military committee which reported favorably on the bill, it seems that if the efficiency of the militia of Massachusetts were the ruling consideration the present law would be allowed to stand. The Lowell delegation in the legislature should stand by Pearson.

Though the four of Premier Asquith north to plead with his constituents the cause of English democracy was a triumphant demonstration, it was as nothing as compared with the ovation which he will receive when he returns to parliament—the champion of a vindicated cause.

Hearings on the need for abolishing the Middlesex grade crossing may bring the much-needed improvement no nearer, but it will prevent us from growing too indifferent, merely because the dangerous eyesore has always been with us. Hearing may follow hearing but some day we'll hear, and see, the end of the crossing. Haste the day.

The fact that Huerta still denies the fall of Torreon is significant as bearing on the effect on the Mexican popular mind when the truth is known.

HOW YOU MAY THROW AWAY YOUR GLASSES

The statement is made that thousands wear eyeglasses who do not need them. If you are one of these unfortunate, then your glasses may be ruining your eyes instead of helping them. Thousands who wear "windy" may prove for themselves that they can dispense with glasses if they will get the following prescription filled at once: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Optiva; fill a two-ounce bottle with water and drop in one Optiva tablet. With this harmless liquid solution bathe your eyes two to four times daily and you are likely to be astonished at the results right from the start. Many who have been told that they have astigmatism, eye-strain, cataract, sore eyes, weak eyes, conjunctivitis and other eye disorders, report wonderful benefits from the use of this free prescription. Get this prescription filled at once. If you may so surmount your eyes that glasses will not be necessary. Thousands who are blind or nearly so, or who wear glasses would never have required them if they had cared for their eyes in time. Save your eyes before it is too late! Do not become one of these victims of neglect. Eyeglasses are only like crutches and every few years they must be changed to fit the ever-increasing weakened condition, so better see if you can, like many others, get clear, healthy, strong, magnetic eyes through the prescription here given.—Advertisement.

All sorts of waistcoats, long, short, and fancy, have been worn in the senate chamber on various occasions, and in this respect J. The material was Persimmon and the effect hit-tish. Some thought that the vice-president looked like a set piece in the new decoration.

Investigation by Senator Lewis, whose sole day was ruined by the demonstration, developed the fact that the waistcoat had been made from a piece of

of antique khorassan woven by women in Persia 200 years ago. The cut was a little more modern. Mirza Kuli Khan, in charge of the Persian legation in Washington, presented the ornate bit of cloth to the vice president, and, despite the fact that the material is generally used for rugs and table coverings, Mr. Marshall elected to adorn himself and prostate J. Ham Lewis.

Woven into the fabric a design of somewhat gaudy leaves and twigs gave the vice presidential midriff a beautiful autumnal appearance and the Kurdish work was thoroughly appreciated by those who withstood the dazzle long enough to make it out. A Persian maker who was in the gallery when the garment first set up in glory, whispered something to Allah and began a dance closely resembling the more or less fashionable kitchen sink. He said when quieted, that the waistcoat was a song bouquet and that the motif was heraldic. These seated near him said that they wouldn't doubt it a bit, although it was a bit hard to speak so of a small waistcoat.

One of the senators who had just been floored for having a bill of more than $50 for telegraphing to his constituents, gazed balefully at the vice presidential adornment as he regained his seat and murmured:

Such is the vested power of a vice president.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Judge R. B. Lindsay, the famous justice and criminologist, declares that human nature is the same in every breast, and that if the right appeal is made to people who go astray, there is always a chance to lead them "into the light."

This humane theory is advanced in the "Leah Kleschna," which will be shown in this city for the first time at the Opera House today. Produced by the Famous Players Film company in our great parts with the distinguished actress Carlotta Hillson in the leading role this wonderful feature has stirred the city and will have a great appeal for the helpless criminal. "Leah Kleschna," ascends far above the plane of the drama that merely interests and thrills. Its directness, simplicity and power are irresistible. Its moral is powerful and touches a responsive and sympathetic chord in the heart of all humanity.

"PEG O' MY HEART"
Miss Marion Dentler, the engaging little actress who will interpret the role of Peg in "Peg O' My Heart," an adaptation of "Peg O' My Heart" when this exclusive comedy by J. Hartley Manners is seen at the Opera House Friday evening, will have had a thorough experience in character work.

Her presentation of the character of "Peg" would be glad to try and Miss Dentler counts it a privilege to play a young woman indeed to be selected for a role which is considered one of the "finest" in current theatricals.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Besides being of a highly entertaining nature, "Traffic in Souls," the week's offering at the Merrimack Square theatre, will have a real lesson in it.

It is a wonderfully strong lesson, which, it teaches, information that it gives, and warnings it sends out to the general public, are as real as the actual scenes of slave traffic," said to be so prevalent in the larger cities of the country.

Those who are in a position to know state that this really marvelous picture story is one of the strongest instruments in the elimination of vice that could possibly be used. The performance will be given at 7 o'clock and evening, the first matinee performance being at 1:15 and the first night presentation at 8:15 o'clock.

The usual Merrimack Square theatre prices will prevail.

Patrons of this theatre will no doubt be delighted to learn of the return engagement of The Merrimack Square Theatre Players for the week commencing Easter Monday matinee, April 13, in America's best comedy, "The Man On the Box." This piece is from Harold McGrath's book by the same name, and has sufficient merit to it to commend it to all lovers of high-class comedy. The cast will include such favorites as Walter Scott, George Stewart, Wilson, Charles Stevens, W. J. Clark, Fred Harvey, Thomas Carroll, Cecil Loring, Miss May B. Frost, Ivaldo Eddy, Geneva H. Williams, Natalie Rounds and others, including a new leading woman to be announced.

Seats for the opening night will go on sale Wednesday, April 8, at 10 a. m. No other seats will go on sale until Saturday, April 11. Be sure and take early application for your tickets at the opening night and make the return of your favorites ring with the hearty welcome that it richly deserves. The closing of the week commencing April 20, will be "Only Son," by Winchell Smith, author of "The Fortune Hunter," and other plays equally as good.

This theatre will be closed all day Good Friday.

KENTH'S THEATRE
"Just Half Way," a delightful little comedy of life, will be the feature presentation at the B. F. Kenth theatre, this week, with Rinehart and Heritage playing the leading roles. This sketch was written by one of the best comedians of latter day dramatic authors, and it is said to hold a claim all its own.

It is based on a phase of life not at all uninteresting, and the plot is clever. It is, however, delicately woven and clean and sweet from start to finish. It is the first of a series of such sketches, and it is hoped that the Kenth theatre has secured all of them for presentation over its circuit.

"Just Half Way" will be a new and original sketch. It undoubtedly will have a warm reception here, for the piece is not only carefully written, but is backed up by a thoroughly competent company.

Elephants who really think that is what their owner says, will do a lot of interesting things. Their owner is one Robbins, who got the elephants when they were young, and trained them in all Indian stockade until they were big enough to bring to Europe. There they appeared in nearly all of the leading vaudeville theatres and hippodromes. So successful was the act that they have been brought to America at great expense, and here they were featured with a very well known circus. This act differs much from those ordinarily put forward for elephants.

Recently there has been a trend towards a more refined kind of vaudeville entertainment. Notwithstanding this, there is no room in the vaudeville for anything involving of the classical. But Geo. and Carman offer a musical act which is at the very highest standard. Harp and violin duets and solos will be given by them.

Geo. was born in Chicago and since the age of 12 years has had the benefit of the most expert advice for his violin playing. In Europe and in America, he was concertmaster in one of the best musical orchestras of Germany. Miss Carman is a pianist by birth. She, too, studied in Germany under the most celebrated masters, and it was in Berlin that the two first met. Since that time they have appeared in all of the big concert halls and vaudeville theatres of the continent, and they are now making their first tour of America.

The act is bound to make a deep impression. Webb and Burns offer an act which is widely different from most vaudeville acts before the public. They are known as "the Italian minstrels," and they mix patter, comedy, singing and dancing in an individual manner. They have only recently played in the principal vaudeville theatres in New York, and for a few weeks, or until the close of the season, will appear in New York.

Heron and Gaylord have been featured in a number of Mori Singer's musical comedies, out in Chicago. They were eminently successful with their unusual brand offered, and are now going into vaudeville. Their dip has

Sec. Daniels Issues Sweeping Order Banishing All Alcoholic Drinks From Navy

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The United States navy will be "dry" after July 1. Secretary of the Navy Daniels has signed an order which absolutely prohibits the use or introduction of alcoholic liquors upon any vessel of the navy or within the confines of any navy yard or shore station. This order will become effective July 1, 1914.

It is now expected that a similar order will soon be issued which will forbid liquor in any officers' clubs at government posts and reservations.

Besides abolishing what is known as the officers' wine mess on board ship and the sale of liquor at the officers' clubs on shore, Secretary Daniels' order is so sweeping as practically to enforce total abstinence upon naval officers for extended periods. It will henceforth be a violation of this order for any officer or guest upon any naval vessel to have in his possession any alcoholic beverage.

Officers living on shore will be prohibited from having any liquor in their private homes, if their duties require their residence on naval reservations. Wives of officers so situated will be prohibited from serving punches or any other form of liquor at their social functions.

Commanding officers by the terms of the order are made personally responsible for its enforcement and it is Secretary Daniels' determination that it shall be rigidly observed.

Text of Daniels' Order

"The use or introduction for drinking purposes of alcoholic liquors on board any naval vessel or within any yard or station is strictly prohibited and commanding officers will be held directly responsible for the enforcement of the order."

Mr. Daniels, it is known, has had this order under favorable consideration for a long time—ever since in fact he first discovered that officers on board ship maintained what is known as a wine mess from which they were permitted to purchase light wines and beers whenever they desired.

Mr. Daniels is an ardent disciple of William J. Bryan and to the latter's influence is partly attributed the present order. While navy officers have been aware of Secretary Daniels' inclinations on the subject they never had dreamed that he would make the prohibition so sweeping and drastic.

Mr. Daniels announces that he has taken this action upon the recommendation of Dr. William C. Braisted, whom he recently appointed surgeon-general of the navy. It was the secretary himself, however, who called upon the surgeon-general for a recommendation, and there is no doubt here that the surgeon-general knew of Secretary Daniels' views on the subject.

Party Leaders Alarmed

Naval officers who were aware of the proceeding and of the imminence of the order attempted to dissuade the secretary, but without avail. Leaders in the democratic party were also alarmed over it and there is reason to believe that an appeal was made by them for the secretary not to sign the order. His signature was attached to-day, however, before he left this city for Richmond.

The prohibition issue has for months

been hanging threateningly over congress and it is predicted now that Secretary Daniels' action will give it an impetus which will lead to renewed demands for national legislation and embarrasments for the Wilson administration.

The prohibition forces tried to draw Mr. Wilson into their contest when he was running for the presidency, but he evaded the issue by declaring that legislation governing the liquor traffic was properly a matter of local and state legislation. The Bryan grape-juice episode gave the anti a new opportunity to claim the support of the national administration, but the agitation resulting from it was mild compared with what is certain to follow from the action of the secretary of the navy.

May Extend to Army

Already plans are being made by prohibition supporters to insist upon the extension of the principle, so as to bar all alcoholic liquors from the clubs and homes of army officers on army reservations.

The news of the signing of the order caused a sensation in Washington. At the Army and Navy club yesterday it was the only topic of conversation. Many of the officers were so angry over the order that they just sputtered. They insisted that it would result in humiliating the American navy before the world and in giving Europe another opportunity to ridicule the United States. They insisted that the Daniels order would be regarded in European naval circles as the companion-peace to grape-juice diplomacy.

In explanation of the order Secretary Daniels made the following statement: "I am in hearty agreement with the views expressed by the surgeon-general in his paper accompanying the recommendation. There should not be on shipboard with reference to intoxicating drinks, one rule for officers and another and different rule for the enlisted personnel."

Protect Young Officers

"The saddest hour of my official life is when an officer is unjustly punished for intoxication. During the past week it has been my painful duty to approve a court-martial for dismissal from the service of an officer for intoxication. He told me that he had never tasted intoxicating drink until he did so in the wine mess on his cruises. Others who have been disciplined for drinking to excess made similar statements to me."

"Officers are now commissioned at the age of 22 years. Has the government a right to permit this temptation, which too often destroys the highest usefulness of young officers?"

"If there is one profession more than another that calls for a clear head and a steady hand it is the naval profession. Experience has shown the wisdom of having no intoxicants on our ships for the young men who enlist. I believe experience has demonstrated that a uniform rule should prevail in the navy for all who enlist in the service, from the highest rank to the youngest enlisted man or officer who comes into the service, and that the abolition of the wine mess will be justified."

ORDER PLEASERS PROHIBITIONISTS

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Secretary Daniels' order banning the use of alcoholic liquors in the navy, effective after July 1 next, was generally discussed in naval and other circles here today. The order, one of the most sweeping ever promulgated by the navy department, not only abolishes the traditional wine mess of the officers but will bar all alcoholic liquors from every ship and shore station of the navy.

Surgeon General Braisted recommended it after an exhaustive investigation into the problem.

While declining to discuss for publication the effect of the order, navy officials privately expressed the belief it may fall of its purpose—to prevent or decrease drunkenness within the army. In effect the order does no more than abolish the wine mess. No distilled spirits are sold in the wine mess—only wines and beer. Officers contend it is absurd to suppose that men ever become drunkards on beer or champagne. They express the opinion that the order will respect the soldier's soul and prevent their affording visitors from foreign navies the wines which they are accustomed to on their own vessels. The order was hailed with joy here today by the prohibition forces who declare it will have a great influence in the furtherance of the temperance cause.

DIAMOND NOTES

Eight Federal league clubs are confident of finishing "one-two-three," thereby having an edge on the two major organizations, with their fore-ordained weak sisters of the second division. It may be difficult to pick the winner among the outlaws, but it is just as big a guess selecting the cellar champions.

Manager Jesse C. Burkett, may have another record player to hand the unvarnished truth to this spring. Stanley Bates, the left-handed twirler of the Busters last season, is on the border line of the holdout class, if he isn't already a full-fledged member. Bates thinks his salary this season ought to be set higher than it was last year, and it is left to his judgment alone. Bates would raise the ante quite a distance.

Perhaps Bates thinks he is entitled to a big boost on account of the pitching record he is credited with. He is given 10 wins and only three losses. He looks like a young star, particularly for a youngster breaking into professional baseball, as Bates did last year.

From that viewpoint it might seem that Bates was reasonably entitled to a considerable boost in salary over what he received a year ago. But the book viewpoint isn't exactly the same that was furnished at Boulevard park several times last season. There are several games among those 10 wins which belong to Bates only under the rules.

"Take him out!" the fans yelled when he started to fade after the end of the game and Burkett stuck in Burdett or some more experienced twirler to finish. With a lead to start on the pitcher held back his opponents and the game was won by the Busters.

Bates was credited with the win in the records under the rules of the game. But not one of the fans who saw the game would credit him with the actual win. They knew if he had been permitted to remain in the particular game would not have been won.

That's why the record book is not always the safe thing to go by, and that's one reason why Manager Burkett is not inclined to think that Bates has any reason to throw his chest out and pass as a big winner on the record sheet.

He looked like a youngster with material in him to develop into a good pitcher. If he developed his talents properly, he would show any ability that would warrant placing reliance on him for the coming season. He has yet to make good and needs plenty of seasoning.

With the Federal league schedule still a dark secret, the interesting pastime of sifting up the opening games in the three big leagues is still a matter of anticipation. However, it is worthy of mention that an excellent opportunity is afforded the newcomers of Pittsburgh for a debut. According to the National league schedule the Pirates open in St. Louis, giving the Reds full sway until April 23—nearly a week after the start of the season.

Even when the Pirates arrive the attraction isn't a startling one, the first series being with St. Louis. No matter how you figure it, the Reds are withholding a lot of good information by their silence on the schedule proposition.

Wall Schanz, premier catcher of the Athletics, has a lame arm, the first time in his baseball career that he has been thus bothered. In his absence Lynn, who has been a burr in the saddle since last season is fitting in behind the bat.

The Lynn, Lowell, Portland and Worcester clubs appear to be favorite resorts of young players who are eager to break into the New England league from semi-pro or amateur ranks. Flaherty, Gray, Duffy and Burkett are generally recognized as being managers of wisdom and discretion, who will also recruit a valuable seasoning. Fred Lake is not far behind, either, in number of aspirants received from these aspirants—Lynn item.

"He can drive 'em a mile." That's what you're saying down in Portland about Young Clark, a first base candidate in Birch Bay's squad, who is a left-handed batter. It is a familiar saying sound.

A bizarre collection of occupations is found to take up the off season time of the Pirates, according to a list just made up. Gibson, Cooper, Hansen and Duffy are the farmers on the team. Manager Clark also can be ranked as a farmer. Joe Cozadman, Otto McArthur and Joe Leonard are students. There are three salaried, two plumbers and five clerks. That is so used as a butcher's clerk that he is a butcher. The ball horsehide on the diamond. Bob Coleman is a state merchant and Geo. McQuillan an electrician. Kanti-chner is a stenographer.

PARK TO BE SOLD

Auction at Rockingham Park April 15—Flag is Now Floating

HAVERHILL, April 6.—Despite the efforts of the protective committee, of which William E. Bixby and Charles H. Hayes of this city are members, to avert the foreclosure on the mortgage of Rockingham park, it is announced through the office of Attorneys Rowell & Clay of Lawrence that on April 15 at 2 o'clock Rockingham park will be sold at public auction under foreclosure proceedings.

There are 100 acres of land in this tract, grandstand, clubhouse, stables, cattle sheds and dwelling houses. A deposit of $10,000 on the day of the sale will be required and the balance of payment due in 20 days. Edwin D. Flinn of Nashua, N. H., will be the auctioneer.

THE Y. M. C. A. PLEDGE

NOTICES FOR SECOND INSTALLMENT OF PLEDGES BEING SENT OUT

Notices are being sent out by the Y. M. C. A., calling for the second payment on the pledges made during the campaign, when the sum of $52,351 was pledged in nine days. At present $4,753.45 has been paid and over 6000 of the 8000 subscribers have sent in their amounts in full, thereby saving the association the expense and labor of sending them second notices.

The greater part of the outstanding campaign pledges were made during the first week, but there are several bills to meet during the next few weeks, and it is the hope of those in charge that the receipts from this second call will enable the association to go ahead with its work and make what improvements are necessary in the building.

Charles M. Clogston is the treasurer of the campaign committee, and he states that although a great many of the outstanding interest bearing notes have been reduced, others will come due within a few weeks and if the payments are prompt the association will be free from debt in a short time.

DEFENDER OF AMERICA'S CUP

BRISTOL, R. I., April 5.—The dimensions of the sloop Resolute, which is nearly in readiness for the America's cup defense trials, were made known yesterday and show her to be of moderate design. She is 104 feet long, 19 inches, with her centerboard up she will draw 13 feet, 10 inches of water, and with it down she will have a draft of nearly 22 feet. Work on the yacht is advancing rapidly and it is expected to be launched within two weeks.

BEINHARDT COMING TO U. S. PARIS, April 6.—Mme. Sarah Bernhardt announced yesterday that she intended to make a tour of the United States, Australia, Russia and England. She will open in New York in October.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

NO ACTION TAKEN AT SPECIAL SESSION CALLED ON SATURDAY EVENING

The special meeting of the school committee held Saturday afternoon called yesterday for the purpose of considering the proposition to rescind its action taken at the regular meeting whereby the services of janitors were dispensed with on Sundays during the month of April, adjourned without taking action of any kind.

The janitors, at a conference between their representatives and the school committee, asked that such action so far as it affected their Sunday work, be deferred until the month of November, claiming that they would be able to save the amount represented by Sunday wages in April, $640, in other ways. Immediately upon the calling of the special meeting, Mr. Campbell moved adjournment and it was so voted. There was no discussion whatever.

There are at least a dozen candidates for the position of sealer of weights and measures made vacant by the death of John W. Scott, and it is hinted that the position will go, either to Warren Rindon or Geo. E. Evans. Mr. Rindon is slightly acquainted with politics, having served as private secretary to Mayor Meehan. Mr. Evans is a seasoned politician, having served as superintendent of streets and registrar of voting. He is at present in the city in the registrar's office. Mr. Rindon has youth on his side, but that doesn't always count in the race for office.

The Easiest Way To End Dandruff

Stop Falling Hair and Itching Scalp.

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. If you want to keep your hair looking rich, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall, out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

3 KILLED IN FALL OF BRIDGE

Engineer and Baggage Men Crushed to Death—Fireman Scalded

ATTICA, Ind., April 6.—Three persons were killed and about 35 others injured, some of them seriously, when the Wabash passenger train No. 4, known as the Continental Limited, was wrecked when the bridge over the Wabash river, just west of here, gave way yesterday. The engine, a baggage car and the day coach dropped into the water.

When the cars left the bridge the crowded day coach fell with the rear end out of the water and though the majority of the injured were in this car, none of them was killed. The car hardly had settled in the water before the work of rescuing the passengers was commenced and in a few minutes all had been taken out.

The Dead and Injured

The dead: MILLER, J. L., Peru, Ind., fireman, scalded. HULL, TIMOTHY, Peru, Ind., engineer, crushed beneath engine. THOMAS, HARRY, Huntington, Ind., baggage master, crushed by trucks.

Among the Injured are:

Gemmer, Lorenz E., Indianapolis, aged 10; internal injuries; not expected to live. Kraus, Frank, Wheeling, W. Va., cut about head and back injured. Gruswack, Walter, Georgetown, Ill., ankle broken. Cunningham, T. W., Tulsa, Ok., back injured. Slusson, Charles, Cataline, Ill., injured internally. Bliss, Frank, Detroit, scalp cut and leg bone broken. Polen, Yance, Kewanna, Ind., injured internally. Webb, J. E., Peru, Ind., ribs fractured and back injured.

Wrecked by Earlier Wreck

The railroad's bridge over the Wabash river was weakened early yesterday when a freight train was wrecked upon the structure. The Continental Limited was stopped on the west side of the bridge and a switch engine was sent across to determine whether the structure would hold the passenger train. Railroad officials believed it would and the Limited was ordered to proceed.

The train crept out on the bridge slowly, and when about 100 feet out on the structure the bridge gave way beneath the weight. The engineer was caught under his engine and crushed to death.

The fireman, who jumped, was scalded to death, and when the front end of the baggage car was toppled downward Thomas was crushed, beneath an avalanche of trucks.

LARGE BOSTON CONCERN ANNOUNCED A REDUCTION OF 75 CENTS A TON, TODAY

BOSTON, April 6.—A reduction of 75 cents a ton in the price of coal this morning has been announced by one of the largest concerns in Boston and it is expected that there will be a general cut this week. This is doubtless the usual spring reduction, but in view of the recent increase in wages at the mines and the increase in transportation cost, it is considered by most dealers a surprisingly large one.

One company announces the following reductions to go into effect today: Furnace coal, from $7.25 to $6.50 a ton; egg, from $8 to $7.25; stove, from $8 to $7.25; chestnut, from $8.25 to $7.50 a ton; from $6.25 to $5.50.

TWELVE COUNTIES VOTING TO DAY—EIGHT OF THE COUNTIES "DRY"—BITTER CAMPAIGN

LANSING, Mich., April 6.—Twelve counties of Michigan today voted on the local option question. Eight of the counties are now dry. The campaign this year has been hotly waged, many thousands of dollars have been spent for campaign literature and scores of mass meetings have been held.

Probably the hottest fight has been in Ingham county, which contains Lansing, the state capital. In 1910 Ingham went dry by a majority of 10,000. Two years ago it voted against prohibition by about 450 majority.

SHUBERT ROBBED FOR U.S. SENATOR

Referee Gives Morgan Another Draw With New Bedford Boxer

Joe Morgan, the Manchester boxer, still continues to hold the inside track for the fight referees. At his bout with Al Shubert last week at Turner's Falls, in which the verdict was a draw, the Fall River Herald has the following to say:

SHUBERT DRAWS WITH MORGAN. TURNER'S FALLS, April 3.—Al Shubert of New Bedford gave Joe Morgan of Manchester a good beating here last night, but as was the case at Manchester when Shubert beat Morgan by a mile, the referee called the bout a draw.

The verdict was not popular and Shubert's backers protested vigorously. They declared that the New Bedford boy had a wider margin over Morgan than he did in their last bout at Lawrence when Shubert was given the decision. The boys have fought three times, Shubert getting a decision and two draws.

Shubert fought a great battle last night and clearly showed his superiority over Morgan.

J. S. BUNTING BUSY SHORTAGE OF $9000

ATHLETIC COMMITTEE HOLDS ANOTHER SESSION AND PLANS FOR MEMORIAL DAY CARNIVAL

The athletic committee of the Bunting club held an important meeting at the club house Saturday afternoon. The reports of several sub-committees showed that everything is progressing satisfactorily for the big outdoor carnival which the club intends to run on Memorial day. A letter was read from Billy Quail, the champion long distance runner of America, stating his willingness to run a ten-mile handicap against local runners and if satisfactory arrangements can be made, he will be present and make an effort to set a new record on the Bunting track. Secretary Busley read several letters from well known runners and athletes calling for particulars of field and track events. Just as soon as the committee receives word from other long distance runners and decides what special professional event they will run, a full list of sports will be made up and entry blanks will be left at the Y. M. C. A. in Lawrence and Lowell for those who wish to enter. The committee who visited Lawrence last week reported that great enthusiasm was being shown in that city, especially in the Marathon road race from Lawrence to Lowell and it is expected that there will be at least thirty entries for that event. They reported at the sentiment in Lawrence was to take the Y. M. C. A. headquarters in at the starting point. It was decided to leave the matter open as to where the race shall commence, until the local runners have been heard from. Physical Director Bagley of the Y. M. C. A. of Lawrence expressed his committee that he and his men are all seeking for an opportunity to meet the Y. M. C. A. of Lowell in a competition on the field and track and men spreading his association will enter every event and hopes that Physical Director Wicks of Lowell will get busy and get his athletes in condition for the races.

GEORGE PERRY MORRIS SAYS "EDITOR IS A FIGHTER FOR LIBERTY—COST OF PAPER HIGH"

BOSTON, April 6.—George Perry Morris, a Boston newspaper man, told Ford Hall last night that the head of a great newspaper carries one of the heaviest responsibilities in the community. His topic was "Ethical Aspects of Editorial Work."

Mr. Morris, who spoke on "The Press and Society," said the newspaper came nearest to answering the question, "What press the nation and we do best."

George W. Coleman, leader of the Ford Hall meetings, gave a prayer for newspaper men which was applauded.

Said Mr. Morris: "Journalism is a tremendous fight for liberty of thought and speech—one of the great forces in democracy. The newspaper ends in special duty today, and the journalist takes a far higher ethical attitude than he used to. I don't think anyone realizes the amount of responsibility, moral, intellectual and physical, that devolves on the head of a great newspaper."

Said Mr. Morris: "The newspaper is the only necessity of life that has gone down in price instead of up. 'The newspaper depends largely on being able to sense the public needs, to be understood and the professions, it is to the public, but in one side, but at every point in its consciousness. 'A newspaper is just a mirror of the news, and just as good or as bad as the people who live where it is published. It has the best writers in the country working on its staff, and realize what it costs year in and year out, last year, $700,000 for white paper alone, $300,000 for composition, 125,000 for its editorial bill, and many other large items."

He said that while he did not consider the details of the Harry Thaw trial had been elevating reading, at the same time he didn't know of anything that has done more to dissipate the glamor surrounding the life of the rich.

"There are crimes," he said, "at another point, that cannot be got at save through publicity."

Men Driving New Wells on Boulevard as Means of Improving Water Supply

The land on either side of the river boulevard and known as the boulevard well land is the scene of great activity these days and it all has to do with Lowell's water problem. Lowell was worried about her water supply but there seems to have been no real cause for worry. Fears were expressed in certain quarters that the boulevard wells were slowly but surely giving up the ghost and that Lowell in the not distant future would have to look for a new water supply. Within the last month or so, however, experts have stated that there is still lots of water at the boulevard and all that's required is a rearrangement of the wells. The work of rearranging the wells includes the taking up of old wells and the putting in of new wells. The water department has about 30 men engaged in the work of taking up old wells and installing new ones and work of this nature is being carried on at different points. The work is being pushed along quite rapidly because the "digging" is easy. There is no ledge to contend with and after the big pipe driver has penetrated a somewhat obstinate layer of hard clay the rest is easy. The driving machine is operated by means of a crank. In the picture accompanying this article the weight in the tall driver is down. The crank will send it up again and when it strikes the top it is released and falls back again on the point. It is a slow process at best. Commissioner Carmichael has charge of the water department and he intends to install about 200 new wells. This will increase the water producing area and it is hoped will reduce the amount of iron and manganese in the water. The pump shown in the picture is called a "test pump" and is used for the purpose of testing the temperature of the water. The average depth of the wells is about 40 feet and it represents some considerable digging.

At Catholic Churches—Close of Men's Retreat at Sacred Heart—Other Church News

Christ's entry into Jerusalem was celebrated yesterday morning at all the Catholic churches of the city by exercises of unusual solemnity, chief among which was the blessing and distribution of the palms which typified the palm branches carried by the multitude that saluted forth to meet him. The music reflected the jubilant "Hosanna" of the fervent Jews, and in many of the churches processions were held, carrying out still further a multitude to the religious exercises. When the various congregations filed the streets at the conclusion of the services they carried tropical palm branches that recalled to all they met the character of the feast day. Besides the special exercises incident to Palm Sunday, important announcements were made in all the churches concerning the solemn ritual of Holy Week. The Tenets will be sung on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, and the morning services for the same period will be redolent of the spirit of mourning which pervades the canonical observances of the Catholic church for the period preceding Easter.

The mass was celebrated by Rev. Robert McCoy, O. M. I. A feature of the musical program was the rendition of Pro Ecclesia, from Rossini's Stabat Mater by Geo. Kirwin. It was given with fine expression and clear tone.

The final service of the day, the close of the men's retreat, was held at 6:30 o'clock, and the spacious edifice was crowded. The services were most impressive, and particularly so when viewed from the choir loft. The large assembly of men standing and singing hymns of praise, reciting the psalm benediction and in other ways assisting in the ceremonies, presented a spectacle as inspiring as it was beautiful. Another feature was the fact that the announcement of a reception into the Holy Name society had been made and a large number took the pledge of the society. The service was presided over by Rev. T. Franklin Wood, O. M. I., was an exhortation to the men to persevere in their resolutions.

Mr. Wood spoke eloquently of the zeal, fervor and self sacrifice of the men during the past week and said that the object of the retreat was to bring about a great change in the men's lives, to make them true Christians of God, to re-assert their determination to persevere in their resolutions.

By your attendance at the services during the week you have been members at communion this morning, and by your magnificent demonstration here tonight you have regained the love and friendship of God.

You will go out into the world tonight and be exposed to the same temptations and enemies of mankind. The world will call you with its vanities and allurements. But men stand up and be true Christians of God. Remember your promises to remain faithful for as St. Matthew said: "He that loveth his life shall lose it. He that hateth his life shall keep it."

You cannot avoid sin without prayer and the habit of frequenting the sacraments. For God hath said: "Without Me ye can do nothing." In these times of temptation and sin, give up every spiritual life. Pray morning and night. Ask God to guard and protect you during the day and before retiring thank God for His protection. Go to mass on Sunday for God's teaching command us to do so. It is a supreme act of worship and the greatest evidence of our faith that can be shown the incredulous world. By missing mass we rebel against God, lose His love and friendship and incur His wrath and curse. Go to confession and communion regularly for in the tribunal of penance our sins are washed from our souls and we are reconciled to God. And if this is done we will win those eternal joys and pleasures of heaven which are the reward of the faithful.

In conclusion the speaker told the men that the best way to avoid sin was to join the Holy Name society. The rules of this honorable society compel frequent reception of the sacraments and if this is done we will win those eternal joys and pleasures of heaven which are the reward of the faithful.

You cannot avoid sin without prayer and the habit of frequenting the sacraments. For God hath said: "Without Me ye can do nothing." In these times of temptation and sin, give up every spiritual life. Pray morning and night. Ask God to guard and protect you during the day and before retiring thank God for His protection. Go to mass on Sunday for God's teaching command us to do so. # St. Patrick's

Fr. Kerrigan blessed the palms and also officiated at the high mass. It was announced that the Tenets services will be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings at 7:30, and this will mean the crowding of the church to its capacity on those occasions for the holy week. The church was crowded for the last mass of the holy week.

St. Peter's

Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan celebrated high mass at St. Peter's church yesterday and blessed the palms prior to the mass. The Gospel of the Passion was read by Rev. John F. Murphy officiating.

It was announced at all the masses that the usual Tenets services will be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, and that masses on Thursday and Friday morning will be at 8:30 o'clock. The mass on Saturday morning will be at 8 o'clock. The choir of St. Michael's has been rehearsing its Easter program for some time past and a most certain that the high standard of the past will be maintained if not exceeded.

St. Columba's

The members of the Holy Name society received communion yesterday in a mass at the 7 o'clock mass of St. Columba's, and the women's sodality received communion at the 8:20 o'clock mass. Rev. Thomas Buckley celebrated the high mass at 10:30 a. m.

On Wednesday evening of this week the stations of the cross will be held and on Friday there will be held the veneration of the cross and sermon on "The Passion." Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock the services of the way of the cross will be held.

On Thursday and Friday mornings the mass will be at 8 o'clock and on Saturday morning at 7:30 o'clock.

On Thursday night of next week the first solemn following the Lenten season will be held, and will be in charge of Miss Carrie Dempsey and Miss Catherine Condon.

St. Margaret's

Rev. C. J. Galligan, the pastor, celebrated high mass at St. Margaret's church yesterday and will be in charge of the mass on Wednesday. The announcements for the special services of holy week.

The services for Holy Week will include solemn and benediction of the blessed sacrament on Wednesday evening, and adoration of the cross and sermon on "The Passion" on Friday night. Masses will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday mornings at 7 o'clock.

St. John's Hospital

The pretty little chapel at St. John's hospital was crowded at benediction service yesterday afternoon when a musical program of a particularly inspiring nature was given by a male choir, consisting of John J. Dalton and Edward P. Shea, tenors, and Andrew A. McCarthy and William L. Gookin, baritone, Miss Davy presiding. The program consisted of the "Ave Verum," and "Jesu Dei Filius," by Messrs. Dalton, Shea and Gookin, and "The Palmis" by Mr. McCarthy. The service was conducted by Rev. Owen P. McQuaid, O. M. I.

About "Pilate's Daughter"

About 110 young ladies of the Sacred Heart church, under the direction of Miss Mary E. Wood, attended the performance of "Pilate's Daughter" in Boston, yesterday, and came away profoundly impressed by the sublime lesson it teaches, of those scenes and incidents, so inseparably linked with the life of Christ. The party left Lowell on a special train at 12:20 o'clock, the early arrival in Boston affording an ample opportunity for the gathering to inspect St. Alphonsus hall and to pay a visit to the Mission church. All were given splendid seats at the performance, and the progress of the beautiful play, which has attracted the attention of theatrical men in this country, stamped Rev. Fr. Kenzel, O. S. B., the author, as an able dramatist. After the play the entire Lowell party had dinner at the United States hotel. Before leaving Lowell a most agreeable surprise was accorded Miss Wood, the manager of the party, by presenting her a beautiful black walrus traveling bag, in appreciation of her personal efforts in arranging the entire trip and the dinner. All the details of the visit to the play were personally attended to by Miss Wood, and her success is a striking tribute to her splendid executive ability. In the procession of the gift was made in the waiting room just before leaving for Boston, and the recipient responded briefly yet gracefully, thanking all for the gift.

After an appetizing dinner at the famous United States hotel, the party boarded the special, leaving Boston at 8:20 and arriving home at the Blooming station, where the majority detained about 9 o'clock, tired but supremely happy in the thought that a delightful day was spent.

BOYS MAROONED

On Island Till One Swam Channel and Gave Alarm

PAWTUCKET, April 6.—From 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon until nearly midnight eight small boys in the Fairlawn section of this city were marooned on an island in the Stump Hill pond, so-called. In the town of Lincoln, a few miles from here.

The boys were Albert Rigby, George and Jesse Knowles, Clifford and Edward Shea, Joseph Salisbury and Edward and John Lee. They were taken off the island by a boat that had been carried to the pond and sent to their rescue.

The boys, while at play about the pond, came across an old boat which had no oars. The entire party embarked in it and the rising wind blew them so far from shore that they were afraid to jump out, so they remained in the leaking craft until they were rescued to the island in the center of the pond.

Here they made a tour of inspection, and when they came back the boat was nowhere in sight. It is supposed to have sunk.

The boys shouted themselves hoarse, but the locality being remote, nobody heard their cries.

Meanwhile there was anxiety in their homes, when darkness came on and none of them appeared.

Albert Rigby, aged 11 years, who knows how to swim, finally plunged into the icy water and swam to the shore. He ran to the nearest house and told the night of his comrades.

The father of the Salisbury boy was notified, and when his automobile had obtained a boat which had been taken to the pond, the tired and hungry boys were taken to the mainland and sent home.

CARDINAL O'CONNELL

DEDICATED HOME OF ST. CLARE LEAGUE OF CATHOLIC WOMEN AT LAWRENCE

St. Clare branch, League of Catholic Women, formally opened its new home on Haverhill street, Lawrence, Saturday afternoon, when it was dedicated by His Eminence, Cardinal William O'Connell.

The cardinal arrived in the city about 1 o'clock, and dined with the Augustinian Fathers, at their residence on Haverhill street, and at 2 o'clock he went to the St. Clare house, where he delivered an address and received members of the league at the end of an aisle of 21 girls, holding streamers of red ribbon. These presented to the cardinal passed through the aisle.

The ushers and ribbon girls were dressed in white, with large bows of red ribbon as badges.

The mantles in the parlors were banked with red azaleas and ferns, furnished through the kindness of the ushers and the ribbon girls.

The house was filled all afternoon, and a vast crowd remained outside to see the cardinal.

Just before 2 o'clock, a large number of honorary members of the league went to the parochial residence on Haverhill street and escorted the cardinal to the house, which is not far from the corner of White street. Upon the arrival of His Eminence, members of the league sang several hymns under the direction of Prof. Thomas F. Leonard. The musical program included "Hymn to the Holy Name," composed by Cardinal O'Connell; "Hymn to the Pope," composed by Rev. H. G. Ganss.

The president of the league, Mrs. J. J. O'Mahoney, then made an address of welcome. The cardinal's address, which was informal, followed.

President Mrs. O'Mahoney made an address to the cardinal to which His Eminence responded, praising the good work and setting forth the possibilities for good of the St. Clare branch of Catholic women.

For $100 cash the Salvation Army in Washington guarantees the following: A license, the ceremony, a two weeks' honeymoon, a four-room flat, furnished complete, one month's rent paid, honeymoon cigars for the groom and sachet powder for the bride.

Makes $10 Profit

"And on that," says Major Parson George Irving, in charge of the industrial department of the army, "we'll make a profit of $10 for gospel work."

"I've been thinking for a long time that matrimony was becoming too costly. It should be placed within the reach of all."

Still, his office at No. 121 Pennsylvania avenue, N. W., the major goes so far as to show where he "gets off" financially.

First off, a marriage license in the District of Columbia costs $1; dog licenses are higher for some reason.

The ceremony fee is indicated by the algebraic symbol X.

A four-room-and-bath flat can be found in Washington for $22.50.

$10 For Furniture

It will cost $10 to furnish the flat from the industrial department of the Salvation Army. # JUDGE ENRIGHT SUSTAINED

In His Decision in Case of Gardner vs. Morse—Gardner's Removal Fully Justified

Judge Thomas J. Enright of the local police court is in receipt of an opinion from the committee on law and procedure of the association of justices of the peace and municipal courts of Massachusetts relative to the recent review by Judge Enright of the case of Gardner vs. Morse, in which the latter as head of the department of streets and highways indefinitely suspended Gardner, who was employed as a foreman in that department.

In the opinion of all the members of the committee excepting Judge Hubbard, the petitioner was not even entitled to a hearing and the review was not properly before the court. Judge Enright's position was a broader one, allowing the petitioner to bring the case before him for the purpose of determining whether or not the allegations set forth by Commissioner Morse, that economy of administration was a proper cause and that the suspension was made in good faith.

The opinion sustains Judge Enright in his finding and even goes farther and says that the hearing could properly have been denied the petitioner. The opinion as given by the committee relative to the above case, reads in part as follows: "A superintendent of streets, thinking that an unnecessary number of foremen had been employed in his department, indefinitely suspended the petitioner, an admittedly competent and efficient foreman, giving as a reason the desire for 'economy of administration.'"

"The petitioner urged that the use of the word 'economy' in the statute implies that personal misconduct or unfitness constitutes the only just or proper cause for loss of a position in a classified civil service, and that any other construction would permit the wholesale removal of employees under a pretense of economy."

"The civil service laws were not intended to perpetuate every office or employment that might be created, but only to protect the incumbent so long as that office or employment and his appointed term therein might continue. See Donoghue vs. Macy, 167 Mass. 175; Logan vs. Lawrence, 201 Mass. 508; Atty. Gen. vs. Tillingshast, 203 Mass. 535; and matter of Gilliland, 127 App. Div. (N. Y.), 545, affirmed 128 N. Y. 655."

"We cannot believe that the statute requires every municipal department to be maintained forever at the highest point in numbers to which the most extravagant administration may carry it. Where the employment is that of a number of persons of the same kind and rank, the lawful abolition of the employment of some of them must necessarily take the form of laying off specified persons. This petitioner appears to be entitled to no such preference over other foremen, as was shown in Ransom vs. Boston, 192 Mass. 295, s. c. 195 Mass. 248. Laying off the work among an unnecessary number of foremen, paying them for part time per diem would often cause the public to lose the services of the most efficient and valuable man, and no statute requires it."

"In the opinion of all the members of the committee, except Judge Hubbard, the petitioner was not entitled to any hearing, the review is not properly before the court, and the entry should be 'petition dismissed.' The action taken, though called a 'suspension,' seems not to have been in reality a removal or suspension entitling the petitioner to a public hearing and the right to answer 'charges.' It really fell within civil service rule 33, providing that 'whenever the number of positions of a certain character in any department or under any appointing officer is reduced, whereby any person legally holding such position is separated from the service without fault or delinquency on his part, the name of such person shall be placed upon a special list and he shall be preferred for reappointment. St. 1910, c. 500, providing for hearings upon the abolition of offices, applies only to voters. The petitioner's remedy, if he could contend that the motive of economy was only a pretense, would be by action against the city on the theory that the employment still exists, and that the action taken was merely an illegal attempt to oust the petitioner in defiance of the statute. Garvey vs. Lowell, 195 Mass. 17. See also Ransom vs. Boston, 192 Mass. 295. If, however, the petitioner should be deemed to be entitled to a hearing and a review by the court, where the actual suspension is put on the ground of economy, none of the committee doubt that economy of administration is a proper cause, and that the provision that a suspension for proper cause shall not be sustained if made in bad faith gives the petitioner every protection to which he ought to be entitled. Upon either view, a court should not disturb the action taken under the facts of this case."

"Respectfully submitted,
Henry T. Lummus,
John H. Burke,
Charles Ames,
Frank A. Miliken,
Charles L. Hubbard."

"This is the first case of its kind to be reviewed by any municipal court in the state of Massachusetts. It comes under section 1, chapter 621 of the acts of 1911."

100 GREEKS ARRIVE

Most of Them Immigrants, But Some Veterans of the Balkan War

The Greek population of Lowell is gradually increasing and it is believed that within a short time there will be more Greeks in the local community than there has been for many years. The business men of the district are happy and of course they have reason to be, for only this morning over 100 new arrivals came to Lowell.

The latter made the voyage on board the steamship "Patrice," which landed in New York yesterday morning, and they report that many more are coming. One of the newcomers informed the writer that the ship had 1500 passengers aboard, all Greeks, and that among the lot there were about 200 veterans from the two recent wars, as well as 110 women. A large number of the immigrants went west, while others remained in New York. A large number landed at North Lowell, and probably as many continued the journey to Manchester and other New Hampshire cities.

It was stated that several hundred of the immigrants came from the state of California, which was recently captured by the Italians. There are over a hundred boys, ranging in age from 14 to 17 years of age, and they do say that they all have money, at least enough to carry them along until they find employment. In the group that came to Lowell were ten women, who came here to join their relatives. All the newcomers were well taken care of upon their arrival in this city, and it is hoped they will all be at work before many days.

The steamship "Lancia," which landed in New York last week also brought many immigrants, and several of them, mostly men, came to Lowell. Among them was a young Lowell business man, Costas Vlahakis, who left this city a little over a year ago to fight for his country. The young man whose age is 25 years, is the co-partner of a store in Market street and is now in Dracut. Before coming to Lowell he visited relatives in New Jersey and Connecticut, and he arrived here this morning. Upon his arrival he immediately went to the store at 450 Market street, where he met his brother, Louis, and he quickly repaired to Dracut, where he made a thorough investigation of conditions on the farm.

The young soldier served in the Balkan-Turkish war and when the second war broke out he served as guardsmen on the territory acquired by the Greek army during the first conflict. He is the picture of health, and although he enjoyed his trip to the old country, he is delighted at getting back to Lowell. The young man brought over a collection of valuable souvenirs, among which is a large sponge found in the sea. He will rest a few days and will then take up his work at the farm.

SCARCITY OF STOCKS

LIGHT DEMAND AT OPENING—BUSINESS HAS LARGELY TO DO WITH INDUSTRIALS—CLOSED STEADY

NEW YORK, April 6.—The opening of the week in the stock market found speculative conditions virtually unchanged and the early trading was of the same colorless character as on Saturday. Only a nominal amount of outside business had come in over the week-end and professional traders did little. None of the active stocks varied more than a small fraction on the first transaction. The light demand revealed the same scarcity of stocks which had been characteristic for some time and after the opening the market gradually hardened.

The fact that prices advanced despite the paralysis of buying was regarded as indicative of sound technical conditions. Business has largely to do with the industrials and specialties. Movements of some stocks were symptomatic of oversold condition but in no case was the demand vigorous enough to bring out more than moderate improvements. With the prospect of an Easter holiday from Thursday night to Monday morning and the tendency of the market to hang for pending developments at Washington, traders were reluctant to take on stocks for more than a scalping profit. Bonds were steady.

Quotations were held up rigidly in the afternoon but speculation was only nominal in volume and trading frequently came to a complete standstill. Lessened demands for capital, owing to backward business conditions, caused a broadened inquiry for investment bonds, in which trading was somewhat better than in stocks, with slowly rising prices. Appearance of a number of unfavorable railroad reports for February covering a wide range of territory was without effect. The market closed steady. Speculation was deadlocked in the final hour. Great Northern Ore came into prominence with a decline of a point. Prices were virtually unchanged from Saturday's closing.

INSURE WORKERS

Manchester, N. H., Man Suggests Action by Textile Club

Unique plans for accident and health insurance for employees of the Amoskeag corporation, says the Manchester Union, are fostered by former Councilman Alfred K. Hobbs, head of the accident department of the company, who asserts that in many instances mill workers have been misled by insurance agents.

The evil is said to be widespread. It is proposed to add insurance to the various other lines of welfare work conducted by the Amoskeag.

The Amoskeag Bulletin, official organ of the mills, yesterday published a communication for Former Councilman Hobbs which is in part as follows:

Mr. Hobbs' Complaint

"There is a field of work that I would like very much to have the Amoskeag Textile club enter into, and that is accident and health insurance for the employees of this company. I learn of cases very frequently where employees are carrying policies which they do not understand and either through a misrepresentation of the agent who sold them the policy, or else through a failure to read his or her policy carefully."

"These particular cases are called to our attention when the insured is either injured or becomes sick and learns for the first time that the policy they have been carrying for a long time does not cover them on account of some exceptions in the policy which they did not know about before."

"There are two ways in which this can be done. First, by organizing an Amoskeag Textile Club Mutual Benefit association with separate sections or divisions in different mills or group of mills, all sections to come under one general department of the club. With this plan each section would have a set of officers including a secretary and treasurer whose duty would be to collect a small amount every week, say 10 cents, to keep a fund of a few hundred dollars on hand when

Athletes and Athletics

The high school baseball team has been very fortunate in procuring the services of "Nat" Puffer for the coming season and the prospects should be able to turn out a good team out of the material at hand. Dr. Puffer's experience as a player and also as a coach should place the Lowell high school team of this season far ahead of those that have been developed in previous years.

The showing of the Lowell Textile baseball team Saturday gave promise of a great club before the close of the season. With Bickell and Sturtevant in the box, Melman wearing the mark, and the same infield that duked up grounder Saturday, Lowell Textile should come out on the long end of the schedule.

A week from today the fans will have an opportunity to see just what kind of an aggregation Manager Gray has got coming here to carry the Lowell colors this season. If the day is fair the entire squad will be cavorting around the meadows out toward Tewksbury and in case of bad weather the battery men will be out in the next. Particular attention will be directed toward Wayob and Burke on account of their former berths and the amount of talk that has been made about their respective ability.

Billy McMahon was there strong on the sidelines at the Lowell Textile game Saturday. Billy has been playing with the local boys for a week or more and has aided them quite a bit by his experience. He will report at Lowell next Saturday and will be seen all this week at the Moody street campus.

Eddie Cawley, the former Lowell high athlete and now a student at Colby, looks to be in great condition for the baseball season. Cawley was a big factor in every game that the Maine college went through on their football schedule and should prove an even bigger factor in baseball.

Competition between the local Y. M. C. A. and the association in Lawrence at the Bunting club's games on Memorial day bids fair to be interesting in every event. The down river athletes are coming to Lowell with the intention of taking home as many prizes and the local athletes may be depended upon to put over as many winners as possible. The entering on the lists of events of a special feature for the men employed at the Billerica car shops is a good idea and will doubtless bring out some keen competition.

Manager Walter of the Company G basketball team asserts that he stands ready to put a team on to the playing surface of any neutral hall in connection with the Y. M. C. A. to have a three game series. The military players say that the Y. M. C. A. has no right to claim the city championship until Company G has been defeated. Manager Walter has set at rest the rumors that he would not play the Bellend organization with the Lowell team. "Let them play the same team," he said today, "and our boys will play them the three games on 60-40 per cent basis." The Company G manager would like to meet the Y. M. C. A. manager at the Sun office at 1.45 o'clock tomorrow night.

Louis Piper has signed up Mike Lynch, his 1913 shortstop for the coming season and his infield worried have been greatly lessened. Lynch was bought outright from the York, Pa. team where he played last year and will join the Lawrence club within a few days. He lives in Danvers.

The Haverhill Herald is passing out some live dope on Daniel Sheehy's hand of cards. Whether the former Lowell athlete is in just or not we do not know but we will give the Haverhill scribbler the benefit of the doubt (if there be any) and call it a pun. Here it is:

Perhaps for the sake of a little argument it might be said that the Haverhill club is going to make a mighty good start in the New England league race this season. According to present indications the local team will win each and every game during the first week of the season. Haverhill played Lowell the first two days and on the last two days of the week Lewiston will be the opponent.

Manager Jimmy Gray of Lowell is directly responsible for the rash statement made above. Then again, what Jimmy has said and done makes the statement sound quite rational. He has not three veterans left over from the 1913 campaign and he practically admits that his recruit stock is composed of a lot of deadwood.

Did anyone ever hear of Jimmy Gray getting the mail and of a deadwood recruit manager? Jimmy is too old and experienced to make that sort of mistake after such a past. Those thirteen players offered for Woodmanville be a fine lot of junk. They composed the greater part, in fact the entire prospectus of his recruit draft, so why has Mr. Gray left to sit in six vacant chairs?

Therefore, it may be said that Lowell will start the season with a weak team. On the other hand Dan Cline has many veterans and will start the season with a formidable nine.

How can Haverhill help winning the first games of the season? After the local club has whipped Lowell "Red" McMahon will stray into town with his band of Lewiston flag carriers. That's where we hear of two more wins. Lewiston will provide entertainment on Friday and Saturday. The reason for claiming that Haverhill will triumph over Lewiston is this: Lowell will be little stronger than Lowell.

Taking it all in all, the Haverhill team seems bound to take a big lead in the non-race during the first few weeks. The club will be stronger than ever in mid-season, if present intentions amount to anything, so there you are, friends, fear it to pieces.

AS RESULT OF MINING ACCIDENTS NOT TO SPEAK OF THE LOSS OF LIFE

There is no exact measure of the losses from mine accidents and mineral waste, but we may use an approximate measure. If the increasing rate of coal-mine fatalities during 1905, 1906 and 1907, the three years prior to the beginning of this work, had continued throughout the four subsequent years, since congress authorized these mine-explosion investigations, the number of fatalities would have been at least 4000 greater than they have actually been. At approximately the average compensation paid in fatal mine accidents of the past few years, this would represent a national loss of $12,000,000 in the four years. If it is remembered that for every fatal accident there are at least three to five serious non-fatal accidents, and 12 lesser accidents which incapacitate for one or more days, it will be seen that the actual national loss expressed in money value would have been much larger.

SEWER WORK STARTED WITH GANG OF 175 MEN

Commissioner Morse Loosened up This Morning—Will Run Three Shifts on Appleton Street Job—Other City Hall News

Commissioner Charles J. Morse opened the season's sewer work this morning in Appleton and Brookside streets and Varnum avenue. He will have three gangs working day and night in Appleton street and in says it is his intention to push all of the sewer work so that streets will not be blocked any longer than is absolutely necessary.

Mr. Morse put over 175 men to work in gangs of 35. Thomas Teague started in with 35 men at 7 o'clock and his gang got through at 3 o'clock. Then came Owen Tighe with a gang of 35 and they will work until 11:30 p. m. when they will be followed by another gang under the leadership of Peter Gagan and Mr. Gagan's crew will work until 7 a. m. In each instance only 30 minutes is allowed for lunch.

"The work in Appleton street," said Mr. Morse, "is at its junction with Gorham street and that's a pretty busy spot as it has not only the Gorham street traffic but the traffic from Westford and Chelmsford streets. I believe in pushing a sewer job through as quickly as possible especially at a busy point and for that reason I intend to work three shifts, day and night. I have arranged for three cluster lights and the men working at night will have almost as good light as the men who will work during the day. We used to do night work by the light of individual incandescents strung along the job, but the cluster light is a big improvement and will not be in the way. We will lay about 350 feet of new sewer in Appleton street and will connect it with the mainline in Gorham street. There isn't any sewer in Appleton street at the present time. The sewer in Gorham street is about 14 feet deep and the sewer in Appleton street will be about 10 feet.

Varnum Avenue Job
I started another gang at work in Brookside street this morning and that is a small job. Patrick McCann went in there with 35 men. Thomas E. Smith started with a crew of about the same number in Varnum avenue and as soon as McCann has finished in Brookside street he will keep right on in Varnum avenue. We have arranged it so as to inconvenience the traveling public as little as possible. We have about 125 feet to lay in Brookside street and about 1700 feet in Varnum avenue. I presume that we will encounter more or less ledge, but we are going to push the work along as rapidly as possible.

Street Work Planned

Relative to street work, Mr. Morse said: "We are going to tackle the two biggest jobs ever tackled by the street department of Lowell in one year, the Westford street job and the Gorham street job. There has been some talk of vitrified brick for the Westford street job but I am in favor of recent blocks. New blocks cost a fraction over five cents a block and recent blocks cost about three cents apiece. I do not know the cost of vitrified brick but I do know that granite blocks will last longer and, in my judgment, they make a much better street. It will be some time before we will be able to start street work, but when it starts there will be something doing. There is considerable frost in the ground at the present time but it will disappear before very long.

"The job will probably cost about $50,000. It will mean the block paving with recent granite blocks from Chelmsford street to Loring street, pretty nearly a half-mile stretch. More than that, the old asphaltum base will have to be ripped out and this will cost money. The street is in horrible condition and nothing short of a new roadway will do. There is a new big water main down in the street and I have notified Commissioner Carmichael that all the houses along the street will have to be connected with that main before we start operations. It will be a big job, but when completed the residents of that section and the traveling public, in general, will be pleased with it and they will have a street that will be good for 20 years. At the end of that time the blocks can be pulled out, turned around and set in again.

"I must confess, however, that I am up against it on the price that I will have to pay the pavers. The old price was $3.50 a day, but the new schedule calls for $4 a day, and there isn't any way out of it. I have gone through the matter from top to bottom and have investigated it thoroughly. There is nothing left to do but to pay the pavers $4 a day. I have about ten pavers, and that will mean a total increase of $24 a week.

Gorham Street Paving

"The second big job will be the block paving in Gorham street. This will cost a big sum of money, but it must be done. Gorham street is the most natural artery for travel into the city from Boston.

"There are a lot of odds and ends to be fixed up before the big jobs are tackled. There are four streets that I want to have fixed just as soon as I can get to them. They are the macadamized streets which have broken down and which are in pretty bad shape. High, Andover, Lowell and Nesmith streets will have to have a top-dressing put on them.

Council Meeting Wednesday

When the municipal council adjourned last week it adjourned to Wednesday of this week, forgetting, for the time being, that hearings had been scheduled for tomorrow. The hearings included pole locations in Epping and Walker streets and also on petitions for the storage of gasoline in Hurd and Amory streets.

Because of the mandamus proceedings in Boston tomorrow in connection with the purchase of the Pillsbury estate for a contagious hospital, it will be impossible for the municipal council to meet and the hearings scheduled for tomorrow will take place on Wednesday.

IMPORTANT R. R. DECISION

In Suit of Los Angeles Woman Against B. & M. Road—Baggage Destroyed in Fire

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The practice of railroads limiting their liability for baggage to $100 unless a greater value is declared by the passenger was upheld today by the supreme court as valid under the Hepburn rate law, even though the passenger has no personal knowledge of the limitation.

This decision was in the suit of Mrs. Katherine Hooker of Los Angeles, Cal., against the Boston & Maine railroad for baggage destroyed by fire at the Lake Umbagog station in New Hampshire in 1908. The courts of Massachusetts allowed her a judgment of $2133.94, the true value of the baggage. Under the supreme court's decision today she will be able to recover only $100.

"This decision varies very much from anything of the kind ever decided by this court or any other court," said Justice Pitney in a dissenting opinion.

MUSICIANS JOIN LOWELL MAN

Union Was Organized at Woburn by Two Lowell Men

Messrs. Charles A. Delaronde and Joseph H. Hibbard, two officers of local 82, American Federation of Musicians, went to Woburn yesterday in order to organize the musicians of the neighboring city and they report success, for they expect that in the near future at least 30 of the 75 or more musicians of Woburn will join the Lowell local of this large and prosperous organization and ultimately form a branch of their own.

The reunion of musicians took place at Woburn Brass band hall and the affair was largely attended. The two Lowell men spoke on the benefits to be derived from the association and they urged all those present to enroll under the banner of the American Federation of Musicians.

At present there are two brass bands and five orchestras in Woburn and no effort has ever been made to enroll the members into the Musicians' association. A short time ago the Lowell local was asked to send speakers to that city and accordingly Messrs. Delaronde and Hibbard were detailed to instruct their brothers from Woburn in regard to the association. The Lowell men were well received and at the close of the meeting luncheon was served and a social hour was spent.

Prof. L. N. Gullbath, who was recently induced into the Lowell association, has received permission to secure the services of a number of members for his Easter concert which he will conduct at Associate hall Sunday evening for the benefit of St. Jean Baptiste church.

The many friends of Bert P. Tabors, conductor of Tabors' Sixth regiment band who left Lowell a short time ago to establish himself in Wellsville, N. C., will be pleased to learn that he has returned to this city, and that he has decided to remain in Lowell permanently.

Fred Bryant, a member of the Lowell local, and now a resident of Arlington, was renewing acquaintances at the Musicians' quarters yesterday.

Tabors' Sixth regiment band has been hired for the Greek parade next Sunday, which will be held in connection with the observance of Independence day.

Recently Baker sold his property to the Hartford Water Co., which is to construct an immense reservoir at Napaug, somewhat to the north of the Baker place. Since the sale, Baker said today, he had received several threatening letters, one of which declared he would not leave the state alive. Baker plans to live in Massachusetts.

About a year ago Edward E. Baker, a brother, 71 years old, was arrested, charged with having put away alcohol to feed his mother, who is 72 years old, and was to be tried today under $2500 bonds.

Ran Over Little Girl in Manchester, N.H. and Was Arrested

Albert St. Pierre, giving his address as 555 Middlesex street, this city, was arrested in Manchester, N. H., yesterday after knocking down with his motor cycle a little girl named Germaine Blinn, aged five years and residing at 553 Chestnut street.

The child was carried home in an automobile and was very seriously injured. St. Pierre was allowed to go on his own recognizance with the understanding that he would be on hand if wanted by the police. It was stated that the little one ran in front of the wheel.

TRIAL OF DR. J. E. PRICE

THREATENING POSTAL CARD SENT TO WOMAN ADVISING HER NOT TO PRESS CHARGES

NEW YORK, April 6.—A threatening postal card sent to Mrs. Hilma Dohl, advising her not to press her charges was today's contribution to the incidents attending the recent ecclesiastical trial of Dr. Jacob E. Price, the Methodist clergyman who is charged with misconduct by nine women members of his congregation. Mrs. Dohl said on the stand that Dr. Price had made improper proposals to her and "treated her as no man had ever treated her before."

"Your accusations against Dr. Price," read the postal, "are false. I suppose you are another suffragette clamoring for newspaper authority. The prosecution called another witness today in the person of Mrs. William Duke Moore, who made charges similar to those made by the complainants who had preceded her.

NEW HARTFORD, Conn., April 6.—State policemen began here today an investigation of the finding of an infernal machine yesterday near the home of Frank R. Baker in a remote section of the town. It was a small box found to contain after it had been opened carefully small bottles of nitroglycerine in such a way that ordinary opening of the box would have ignited them.

Selection Approved by President Wilson—Favors Merit System for Appointments to Office

WASHINGTON, April 6.—President Wilson today enunciated the principle that is guiding him in the selection of public servants, expressing the view that he did not believe in choosing men who would decide questions in a certain way, but those whom he knew to be just and fair. The president remarked that to him it seemed justice was the hardest thing in the world to obtain and that it required more courage and science than any other thing.

Mr. Wilson was discussing his appointment of Prof. Winthrop M. Daniels to the interstate commerce commission. The confirmation was obtained only after a vigorous senate contest. The president referred to Mr. Daniels as a just and enlightened man whom he had known intimately for 25 years and whom he considered as a man of unusual ability.

Mr. Daniels arrived here today and was sworn in as a member of the commission.

Although stating specifically that the selection of the twelve regional reserve cities had been none of his business and that he had refrained from making any suggestions, President Wilson today gave his unqualified approval to the choice announced by the committee of the federal reserve board. The committee said that from the statistics he had seen he believed the organization of the 12 banks would make a solid structure.

Mr. Wilson still is considering eligible for the federal reserve board but has made of selection of officers.

BOSTON, April 6.—Elaborate plans are being made by the Textile Exhibitors' association for the reception and entertainment of the members of three big national organizations of cotton and wool manufacturers who are coming to Boston during "Textile Week," April 27 to May 2, to hold their conventions in connection with the fourth national textile exhibition in Mechanics building. One of the greatest gatherings of textile manufacturers, overseers, mill superintendents and other experts that ever assembled together are expected here. The textile machinery exhibit will be by far the largest ever held in the world.

The National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, the National Association of Woolen and Worsted Overseers and the Southern Textile association are the three organizations that will hold their annual conventions in the Mechanics building during "Textile Week." The American Association of Cotton Manufacturers will practically come to Boston in a body, for they have changed the date of their meetings in New York so the members will be able to spend at least three days in the city during "Textile Week."

Thousands of other high officials in the industry will come to Boston for this memorable week. From every part of the United States where there are mills turning out cotton or wool products, delegations that will come from a distance will represent the Southern Textile association, which includes most of the mill men in the Carolinas, Georgia and other cotton states. Over 500 members of this association will make the journey and Tuesday, April 28, will be designated as "Southern day."

About everything new or old in textile machinery that is in use for the production of cloth from cotton and wool will be displayed in the big exhibition in Mechanics building. There will be many wonderful machines that will be shown to the industry and public for the first time. Many of these are almost human in their operation. The mill supply manufacturers will also have a large portion of the space, while one whole department will be devoted to power appliances.

The exhibition and conventions are being held under the auspices of the Textile Exhibitors' association, which is composed of about 60 of the representative manufacturers of textile machinery. E. H. Bishop of Boston is president, E. S. Hathaway vice president and Chester I. Campbell secretary. The latter, who is the widely known manager of the automobile, industrial, motor boat and other big and small exhibitions, will be the general manager of the affair in Mechanics building.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 6.—Nine men were killed here today when they were caught by a gas explosion in caisson number five of the New Harahan bridge, under construction across the Mississippi river. The men, all of whom are white, it is said, had just come to work, relieving a shift composed of negroes.

The dead: JOHN LEONARD, JOHN CLAYTON, JOHN KING, J. J. JOHNSON, A. J. WINKLER, P. J. FARRIS, MIKE BURKE, JACK POWERS, PETER JACKSON.

INJURED WILL RECOVER

ATTICA, Ind., April 6.—Reports today from the eight persons seriously injured when a Washburn train plunged through a bridge over the Wabash river here yesterday, killing three and injuring about 40 others were that they would recover.

FOUR PRISONERS KILLED

VARIOUS CAUSES GIVEN TODAY FOR OUTBREAK AT FOLSOM PRISON SATURDAY

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—Various causes were given today by the members of the board of prison directors for the outbreak at Folsom prison last Saturday in which four prisoners were killed. Director Charles Sonnesso declared today that it all came of treating the prisoners too well. They, he said, believed the crowded condition of the prison necessitating the removal of prisoners to the partially completed building where the attempt to escape was made, was responsible.

Warden Porter said that publicly expressed sentimental sympathy with convicts had made the prisoners believe the guards would not dare shoot them to prevent their escape.

2000 PAINTERS AND DECORATORS IN BOSTON GRANTED 5-CENTS AN HOUR INCREASE

BOSTON, April 6.—A few hours strike by 2000 painters and decorators in this city today brought a wage increase of five cents an hour. In some of the shops the strike lasted but a few minutes and in one instance the men did not cease work at all. By noon, all but 50 men had returned at the new scale.

PRESENTED RING

A pleasant birthday party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sullivan, 77 West Fourth street, Saturday evening when a number of the young friends of Miss Theresa Fleming assembled and presented her a beautiful opal ring. The presentation speech was made by Mr. Charles McQuarrie, and Miss Fleming responded gracefully. Games were played and a musical program included piano selections, Miss E. Starkey, songs, Miss Mary Fleming, Viola Starkey, Mary Matney, Miss Donnelly and Miss Mahoney. Ashley Clegg made the hit of the evening with the recitation "That Armful of Cracked Ice." Recitation, "Bunting on the third strike," Henry Hogan. Miss Lillian Fleming was the accompanist. Refreshments were served and the party dispersed at a seasonably hour, all wishing the hostess many happy returns of the day.

W. C. T. U. HEAD PLEASED WHEN TOLD OF SEC. DANIELS ORDER BARRING LIQUOR IN NAVY

PORTLAND, Me., April 6.—Mrs. Lillian M. Stevens, president of the national Women's Christian Temperance Union who died at her home here today was informed a few hours before the end of Secretary Daniels' order barring the use of all alcoholic liquors from the navy after July 1.

"It is splendid!" she exclaimed. "It is another step forward toward nationwide prohibition for which we are so earnestly working." A few seconds later she added:

"Great! Great! Everything will go on victoriously."

Her last words to those outside her home were: "Give my love to all White Ribbon friends in the state, the nation and the world."

A statement, dictated a week ago with the request that it be made public at her death, was in part as follows:

"The movement for national constitutional prohibition is meeting with greater favor than I dared to hope on that memorable evening, Sept. 10, 1911, when on behalf of the world and national W. C. T. U. I made the proclamation for the temperance cause. I know we are to win. In whatever world I am my activities will be devoted to this end."

Hundreds of telegrams were received during the day from all parts of the country. Governor Haines when informed of Mrs. Stevens' death, said: "Mrs. Stevens has rendered a greater service to mankind than any woman who ever lived in Maine, with possibly one exception, Harriet Beecher Stowe, and I think the greatest service of any woman of this day and generation."

"She was a wonder of intellect, moral and physical strength."

"I shall order the flag at half staff in recognition of the respect in which I know this great woman was held by all the people of Maine."
